The first two games were closely played, with each team winning once. New Bedford took a quick 2-0 lead in the first game, but the strong serving of Sara Stanton (13 kills, six blocks) helped North tie the score.

The game remained close with eight ties and lead changes as neither team was able to take control of the contest. The play of Stanton, Kerry Ginty and Linda Jellison helped North keep pace.

The Whalers, led by Katie Toomey, took control late in the game and scored the final two points to take the set.

The second game will go down as a classic, as both teams put on a volleyball clinic. The Raiders, thanks to the play of Stanton and Ginty, went ahead, 3-1, but the Whalers fought back to tie the game.

NQ's Amy Li, who had six kills and six blocks in the match, played her best in the second game with key kills helped give North an 11-5 lead.

New Bedford's powerful lineup chipped away to make the score 11-9 but the Raiders again pulled away to take a 14-9 lead thanks to kills by Stanton and Li.

North Quincy failed on seven tries to put the game away and the Whalers tied the score at 14-14. After ties of 15-15 and 16-16, North ended the game with two straight points.

The third and fourth games saw New Bedford overpower the young Raider team. The Whalers took big leads in each game and cruised to the win.

Other Raiders who performed well were Jellison and Erica Crawford, each with six kills and five blocks.

North Quincy seniors Li, Amy Detwiler, Karen Shea, Missy Roberts, Jen Teahan, Amber Maher, Megan Roche, and Kim and Ngan Ho played their last high school volleyball game.

Sophomores Ginty, Crawford and Kerry Jellison, and juniors Stanton, Linda Jellison, Maryanne Patch and Rachael Repoff will provide leadership and experience next season.

"Yes I am," Raymer told The Quincy Sun Monday when asked to comment on rumors that he planned to leave that post after the Thanksgiving Day game with North Quincy High School.

Raymer, who has been head coach at Quincy for 11 years, also confirmed that he has a coaching opportunity "with a local Division 3 college." Two local Division 3 schools are Curry College and UMass-Boston.

He said, however, that is not the reason for his decision to resign as Quincy coach and that he is not sure whether he would take the college post.

He said if he remained at Quincy High School he would like "to pursue something else" other than football.

He noted that work has

"I would like to be a part of that," he said. "I would like to be involved

Raiders Have Never Won Four In A Row

North Looks To Extend Holiday Streak

By DAVE SOUTHWICK

With a winning season already assured, North Quincy High School (6-3) is looking for football bragging rights when they face Quincy High School at the 62nd time Thursday at Veterans' Memorial Stadium.

North, whose record in the series is 27-29-5, is seeking their fourth consecutive holiday victory. They have never won more than three in a row. Quincy won five straight from 1954-58.

"This is a very big game for us," said head coach Ken McPhee, who has a 7-4-2 coaching record against the Presidents. "This is our championship game. It's theirs, too, but even though they have a tough team, they still have us to contend with."

The Red Raiders will dress 25 seniors for battle. According to coach McPhee, "every attempt possible" will be made to give all 25 some playing time.

Quarterbacking North in this year's classic is senior Sean Dolbeare. He had a few rough outings early on, only to come on strong in the second half of the season. Sean is backed backed up by sophomore Tim Semchenko, who has seen late-game action four times this season.

Among Dolbeare's receivers are seniors Derick Epps, Toby Odom, and Johnny and Samson Lee. Epps is the team's leading receiver and is coming off his best two games of the season against Bridgewater-Raynham and Taunton. Junior Tim Zaniboni will start at tight end and seniors Eric Zimmerman, Keith Martinson and Gerry Fernandez will see action.

In the running department, senior Glenn Peterson will start at fullback and senior Jamie Karvelis at wingback.

The tailback chores will be handled by North's "Mr. Everything," senior co-captain Shawn Nee. Nee needs just 75 yards to gain 1,000 for the second straight season (he had 1,175 last year). He will end his schoolboy career with over 3,000 yards rushing and 4,000 all-purpose yards. Others to see action are seniors Kenny Burke and Sean Mahoney.

The Red Raider offensive line has seniors Ricky Maciera and Neil Kiley at tackle and seniors Joe Renzi and Sean Kennerson at guard. The center will be senior Matt Hourin. Hourin learned the position well after taking over for Dan Reynolds who suffered a season-ending injury in the first game.

Defensively, Zaniboni and senior Dave Carney will man the linebacker spots and Martinson and sophomore Brian Walsh will play defensive end. Both had great games last week against Taunton; Martinson recorded two quarterback sacks and Walsh blocked his third Karvelis, Peterson, Burke and Odom will see the most action at defensive back. Also due to see some playing time are Zimmerman, senior Greg DiBella and junior Jim Rendle.

North's special teams, their strongest in years, will have Nee and Epps handling the kickoff and punt returns. Both had touchdown returns this season. Nee handles the kicking and punting chores.

"Nee is a definite triple threat," said McPhee. "He can run, kick and catch very well." He has booted four field goals this year.

With a victory Thursday, the Red Raiders will come on win closer to evening the series record. The rivals were last tied in 1949 when both teams had seven wins.

Presidents Looking To Break Three- Year Jinx

More Balance, Defense Quincy Keys

By KERRY BYRNE

Coach Jack Raymer will rely on an offense that has grown more balanced in recent weeks and a defense that has sparked for much of the season to lead his Presidents to victory on Thanksgiving Day.

The Presidents have not beaten North Quincy since 1990.

Quincy's sophomore quarterback Mark Glynn has improved steadily throughout the year and Raymer believes this will help the offense when they take the field on Turkey Day.

"Obviously we're gonna run the ball. But Mark has come along well throwing the ball. He had a real good game last week against Barnstable. We'll still try to establish the run but were not gonna be stubborn about it," said Raymer.

Glynn completed seven of 13 passes for 120 yards and one TD in a 14-13 win over Barnstable.

"But you do go with what got you here," said Raymer. "You don't change anything in this game. You don't change the things you've done all season for the last game."

For Quincy this means Sam Brown left, Sam Brown right, Sam Brown up the middle. The 230-pound senior tailback has rushed for over 1,100 yards this year - over half the President offense. He leads the team with 11 touchdowns.

Junior fullback Bill Dunn, a 200-pounder, will lead Brown through the holes. Butch Palaza, Mike Feeley, Matt Strauchon, Pete Kolson and Jeff Burrell are the big boys in the Quincy forward wall.

Looking to break the big play are speedy wideouts Mike Sheffer and Terry Bowman. Sheffer averages nearly 30 yards per catch. Bowman leads the team with three touchdown receptions. He has also returned a kickoff for a touchdown. Wilkins Jeanty and Gino Cardona may also see time at wide receiver.

The President defense faces the daunting task of stopping both Shawn Nee and the passing combo of quarterback Sean Dolbear and receiver Derick Epps.

"Obviously we have to stop Shawn Nee," said Raymer. "But their quarterback can throw the ball and Epps is dangerous. You try to contain Nee, you don't expect to stop him. Their fullback (Glenn Peterson) can hurt you, too."

The Presidents may field the toughest run defense Nee has faced all season. They held Bridgewater-Raynham's all-star running back Matt Pauline to 26 yards and limited New Bedford's Jo Jo Goodine - the best runner in the state and a sure Div. 1 college player next year - to just 5 yards on 12 carries.

Seniors Feeley, Palaza, Jason Bennett and Mike Flagg make up the first line of Quincy defenders. Beefy linemen Feeley, Palaza and Bennett have been able to stuff the run effectively for most of the season. Flagg, a lanky but fierce defender, has been an impressive pass rusher and run stopper. He leads the team with nearly 20 sacks or stops behind the line of scrimmage.

Matt Goguen, Josh Ayoub and John Moss will also do battle in the trenches.

Dunn, Ryan and senior Ed Anderson are Quincy's starting linebackers. Dunn is the man in the middle while Ryan and Anderson have been tenacious on the outside. Anderson leads the Presidents with two defensive touchdowns, one a fumble return and the other an interception return.

Bowman, Sheffer, Matt Miller and Chris McArdle are Quincy's defensive backs. Santoro will come in on the nickel package.

Raymer is confident his defense is up to the task before them: "Our defense has been great all season, with the exception of that one game against Falmouth (a 42-8 loss). I hope we can do the job again on Thursday."

LOOK TO hear the name Sam Brown on Thanksgiving Day when Quincy has the ball. Brown has single-handedly accounted for over half the President offense this season with 1,107 yards on 189 carries.

SEAN NEE, North Quincy's 'Mr. Everything,' leads the team in rushing and scoring for the second consecutive season. The senior co-captain/tailback/kicker/punter/kick returner/defensive back is the fourth leading scorer in Eastern Mass. with 100 points.

Nee, Brown Top Scorers

North Quincy running back Shawn Nee is the leading scorer in the city going into the Thanksgiving Day game. Nee is ranked fourth in Eastern Mass. in scoring with 105 points. He has scored 12 touchdowns, kicked four field goals and 17 extra points. He has also scored two two-point conversions.

This is the second year in a row the senior has led the Red Raiders in scoring. As a sophomore he was second on the team in scoring.

Running back Sam Brown leads Quincy in scoring. Brown has rushed for 11 touchdowns and scored two two-point conversions for a total of 70 points.

Sullivan Quincy's Best Turkey Day Coach

Bill Sullivan is Quincy High's most successful head coach in Thanksgiving Day games.

He went 6-2 against North Quincy as a head coach from 1952 to 1959. Sullivan led the Presidents to five consecutive wins from 1954-1958, the longest win streak in series' history.

He lost to the Red Raiders in 1953 and 1959. Sullivan was an assistant to Munroe MacLean from 1939 to 1951.

North Won Only Overtime Game

North Quincy won the only overtime game in the history of the series, 15-8, in 1975.

The win set up the Red Raiders' first Super Bowl appearance.

North had a 9-1 record, losing only to Brockton.

They won two other games in overtime that year, both on field goals by Ed McAleney.

McAleney was inducted into the Quincy-North Quincy football Hall of Fame last year.

Series One Of The Closest In The State

Could this be the year North Quincy breaks a 62-year old spell?

In the history of the rivalry, the Red Raiders have never won more than three times in a row. This coincides with the fact that the series has been one of the most evenly contested rivalries in the state.

Each team has had strong runs, but no one has been able to dominate the series.

The Red Raiders lost only once in the series' first eight meetings, from 1933 to 1940. North won in 1933, 1935, 1936 and 1939. Three of the meetings were scoreless draws. Quincy won their first game, 19-0, in 1938.

The Presidents were held scoreless in six of those first eight meetings. Their only other points over that span came in a 14-6 loss in 1935.

Quincy took control of the rivalry from 1941 to 1958 when they won 14 games and lost just four. Included in that era were wins of 34-0 (1941), 27-0 (1942), 31-6 (1946), 25-0 (1949) and 44-20 (1955).

The longest win streak came when the Presidents beat the Red Raiders five times from 1954 through 1958. Quincy beat North four times in a row from 1949 through 1952.

The Presidents have led the series since their 20-0 win in 1950.

Close Games Define Rivalry

Close games have defined the Quincy-North Quincy rivalry, especially in recent years.

Only two of the last 11 meetings have been decided by more than one touchdown and conversion.

In 1985, 1987 and 1989 the outcome was in doubt until the last play of the game.

In 1975 the Red Raiders won the only overtime game in the series, 15-8.

Of the 61 meetings between the Red Raiders and the Presidents, 33 have been decided by less than one touchdown and one conversion.

The margin of victory has been greater than two scores in just 17 games.

The Series Record: Quincy 29, North 27, 5 Ties

Entering the the 62nd meeting between Quincy and North Quincy, the Presidents hold the edge with 29 wins.

North has won 27 times. Five games have ended in ties. The contests in 1934, 1937, 1940 and 1983 were scoreless affairs. The 55th meeting in 1987 ended in a 14-14 tie.

The series was last deadlocked going into the 1950 game. Each school had won seven of the previous 17 meetings.

Thanksgiving Day Reflections

THE GAME Brings Back Fond Memories That Never Fade

By KERRY BYRNE

Soon the player will take the field against his arch-rival.

All week long the game is built up. Alumni stop by practice to tell him how big the game is. Teachers stop him in the hallway. People honk their horns as they drive by the practice field. Those from the other end of town let their feelings known when they drive by, too.

Dances are held for him and his teammates. A deafening rally. Breakfasts. Mass. Dinners. All week people talk about the game.

Then, on a crisp autumn morning, the 16-year-old boy takes the field before his friends, neighbors family members and classmates, not to mention the several thousand others who are in attendance. It is a special event, one that he remembers for the rest of his life.

Here are some of those memories.

Pete Zein is 'Mr. North Quincy.' He played for the Red Raiders in their first game against Quincy in 1933. He has seen every Quincy-North Quincy battle.

"In 1933 Quincy had a solid sports program while North was just starting (North Quincy opened in 1929). This is why their first football encounter seemed so one-sided, even though North was undefeated.

"Quincy was stunned when North Quincy won, 6-0. The North rooters went wild, marching with a police motorcycle escort all the way down Hancock St. to their school, two-and-a-half miles away."

Harold (Turk) Beston is a 1941 graduate of Quincy High. He was a sophomore center on Quincy's 1938 squad. It was the first time the game was played on Thanksgiving Day.

"We won 19-0 and we were the first team to beat North Quincy. Before that Quincy had either lost or tied. I can remember thinking about it in the locker room with the big crowd outside. It was a very, very positive feeling. Before the game I knew we were going to win - I had a gut feeling."

Added Beston: "Every year I watch who's playing center for Quincy."

Bill Ericson is a 1948 graduate of North Quincy High. He played guard and cornerback. He is an avid Red Raider fan.

"My senior year they sold 19,000 tickets to the game, plus thousands of others watched without paying. I remember coming out of the locker room and going 'Omigod!'"

"But the thing I remember most are the upsets both ways. One year, I think '45, Quincy had a great team and a great back named Lou Marini. It had rained for about three days before the game and Marini broke into the open a couple of times but slipped. We tied, 0-0.

"One game I remember that no one ever talks about, was the 1952 game. North had Kenny Sargent - a high school all-American - and Bo Lyons playing side by side. They ran for over 400 yards on the ground but still lost, 31-19. A kid from North, Phil Bergamo, had 276 yards rushing."

Bill Sullivan was the head coach at Quincy from 1952 through 1959. He is the only coach in this series to win five consecutive games (1954-58).

"The game that stands out in my mind is the first game played at the Stadium on Turkey Day in 1938. Munroe MacLean was the head coach and I was the line coach. It was also the first game Quincy won in the series (19-0).

"When I was coaching from '52 to '59 every game was a remarkable one. I believe the '54 game I went to the stadium at three in the morning to see if the game would be played or not because it had been raining so hard.

"In all it's been a great series and the rivalry is one of the best in the state. I don't ever remember a dispute and great friendships have come out of it on both sides."

Kenny Balducci, a 1951 Quincy High graduate, played under Sullivan as a halfback. He remembers a great story about a ploy used by the coach to psyche up the team before their game with North in 1949.

"Bill Sullivan gave some great speeches. The old-school, Rockne-style speeches.

"He was a captain in the Navy reserves at the Hingham ammo depot. There was a Marine captain there named Simpson, a real rugged John Wayne-type from out west. A real blood & guts type.

SEAN DOLBEARE will lead the North Quincy offense in their annual Thanksgiving Day clash with Quincy. The senior quarterback has come on strong late in the season.

THE PRESIDENTS have relied on the talents of sophomore quarterback Mark Glynn this season. Glynn has not been forced to put the ball in the air too often but has connected with receivers Mike Sheffer and Terry Bowman for a number of big plays.

Glynn, Dolbeare Ready For Air Strikes

Sophomore Mark Glynn will quarterback the Presidents on Thanksgiving Day. The Red Raiders will be led by senior Sean Dolbeare.

Glynn has undergone trial by fire as a youngster leading the Quincy team. With a strong ground game in front of him, Glynn has not been forced to put the ball in the air very often.

He has thrown just 72 passes in nine games this season, completing 31 for 564 yards and three touchdowns.

Dolbeare has attempted 130 passes this year. He has completed 56 for 874 yards and six touchdowns.

Derrick Epps, the leading receiver in the city, has 25 catches for 434 yards.

1947 Game Drew Largest Crowd

There has always been debate as to which Quincy-North Quincy game drew the largest crowd.

It appears the 1947 game had the largest paid attendance, reported to have been 18,003. In 1946 the paid attendance was 16,065.

Many estimate that close to 25,000 saw the 1947 game, if you count those who watched from the walls and trees, and those who lined the bus yard where the MBTA garage now stands.

Thousands of extras also watched the 1946 contest.

The biggest previous crowd was the 15,000 who watched the 1939 game.

In recent years, an estimated 9,000-12,000 have attended the game.

North In Control In Recent Years

North Quincy has had Quincy's number over the last decade.

The Red Raiders have won six of the last nine meetings, including the three most recent games.

Quincy has won just two. The teams tied 14-14 in 1987. The Presidents have been outscored 41-7 in the last three games.

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL'S impressive offensive line has paved the way for running back Sam Brown's 1,100-yard

Looking For A Favorite?

Looking for a clear favorite in Thursday's game?

Forget about it. Never have the two teams played so evenly throughout the season.

Quincy (5-4) and North Quincy (6-3) have performed so much alike against common opponents that it is scary.

Both teams are 4-3 against their common league opponents. Both beat Silver Lake, Plymouth South, Taunton and Barnstable and lost to Bridgewater-Raynham, Weymouth and Falmouth.

North Quincy went 2-0 against non-league opponents Don Bosco and Stoughton. Quincy beat Marshfield but lost to undefeated New Bedford.

But a look at the scores of their common games is where the real similarities lay. Quincy beat Taunton, 38-18. North won, 37-20. The Presidents handed Plymouth South a 28-6 loss. The Red Raiders won 27-7. North Quincy beat Barnstable by two points (11-9) in a game that went down to the last minute. Quincy topped Barnstable by one (14-13) in a game that went down the last second.

Weymouth beat both clubs by a score of 7-6.

Overall, the Presidents have outscored their seven league opponents by 22 points. The Raiders are up by 19 against the same seven.

NQ 1966, 1992 Teams Had Perfect Records

North Quincy has twice entered the Thanksgiving Day game with a perfect record, 1966 and 1992.

Arlington and shutout Quincy, 8-0.

The 1992 team, coached by Ken McPhee, who was a guard on the 1966 team, had an 11-0 record, won the Old Colony League title, beat Arlington in the Div. 1B Super Bowl and shutout Quincy, 20-0.

The 1966 team, coached by the late Carl Leone, had a 9-0 record, won the Greater Boston League title, shared the Class A crown with

First Turkey Day Game In 1938

The first Quincy-North Quincy game played on Thanksgiving Day, and the first played at Veterans' Memorial Stadium, was in 1938.

Before that the game was played on Armistice Day. They rivals first played at Comin's (now Rotary) Field before moving to Pfaffman's Oval in 1935. The Oval became the Stadium in 1938.

Quincy won that first Turkey Day game, 19-0.

It was their first win in six tries against North Quincy. Before that they had lost three times and tied twice.

THE GAME Brings Back Fond Memories

the game in front of the crowd then went underneath the talk to the coaches. [Coach Munroe] MacLean wanted just the starters in the room. He kicked out everyone else, even the doctor and the water boy, and then introduced Sullivan.

"Sullivan said: 'I don't want this to leave the room, boys. Captain Simpson told me about a secret weapon used against the Japanese in World War II. I had it stolen for us. This pill is what they use to give to Marines when they got shot and had to keep going. These pills make you tougher, stronger, faster.'"

"I was 15, we just blew up a whole city a couple of years before, what did I know?"

"So they come around and give it to us. It was just an aspirin or something. Then Sullivan said 'Now go out there and do your job, show 'em something, boys. Just make sure you don't rip the door of your hinges on your way out.'"

"The North boys didn't have a chance. We're out there on the sideline saying to each other 'do you feel anything? Yeah, do you?'" Quincy won 26-0.

Lionel (Shine) Buckley graduated from Quincy High in 1940. He played in Quincy's first win over North Quincy in 1938. He is one of five Buckley brothers to play for Quincy High.

"When I was a junior [Munroe] MacLean was the head coach. Bill Sullivan was one of his assistants. He gave us a great fight talk before the game. He was really an inspirational talker. 'We could be the first Quincy team to win' was his message."

"He talked to us before the game and at halftime, and we did become the first Quincy team to win."

"This is something you should mention about the game: Tom Underwood was a star for North Quincy. We were enemies, but we were friends. We went to BU together and became very close. That's one of the great things that comes out of this game."

John (Butch) Mahoney is a 1954 graduate of North Quincy High School. He has been the Social Health Coordinator for the Quincy Public Schools for 22 years. He played for the Red Raiders from 1951-53.

"I remember in '53 that when we won we were the first team in win in four years. Our last win was in '48. In fact we were the only North Quincy team to win in 10 years."

"We had some great players in those days. Bo Lyons went on to play at Northeastern. Joe Crowley went to Tufts. I was the captain at AIC."

"I also played against [Jim] Colclough for four years. He went to BC and of course played for the Patriots in the 60s."

"Know what one of the great things about this game is? I'm very close with some of those guys I played against. I have a lot of friends from Quincy. Not a lot of rivalries - even across the country - are like this. This is one of the few rivalries pitting the two schools from the same city against one another. It's unique."

"A lot of those guys have become firefighters or policemen and for years they talk about this game."

Jim Colclough graduated from Quincy High in 1955. He went on to play football at Boston College and was an all-pro with the Boston Patriots in the 1960s. He played in the Quincy-North game three times, 1952-54.

"When you're a senior you get to thinking that this could be the last game you're ever gonna play; certainly the last high school game. Coming out on the field that day certainly feels special: the rivalry, it's Thanksgiving Day, the tradition, being a senior, the last game you might ever play - it's a moment you'll never forget."

"It's a game you'll remember with your friends. It feels like you never talk about anything else when you get together afterwards."

"On any given day the emotions are so high anyone can win, no matter what the records. You're so excited you feel like you could play all day, could play five games, without getting tired."

"I've played in hundreds of games since then, and none can compare to that one. It's the greatest game there is."

Tom Kiley graduated from North Quincy High in 1964. He is a lawyer and an active member of the Quincy-North Quincy Football Hall of Fame committee.

"The most memorable thing for me is watching my sons play. It's even more memorable than playing myself."

"When I was a junior the game was cancelled due to snow and we played on Saturday. The same thing happened when my son Evan was a junior [in 1989]. He knocked down a two-point conversion effort; that was a very memorable game."

"When I was a senior we had a very good team, but I felt like I was wearing Jackie Conslavi around my throat each play. Quincy really gave us more than we could handle."

"We won on a fluke play when our fullback Billy Curran was stopped on fourth down and lateraled to me and I scored on a long run. Later we reversed to Fran Lacey who came back with a late score for the win [14-10]."

"But I have more vivid memories as to respect to my kids. This year [my son] Neil will go against all those big, tough Quincy kids."

Ward I city councillor Peter Kolson graduated from Quincy High in 1966. He played tackle in the Thanksgiving Day game three times. His son, Peter Jr., is a junior guard on the Quincy High football team. Thursday he will play in his second Turkey Day game.

"That's something me and him talk about, about the possibility of us both playing in three Thanksgiving Day games against North Quincy. I hope next year, if he's healthy, he'll be able to do that."

"When you're involved in this game, whether you're going to play in college or not, this is the one that stands out. We've had people from this city that have gone on to do outstanding things in their life, but this is one of the things that always stands out in their minds."

"We've also had some great friendships that have come out of this game. Every year we'd beat the hell out of each other for the whole game and then talk about it afterwards. It's amazing, sometimes you can remember the game down for down."

"It's sort of a rite of passage in Quincy."

Ward 6 city councillor Bruce Ayers graduated from North Quincy High in 1980.

"I played end," joked Ayers, "the very end of the bench."

"I just enjoyed being a part of the team on Thanksgiving and being a Red Raider. I wasn't a starter but I loved the sport and being a part of the team."

"I think everybody, when they're starting out on the Apaches or whatever, looks to that game, especially as a senior. Knowing the teams involved it's a natural high, a thrill that you're part of a huge tradition."

Ken McPhee is in his 13th season as head coach of the North Quincy High football team. He played guard for North in the 1960s. A number of old-timers consider him one of the greatest hitters in NQ history.

"The 1966 game (an 8-0 North win) my senior year was a great one for me. I remember a goal line stand we had. I also think we had five starters out."

"Quarterback Fred Cobban went down. Our starting halfback went down. It was an absolute war out there."

"Don Meyer, a sophomore fullback, ran a trap play right behind me for the game's only touchdown."

"Another game was in 1975 when we had to win and it went into overtime."

"They're all big. They all have their own personality and year in and year out it becomes meaningful for its own reason."

"I went on to play college and semipro ball but there was never as big a game."

Jack Rayment is in his 11th year as head coach of the Quincy High football team. Thursday will be his 24th Thanksgiving Day game as a coach. He was also involved in one as a player.

"My first game as head coach in 1984 (a 14-12 Quincy win) was a big one."

"The year we came back and tied 'em 14-14 (1987) with no time left was another one. But it's really hard to single out any one. Every game is so unique that I can honestly say it's been a pleasure to be in each one."

Jamie Walsh is a 1981 graduate of North Quincy. He was a running back and went on to play college football at Central Connecticut.

"The thing I most remember about the game is the swing of emotions you go through. At one second you're nervous and excited, the way you feel before the game. And you realize afterwards that that's the last game you'll ever play in high school. A lot of emotions race through your mind in a very short time."

Scott Campbell is a 1989 graduate of Quincy High School. He played football for Quincy High for four years and is now an assistant coach for the Presidents.

"I remember when I was coming home after my junior year, the 14-14 tie, my brother came up beside me and gave me a high-5. I never felt so proud."

"The next year I felt we were going to win. When I was in the locker room before the game there was no doubt in my mind we were going to win. Even when we were down at halftime there was no doubt."

Quincy won 29-21.

Mayor James Sheets was a superb athlete during his youth in Pennsylvania. He has lived in Quincy since his student days at Eastern Nazarene College. His four children attended North Quincy High School. He attends every Thanksgiving Day game.

"It's the special point of competition between the two high schools. It's as if the entire year of competitiveness focuses on that one morning."

"I think it's important because it adds spirit to both schools, regardless of who wins. It's the spirit of competitiveness it generates that's important."

Highlights Of Past Thanksgiving Day Games

The Red Raiders and Presidents have engaged in a series of epic battles over the years. Impressive is the number of times a very good team - whether it be North or Quincy - found their toughest game of the year came on Thanksgiving; or the number of times a poor team rose to the occasion against their arch-rival.

This saying certainly holds true: 'On Turkey Day the records go out the window.'

Following is a summary of some of the best of the 61 games played between Quincy and North Quincy. Note the amazing string in the mid-1960s.

NQ entered their first game against Quincy undefeated, but were considered a huge underdog against the more established Quincy football program. Arthur (Bat) Nelson threw a scoring pass to Walter Joly in the fourth quarter to give the North boys the win.

Ecstatic North fans took to the streets and paraded back to their high school.

NQ 6, Quincy 0
Frank Driscoll blocked a Quincy punt in the waning moments of the game to set up Jimmy McLellan's 15-yard scoring pass to Billy Phinney as the underdog Red Raiders again numbed the Quincy faithful.

Quincy 19, NQ 0

This time Quincy entered the game as the underdog, but, as has become commonplace in this game, they pulled off the win - their first in the rivalry's history.

Lanny Lombardi scored twice and Jack Pettinelli once to lead Quincy.

NQ 6, Quincy 0
The Red Raiders entered the game heavily favored but struggled against Quincy. A 38-yard pass from Dave Burke to Paul Clem set up Robert (Scotty) Whitelaw's 5-yard touchdown run late in the fourth quarter.

NQ 7, Quincy 0
North kicked off to open the game and Dave Burke fell on the ball in the end zone for the game's only score.

The loss ruined Quincy's chances for a Class B championship.

Undefeated North took an early 6-0 lead before the 20,000 in attendance. Two touchdowns by sophomore Charlie Sacchetti ruined the Red Raiders' flawless record.

Aldo Lombardi threw two TD passes for Quincy.

Quincy 32, NQ 19
In what is considered one of the wildest games in the series, President Tony Quintiliani stole the ball from a North runner and returned it 75 yards for a touchdown that proved to be the first of eight scored in the game.

NQ 14, Quincy 10
Once-beaten North entered the game a huge favorite but needed a Fran Lacey 5-yard TD run with 50 seconds left to secure the win against the highly-charged Presidents.

Quincy 12, NQ 8
Bobby Graham sliced his way through the Red Raider defense for a 70-yard score in the fourth quarter to give Quincy the win.

President Vin Vecchione and Raider Dick Wanless both scored on runs of over 50 yards.

Tom Malvesti threw two touchdown passes to lead Quincy to a 20-0 lead in the fourth quarter. But a furious North rally, led by Dave Zink and Richie Wanless TD runs, fell just short as the Presidents held on to win.

NQ 8, Quincy 0
15,000 people packed Veterans' Memorial Stadium to watch the undefeated and untied Red Raiders pound the Presidents. The legions were held in suspense until the fourth quarter when Don Meyer ran 16 yards for the game's only touchdown, giving North a share of the Eastern Mass. Class A title.

North led 8-7 at the half and had a shot at the North JVs Topple Quincy, 30-8

By PETE ZOIA

A predicted even match-up between the Quincy and North Quincy JV teams proved wrong as the Red Raiders won, 30-8. North scored first on a 5-yard pass from quarterback Tim Semchenko to Tom Coughlin. Semchenko threw to Jim Rendle for the two-points.

The Presidents came right back with a 77-yard kick return by Eric Nunez to the North 3-yard line. Tim Santos punched in the score through a nice hole made by linemen Jake Drohan, Don McCarthy, Chuck Feeley and fullback Andrew Byrne. Santos also scored the two-point conversion to knot the game at 8-8.

The Raiders roared right back with a 72-yard Semchenko-to-Coughlin pass play. Again Rendle added the two points on a pass from the QB. The lead stood at 16-8 at the half.

In the third, halfback Brian Walsh circled around left end from 19 yards out and Semchenko pitched to Matt Kietly for the two which made the score 24-8.

Quincy threatened twice in the game but were unable to score. A long screen pass to Byrne set up one chance and a series of short passes to Byrne, Tom McIntyre and Mike Russo set up the other.

The Red Raiders ended the scoring when Walsh electrified the crowd by running 83 yards through the Quincy defense.

North Quincy JV coaches Tom Carter and Peter Chrisom named the following for their fine defensive play: Joe McCarthy, Steve Stentiford, Paul Picciano, Chris Washburn, Paul Greeley and Norm Connell.

Santos led the Quincy defense.

sophomore coach at North Quincy High School in 1970. He became head coach at Quincy in 1984.

"I've been coaching 24 years," he said. "I've enjoyed working with the kids. But I think it is time to pursue something else."

Among those considered possible candidates for Raymer's position are Quincy High offensive coordinator Bob Noble, Quincy High defensive coordinator Bob Keuther, and North Quincy High defensive coordinator Earl Metzler.

Greater Boston League title. Second half TDs by Ken Prouty and Steve Carrera gave Quincy the upset win.

and Mighty Midget Tom Brennan gave the Presidents the victory for first-year coach Tom Fitzgerald.

Quincy's Dave Spencer and Sean Thompson played heroic defense as the Raiders were able to score only on returns of an interception and a kickoff.

Quincy Frosh Roll, 32-0

A revved-up Quincy High School freshmen football team easily defeated rival North Quincy, 32-0.

Three touchdowns by fullback Steve Verlicco and ferocious offensive line play by Dan Chenette, Steve Wiltshire, Tom Kelley, Dan Nichol and Pat Young led to the win.

Quincy scored the first time they had the ball when Verlicco went in untouched on a 22-yard trap play. A two-point pass from quarterback Kevin Cellucci to Bryan Dunn was successful.

On the opening drive of the second half, North Quincy turned the ball over to the Presidents on their own 42-yard line. Verlicco and halfback Shaun Faherty carried the ball to the 12, from where Verlicco burst up the middle for his second TD of the day.

Later in the third quarter, defensive back Tom Santos intercepted a pass and returned it to the Red Raider 18. Two plays later, Faherty took it in from 12 yards out.

Still in the third, the Presidents reached the North 22 before a series of penalties moved the ball to the 5-yard line. A pass from Cellucci to Verlicco made the score 26-0.

In the fourth, another North Quincy turnover gave Quincy the ball on the Red Raider 43. Santos carried the ball 15 yards off left tackle for the final score of the game.

Quincy freshmen coaches Scott Campbell and Kerry Byrne were pleased with the play of defenders Jon Caliri, Steve Maze, Bill Armstrong, John Young and Jeff Corey.

All-Scholastics To Be Honored At Halftime

Plaques commemorating every Quincy High and North Quincy High all-scholastic football player from 1928 through the present will be presented at halftime of Thursday's Quincy-North Quincy football game.

The plaques will be presented by members of the Quincy High School 1956 football team.

Ron Ivil and Bob Salvaggio will present one plaque to Quincy Principal Lloyd Hill.

Jack Powers and Eugene (Satch) Cavanagh will present the other to North Quincy Principal Peter Chrisom.

The plaques are scheduled to be placed in the pride rooms at each high school.

Ivil and his brothers

Bobby and Matt have done a great deal of research trying to locate the names of every all-scholastic, the records of which date back 67 years. They have had trouble locating the records of 1931.

Sponsors of the ceremony include Vin Moscardelli of Central Real Estate, Cathryn and Bob Leonard of Comtronix, and Derbes Bros.

Quincy 16, NQ 6
One of the best Quincy squads in history entered the game undefeated and untied but needed an 87-yard Steve McCarthy punt return and a Bill Maver field goal - both in the final quarter - to fend off the upset-minded Red Raiders.

Quincy 14, NQ 13
Preston Carroll scored two second-half TDs and a two-point conversion for the Presidents. NQ's Brian Doherty threw a 63-yard scoring strike to Brian Donaghey in the fourth quarter to bring the Raiders to within one. They were unable to punch in the two points.

NQ 15, Quincy 8
The Red Raiders were undefeated and untied but were forced to battle into overtime - the only in the rivalry's history - in order to gain a Super Bowl berth. Brian Doherty scored both touchdowns for North Quincy.

Quincy 13, NQ 7
The Raiders led 7-0 in the fourth quarter but touchdowns by John Cahill

Quincy 14, NQ 12
Defensive tackle John O'Callahan returned an interception for what proved to be the decisive TD for the Presidents. A late interception by Bill Shaughnessy thwarted a Red Raider comeback bid.

NQ 7, Quincy 6
Both teams entered the game with poor records - Quincy was winless - and the game was played under what many consider the most miserable conditions in the history of the series. But that didn't prevent a dramatic game as the Red Raiders stopped a two-point conversion in the fourth quarter to seal the win.

Quincy 14, NQ 14
The Presidents entered the game winless, but QB Chris Noble led them on an 80-yard drive in the final two minutes. He threw to Sean Munroe for the tying touchdown with just one second left in the game.

NQ 27, Quincy 26
In the second-highest scoring game in the history of the series (Quincy beat North, 44-20, in 1955), the Red Raiders batted away a pass in the end zone on the game's final play to hold on to the victory.

North's Dan Gilmartin and Quincy's Mark Bogan each ran for over 160 yards. The game was played on the Saturday following Thanksgiving due to blizzard conditions on the holiday.

The Presidents entered the game with just one loss but found themselves trailing, 17-0, in the second quarter.

Mark Bogan - in what many consider the greatest single performance in Q-NQ history - scored three TDs for Quincy. He had another three called back by penalties in the fourth quarter. Two were interception returns.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

It is not too early to begin thinking of the things for which we are thankful . . . the things we will include in our blessings on Thanksgiving Day.

A lot of people include the big things . . . things like peace, freedom, sufficient food, clothing and shelter, good health for friends and loved ones.

Yet, we think it important that we also include some of the smaller gifts we receive during the year . . . the friendly greetings from both acquaintances and strangers . . . visits we've had from relatives, friends and new neighbors . . . thanks to those who have taught our children . . . The list is endless . . .

On Thanksgiving Day, most of us will all down before a food-laden table and we will express our gratitude for the bounties and blessings we enjoy BUT . . .

Let us not forget that there are some out there who do not share in these blessings and bounties. If there is a way you can improve their situation, then your Thanksgiving Day will be more complete . . . HAPPY THANKSGIVING DAY . . .

Q-NQ Alumni Hockey Game Saturday

The Quincy-North Quincy alumni hockey game will take place Saturday night, Nov. 26, at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Former players from the years 1961-79 will face off at 7:10. The 1980-1990 alumni will do battle at 8:20.

Each school will dress

48 former hockey players in an effort to raise money for the hockey programs at each school. A number of the participants have traveled from out of state to take part in the program, according to event coordinator Nancy (Morrissey) Stone. Joel Perlmutter, the 'Voice of the Boston Bruins,' will announce the game. Olympic bronze medalist Karen Cashman will drop the first puck.

The cost to attend is $5 for adults and $3 for students. Children under 12 can go for free.

Stone and Michelle (Bini) Stenberg are the forces behind the event.

St. Moritz Devils Win Two

The St. Moritz Devils squirt major hockey team beat the Assabet Valley Patriots and the Bay State Sharks at the Devils' home rink at UMass-Boston this weekend.

St. Moritz beat the Patriots, 2-1, in a nail biter.

While it appeared the bigger and faster Devils had control of the game, the only score in the first two periods was by the Patriots.

The Devils' aggressive style of play finally led to two quick goals in the final six minutes of the game. Steve Segalla of Quincy scored the first goal off passes from brother John and Ryan McInnis of Wellesley.

The trio also combined on the game-winner. This time John Segalla blasted the puck past the outstretched glove of the Patriot goalie.

Outstanding goaltending by Nick Sarno of Milton and Josh Wallace of Somerville kept the Patriots at bay. Aggressive defense by Tim Egan of Braintree, Pat Balaconis of South Boston and Kevin Lynch of Milton frustrated the Patriot attack.

The Devils edged the Sharks, 4-3.

St. Moritz took a 1-0 lead when Steve Segalla was assisted by his brother John.

After the Sharks scored twice, Miah Hasson of Quincy tied the contest with a beautiful wrist shot. James McDonald of Everett made the assist.

Steve Cavanaugh of Hingham gave the Devils a 3-2 lead when he uncorked a blistering slap shot from the blue line for the only goal of the second period. He was set up by great passes from Tom Hughes of Quincy and Balaconis.

In the third period, Brett Wood of Newton set up John Segalla for the game-winner.

Outstanding checking and great defense by Richie Howe of Milton was one of the keys to the win.

Pee Wee House

Colonial Federal Alone In First

Colonial Federal topped Skinner's Winners, 5-2, to gain sole possession of first place in the Pee Wee House League.

Scott MacDonald paced the win with two goals. Ryan Doyle, Mike D. Sullivan and Chris Murphy also lit the lamp. Doyle (2), Sullivan, MacDonald, Joe Ardagna and Andrew Nestor were the assist-makers.

Tom Maloney and Rene Lumaghini scored for Skinner's. Paul Zenga, Graham McShane, Tim O'Connor and Lumaghini notched assists.

Neponset Valley Survey stayed in a tie for second place with an 11-7 win over Marina Bay Taxi that featured hat tricks by Matt O'Connell and Dan Kennedy.

Joe Thorley netted two for the winning club. Single tallies were recorded by Martin McGrath, Conrad Leger and Paul Burke.

Ryan Murray set up three goals. With one assist were Rob Rice, Matt Gregory, John Mooney, Steve Goff, Kennedy, Burke and O'Connell.

Paul Markarian recorded a hat trick for Marina Bay Taxi. Matt Petit, Sean Fennelly, Jim Mateu and Mark Giese also scored. Picking up the assists were Mateu (2), Giese (2), Joe Callahan, Spike Bertucci, Kiva Tupe and Joe Towter. Matt Minicucci's hat trick led Mike Morrissey Club to a 7-5 win over Keohane's.

Mike C. Sullivan and Joe Paquette split the other four winning tallies. Assists were dished out by Brian Nolan (3), Mike Campanale (2), Dan Jones, Duncan Devlin, Chris Griffin, John Cooper and Mike Cunniff.

Shane Kabilian led Keohane's with two goals. Kevin Mason, Chris Lumaghini and Mark Fitzpatrick also lit the lamp. Lumaghini made two assists. Mike Carloni had one assist and Stephen King was shining when he dished out one.

Pee Wee House League standings: Colonial Federal, 5-1; Skinner's, 4-2; Neponset, 4-2; Marina Bay, 3-2-1; Morrissey Club, 1-5; Keohane's, 0-5-1.

Squirt House

Doran Puts Hold On First Place

Doran & Horrigan put a hold on first place in the Squirt House League with an 11-8 win over Quincy Sun.

Jimmy Cashins and Jill McInnis led the first-place effort with three goals each. John Ryan and Chris Anderson netted two apiece. Mike Donelin also scored. Assists were made by Ryan Tobin (2), Cashins (2), Pam Sullivan, Shawn Richardson, Corey Piazza, Steve Dunn and McInnis. David Germain and Matt Conso picked up hat tricks for Quincy Sun. Bruce Maggio netted the other two goals. Germain added three assists to his game-leading point totals. Other assists were made by Conso, Rob Mooney, Steve Summering, Dan Sheehan, Bob Donovan and Wayne Moynihan.

Burgin Platner's John Chevalier was the day's top goal scorer as his club battled to an 8-3 tie with Johnson Motor Parts.

Andrew Flores (2), Joe Cunningham and Lauren Struzik also scored for Burgin. The assists were dished out by Cunningham (2), Peter Turowski, Bill

McKeon, Greg Sommers and Brett Williams.

Brian (The Flying Irishman) O'Hanley led Johnson with three goals. Jordan Virtue (2), Tim Coughlin, Andrew Mahoney and Shaun Flaherty also scored. Virtue's three assists made him the top point man in the contest. Flaherty, O'Hanley and Jimmy Kuhn also made assists.

Dan Coughlin (Granite Auto) and Ryan Donahue (Green Environmental) both notched hat tricks as their clubs skated to a 5-5 tie.

Ryan Rogers netted the other two Granite goals. Jeff Atkins assisted on all five goals. Others assisting were Rogers (2) and Mike Doyle.

Mike Cox and Ryan McFarland picked up single tallies for Green. Joe Fitzpatrick (2), John Mateu and Bryan Cooper assisted.

It was a week of trades in the Mite House League as several teams jockeyed for talent.

Andrew Pangraze scored the week's only hat trick as he led Paul Harold Club to a 5-2 win over Purdy's Ice Cream.

Brian Lynch netted the other two goals for the winning club. Ryan Feldhoff (2), Mike Tetreault and Lynch made the assists.

Marc McGinnis and Matt Grazioso scored for Purdy's. Tim Duggan and David Oronte dishd out the assists.

Danny Sullivan scored twice to pace Barry's Deli to a 4-1 win over M. Sugarman Co.

Jarrod Swierk and Kyle Carmody were the other goal scorers for the winning squad. Matt Germain, Andy Donovan, Steve Cassidy and Bob Gagliard set up the scores.

Six different players lit the lamp for Lydon Russell as they beat Samoset Pharmacy, 7-4.

Brendan Linnane was the only multi-goal scorer with two. Dan Durocher, Matt O'Leary, Justin Thorley, Joe Norris and Pat Maxey also tallied. Kristen DiMattio, O'Leary, Durocher and Maxey picked up two assists each. Norris, Thorley, Linnane and Mike Nord had single assists.

Steve Ohlson scored twice for Samoset. Ed Laura and Bret Martinson netted one goal apiece. Martinson and Jessica Poggi added two assists. Matt Lavery, Tim Sommers and Chris Tierney chalked up one assist each.

Pat Casper scored twice to lead Doherty & White to a 5-2 win over Granite Rail.

Steve Crispo, Ben Metcalfe and Matt Jones also tallied for the winning club. Assists were handed out by Mark DeCoste, Taylor Reinhardt, Nick Puopolo, Bill Jones and Crispo.

Gene Nazzaro and Josh Giordani notched the Granite Rail goals. Kevin Richardson assisted on both goals.

SNOW ORDINANCE

The Quincy Municipal Code is hereby revised by amending Title 10, "Vehicles & Traffic," Chapter 10.20, "Stopping, Standing and Parking," Section 10.20.130, "Vehicles Interfering with Snow Removal - Removal - Authority - Recovery Fees" by deleting the entire paragraph and adding the following:

Any vehicle which is left on any street or roadway so that it obstructs the plowing or removal of snow from that street or roadway may be removed from that street or roadway by direction of the Chief of Police or Commissioner of Public Works, provided temporary signs are erected.

Any vehicle which is left on any street or roadway under any of the following conditions shall be subject to established fines for blocking snow removal and may be removed from that Street or roadway by direction of the Chief of Police or Commissioner of Public Works.

- A. Parking overnight without a Resident Parking Permit authorizing a vehicle to park in excess of two hours between the hours of 1:00 AM and 7:00 AM of any day. Vehicle must bear a distinctive permit issued by the Quincy Police Department. Said permits shall be valid for one year from date of issue and shall cost $10.00. Said permit may be revoked for cause at any time. Such permit does not allow parking of any vehicle in violation of any other rule or regulation including restrictive parking for street sweeping.
- B. Parking on the following emergency arteries during a declared snow emergency, provided signs are posted:

Adams	E. Squantum	Parkingway
Atlantic	Faxon Park	Penn
Beach	Fenno	Quarry
Beale	Foster	Rawson
Bellevue	Franklin Street & Avenue	Revere

Cottage	Maple	West
DesMoines	McGrath	West Elm
Dimmock	Mechanic	West Squantum
Dorchester	Newbury	Whitwell
E. Howard	Newport	Willard
Elm Street & Avenue	Palmer	Willson

- C. Parking during a declared "Snow Emergency" on any street or roadway where parking is ordinarily prohibited in accordance with Sections 10.20.030 through 10.20.070 of this Municipal Code.
- D. Parking during a declared "Snow Emergency" on the odd number side of the street in an even number winter* year.
- E. Parking during a declared "Snow Emergency" on the even numbered side of the street in an odd numbered winter* year.

*A winter year is the year in which the winter season begins (i.e. the winter year for the snow season beginning on October 1, 1993 and ending in the spring of 1994 is 1993). Thus, parking is not allowed on the even numbered side of the street during a declared snow emergency for the 1993-1994 winter.

The owner of any vehicle found in violation of any of these provisions shall be liable to the City in the sum of Fines and Penalties authorized in Section 10.20.240 and to the City's authorized towing company for removal and storage of the vehicle in accordance with M.G.L. Ch. 40, Sec. 22D (Ter. Ed.).

Koch To Parks Dept., McFarland Ex. Secretary,

Currently, Cattaneo makes $52,500 annually as parks, forestry and cemetery executive director. Koch earns $45,000 a year as the mayor's executive secretary, and McFarland makes $47,500 a year as purchasing director.

Sheets called Cattaneo "an outstanding human being" and praised him for his years of service to the city.

McFarland, 40, has served as the Quincy's purchasing director since February after replacing Robert Denvir, who retired. Reached by telephone, McFarland said he also is happy about his new position.

"I'm excited," he said. "I'm looking forward to it. It's going to be fun, something a little different."

McFarland has been owner of Barry's Deli in Wollaston for 16 years and worked strictly in the private sector prior to being named purchasing director.

Gillon To Leave Traffic Post For Boston

according to Sheets.

Gillon was reluctant to discuss his new salary but confirmed that Sheets' figures were accurate.

"That's basically what it comes down to, yeah," he said.

Gillon, who became the city's traffic engineer in April 1992, said he will miss working for Sheets.

"I enjoyed every day in the City of Quincy, but then Boston made me the proverbial offer I couldn't refuse," said Gillon, who added that he had been negotiating with Boston since last spring. "I've enjoyed working for the mayor, the city councillors and the people of Quincy, and my one regret is leaving his (Sheets') administration. He's a fantastic mayor."

Gillon served as director of transportation for the Town of Brookline from 1977-79 and then worked at Sasaki Associates, a Watertown-based landscape/design firm, from 1979-83. He subsequently returned to Brookline and also headed his own firm, Gillon Associates in Norwood, before coming to Quincy.

Gillon said Boston will allow him a transitional period to hand over several projects he is leaving behind in Quincy to his successor. Among those projects are the planned construction of the Quincy Center concourse, plans for a commuter rail station in the city, the coming of Wal-Mart in Quincy Point and proposed Shaw's and Stop & Shop supermarkets in the northern part of the city.

Reno Pledges Here To Preserve Crime Bill

U.S. Attorney General Janet Reno has promised to stay with the new Republican leadership in Congress to preserve police hiring and crime prevention programs in the $30 billion crime law passed in August.

Reno made her comments during an appearance last Thursday at the International Brotherhood of Police Officers National Headquarters on Burgin Parkway. The Quincy visit was a detour on her schedule of speaking engagements in Boston, where she announced a grant to that city.

According to IBPO spokesman Ed Gillooly, the labor organization worked closely with Reno as the crime bill was being developed, and union leaders had been talking with her for some time about coming to meet Boston area officers.

About 50 police union presidents and chiefs from as far away as Worcester and Rhode Island met with Reno for about 20 minutes. She spoke for about five minutes, then took questions from the audience.

Reno, an appointee of President Clinton's, said she hopes she can continue working with police and the new House and Senate leaders to keep anti-crime funding on track, saying crime is a non-partisan issue.

She also credited police officers and the IBPO with helping to shape the crime bill, saying they offered constructive criticism and thoughtful comments, and the results have been positive because of their assistance.

Gillooly said Reno rearranged her schedule to fit in her visit to the IBPO headquarters.

250,000 View Christmas Parade Fire Dept., Woodward School, Koch Club Big Float Winners

Float entries by the Quincy Fire Department, the Woodward School and the Koch Club of Quincy were the big winners in the 43rd annual Quincy Christmas Parade Sunday which attracted an estimated 250,000 spectators.

Children and adults of all ages lined Hancock St. from Quincy Center to North Quincy High School to watch this year's parade under sunny but chilly skies.

The parade, featuring more than 70 bands, floats, color guards and specialty units, was a most welcome sight since last year's event was cancelled for the first time in its history. Anticipation heightened moments before the 12:30 p.m. start as some parade goers jockeyed for key viewing positions along the route, especially at Hancock and Granite Sts., one of the prime vantage points.

As in year's past, the parade was a real crowd pleaser.

Following the two-hour parade, an awards ceremony was held at North Quincy High School for the float, band and color guard winners.

The fire float, entitled "A Surprise Visit from Santa," was awarded the Fr. Thomas Tierney trophy and $1,500 cash as the grand prize winner. The float featured children dressed in firefighting garb sitting around a Christmas tree as mechanical kicking legs wearing Santa boots appeared stuck in a chimney.

The Woodward School was awarded first prize and $1,000 for their float, "Peace is the Joy of the World." The float featured a large white dove in the front, a 10-foot Earth in the rear and a display of flags from many countries in the middle.

Other cash award float winners were the Nantucket Light Ship's "Flying Santa" which received $750 for second place; Quincy Point Congregational Church's "Joy is Giving and Receiving" which won $500 and third place; and Quincy High School student council, Star of Sea Church "Christmas All Year Long" and Quincy College Student Government's "Welcome Home" received $250 each for fourth, fifth and sixth place respectively.

The Koch Club of Quincy was awarded the Mayor's Trophy as the Best Quincy float.

Jack Conway Company won the best commercial float with "Home for the Holidays."

"Otto," the Rockland "DARE" Car, received the Chairman's Trophy as the best specialty unit.

The awards ceremony also featured presentations to the top bands and color guards.

Bourne High School took top honors in the Division I band competition, winning best drum major, high percussion score and high general effect.

Holbrook High School, voted best band front and high music score, received second place in Division I. Quincy High School finished in third place.

'A Good Thing To Do Around Christmas' Sheets Holding The Line On New Taxes

Mayor James Sheets has made good on his promise earlier this year to hold the line on property taxes, and the average Quincy homeowners' tax bill will increase only $3 this fiscal year.

Sheets' proposed residential tax rate for this year is $14.58, only a penny higher than last year's rate. His proposed rate for commercial, industrial and property taxes (CIPP) is $30.58, the same as last year.

The owner of an average single-family home, valued at $138,450, would pay $2,019 this fiscal year. Last year, the average homeowner's tax bill for a home valued at $138,350 increased about 8 percent to $2,016.

"I'm pleased that we've reached a financial position this year where we don't need a significant raise in the property tax," said Sheets. "A lot of it has been cost savings in government, and, quite frankly, the City Council has been very cooperative in working with me on a number of issues."

"It's a good thing to do around Christmas, I guess."

The City Council, which can approve Sheets' proposal or propose one of its own, will hold a public hearing on the matter Monday, Dec. 5 at 7 p.m. in the City Council Chambers at Quincy City Hall.

Sheets said since the real estate market has stabilized, residential property values have risen only slightly this year. Under the new proposal, business owners would pay about 37 percent of Quincy's tax levy of $78.5 million.

Commercial property accounts for about 22 percent of the total value of Quincy real estate.

Homeowners would pay about 63 percent of the levy, despite the fact that residential property accounts for about 78 percent of the total value of real estate in the city.

Property taxes are the largest single source of revenue for the city's budget, which was $134.4 million this year. Local receipts, including sewer and water bills, excise taxes and other fees amount to about $32.1 million, while state aid amounts to about $32.1 million.

Several councillors, including Ward 4 Thomas Fabrizio, chairman of the council's Finance Committee have already expressed support of Sheets' proposal.

Council Endorses State Bill On Sex Offenders

The City Council has passed a resolution endorsing a bill that would require local police to be notified when a convicted sex offender moves into a community.

The council passed its resolution last week.

The bill, filed by Gov. William Weld in September, is pending in the Massachusetts House of Representatives. It would require sex offenders to report any change of address to the state for at least 20 years after being convicted.

Unlike most states with similar policies, Massachusetts would allow police to make the information public.

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers, chairman of the council's Public Safety Committee, said he would like to take the bill one step further by requiring the state to notify communities and police departments.

Ayers, who sponsored the resolution, also noted that parents have expressed concerns in meetings of his School Zone Task Force about potential danger from sex offenders. He added that he is working with Police Chief Francis Mullen and state Rep. Michael Bellotti to see if the law can be expanded.

MAUREEN HALLSEN was sworn-in as Quincy's new assistant city clerk by City Clerk Joseph Shea at a recent City Council meeting. Hallsen, who has worked in the clerk's office for 18 years, replaces the late Patricia Toland who died Sept. 7 after a long battle with cancer.

City Employees Apply For Purchasing Position

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Several city employees have expressed interest in the position of Quincy purchasing director, and Mayor James Sheets may fill the vacancy by the end of the week.

Sheets said Tuesday "between six and eight applicants" have applied for the position since he announced last week that current Purchasing Director Michael McFarland will replace Thomas Koch as the mayor's executive secretary. Koch has been appointed to replace retiring Parks, Forestry and Cemetery Department Executive Director Raymond Cattaneo within the next month.

While Sheets would not name any of the applicants, he confirmed that some are employees by the city.

"There are several city employees that are interested in the position," he said.

One person who is rumored to be among the applicants is former Ward 6 City Councillor and one-time mayoral candidate Joanne Condon Walsh. Sheets would neither confirm or deny the rumor.

"Some of the candidates have requested anonymity, and I really don't want to discuss who they are," he said.

McFarland currently earns $47,500 a year as purchasing director. He will take a small but voluntary pay cut by accepting the executive secretary's position, which commands an annual salary of $45,000.

New Streetlight Hotline Installed

Ward 4 City Councillor
Thomas Fabrizio announces that a new telephone hotline has been installed for the public to call and report streetlights that are out.

Fabrizio has dubbed the new service "Operation Streetlight." The phone number is 376-1490.

When the number is called, a recorded message informs the caller to leave the street name, number and pole number (if known) of the streetlight that is out. The information will be immediately forwarded to Massachusetts Electric.

Fabrizio said he had the hotline installed in the interest of public safety.

"The City of Quincy pays for these streetlights to be kept in working order," he said. "Adequate lighting is a basic for public safety, and concerned citizens are encouraged to report any light they see that is not working properly."

Medically Speaking

QUESTIONS TO ASK ABOUT MEDICATIONS

The label on your medicine only tells the beginning of the story. Taking one of today's endless variety of powerful and sophisticated medications can be a complicated matter, particularly if you are taking more than one of them. The key to getting the drugs to do their intended job is to ask your doctor some important questions. How long will it take for the medicine to start doing its job? What adverse reactions should you watch for? What should you do if you forget a dose? Can you crush pills or mix the medication in with food? Will any particular food or other drugs affect the way the medication works? Above all, if you are unsure of what to do about a medication or your reaction to it, contact your doctor at once.

P.S. To avoid adverse reactions, consult your doctor before stopping a medication or changing the way you take it.

For information on the side effects of any medication you may be taking, consult your physician. At COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE, Dr. Lisa Antonelli and myself offer a full range of cardiopulmonary services, including cardiac and respiratory therapy and rehabilitation. We are conveniently located at 700 Congress

tal and South Shore

Jack Raymer's Legacy

If you don't mind, I would like to step over into the Sports Department for a minute or two.
I just couldn't let Jack Raymer depart as head football coach at Quincy High School without saying a few words.

Perhaps sportscaster and former QHS coach Tom Fitzgerald put it best during the WJDA broadcast of the Quincy-North Quincy Thanksgiving Day game when he noted: "Jack is a class act."

That's the way I found him these past 11 years. A gentleman and one who was sincerely interested in his kids off the field as well as on.

A few alumni wolves have been howling the past couple of seasons because Quincy's season records weren't what they thought they should have been.

Well, there's more to football than the score of the game. And, more importantly, there's more to life than a football game. Like, for example, a good education.

Raymer always made a special effort to steer his kids to college and touted their grades and attitudes as well as their football talents to help get them there.

He was as proud as any father when his kids got scholarships. And quite a few did. Chris Walker, for example, now playing for Boston University. And Butch Palazza, one of this year's standouts who is going to Boston College on a four-year scholarship.

Raymer will remember kids like that long after he's forgotten the score of a particular football game, with the exception probably of this year's Thanksgiving Day game.

Maybe he didn't win all the football games some expected him to do. But no coach wins every game and few win many more than they lose. Even guys like Lou Holtz have their not-so-good days or seasons.

With all due respect to our good friend Ken McPhee and his spirited North Quincy players, I thought it was fitting for Raymer to win his last game as Quincy's head coach on Thanksgiving Day. It turned out to be one of the best games in the 62-year history of this high school classic as North came back from a 21-0 deficit to almost pull it out.

Maybe it was poetic justice that Raymer and Quincy won.

But I, for one, will remember Jack Raymer more for the interest he had in his kids' futures after the cheers in the stands quiet down and fade away.

Life is a much bigger challenge than any game played on a football field. That's the toughest league of all.

Jack Raymer knows that and did his best to help his kids get ready for it.

That, in my book, is his legacy.

WHEN IT COMES to politics, speculation is never out of season. The latest around-town buzz involves Purchasing Agent Mike McFarland who will be moving upstairs to the mayor's office as executive secretary to Mayor James Sheets.

Ready? The speculation is that he will be groomed to run for mayor when Sheets decides to step down. Somewhere down the road.

"No, no!" says Mike. "No way. I have no intentions of running for mayor. I want to be executive secretary.
It's a job I've always been interested in."

But the fact McFarland was willing to take a $2,500 pay cut to take the executive secretary's post succeeding Tom Koch who will be executive director of the Parks-Forest-Cemetery Departments will probably fuel the speculation for awhile.

But the executive secretary post apparently is appealing enough to McFarland he doesn't mind taking home a smaller pay check.

The consensus, by the way, is that McFarland will do a top-notch job for Sheets as executive secretary.

ONE BIG QUESTION around City Hall waiting to be answered: who will succeed McFarland as purchasing agent? One name heard most often as reported here is that of former Ward 6 Councillor Joanne Condon Walsh. But there's another name now being mentioned:
Bryant Carter, Jr.

STYLE DEPT: Ted DeCristofaro has been sporting a bow tie for awhile now ever since his grandson gave him one.

He looks pretty dapper but apparently isn't going to set a trend among his City Council colleagues. The other eight are sticking to their neckties.

You're a young old timer if you can DeCRISTOFARO remember the last councillor before DeCristofaro wear a bow tie. (Charlie Shea in the early 1960's).

And, you're a real old timer if you can remember the one before Shea. (Carl Anderson in the 1950's into the early 1960's).

Council On Aging Receives Grant For Asian Program

The state Executive Office of Elder Affairs has awarded the Quincy Council on Aging a FY95 Service Incentive Grant of $4,650.

According to Quincy
Council on Aging Director Brian Buckley, the funds will be used to institute an Asian Minority Outreach Program.

Buckley said the program will focus on the language barrier faced by many Asian elders by hiring a part-time outreach worker who will provide interpretative services.

Through the effort, the Council on Aging hopes to address the needs of those elders who have yet to be identified, he added.

"This award will help us to continue to outreach every Quincy elder person and assist them with their basic needs," said Buckley.

Buckley said the grant is the third the council has been awarded this year and brings the total amount received to $66,198.

Scenes From Yesterday

Copyright 1904 by the Rotograph Co.

A 7269 Great Hill Observatory, Hough's Neck, Quincy, Mass.

THIS POSTCARD PICTURE was copyrighted in 1905 by the Rotograph Company in New York. This company produced postcards of cities and towns all across America and had them printed in Germany where printing technology was far ahead of anything in the U.S. at the time. They published two sets of 21 cards each of Quincy, one in black and white, the A series, the other in beautiful colors with the same number but with a G prefix. Some with the same numbers had subtle differences and some while of the same scene had obvious additions such as people or streetcars.

This is a black and white view showing the Great Hill observatory at the end of Hough's Neck. The six sided tower, built on the top of the hill 94 feet above the waters of West Gut provided spectacular views in all directions: towards Boston, the Blue Hills and outward over the Harbor Islands towards the ocean. The tower was built in 1901 just in time for the excursion steamboats that began to arrive at the nearby pier built the same year. Today this hilltop is covered with houses.

Work Inc. Opposes Proposed Stop & Shop

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As stated at last week's Quincy Planning Board meeting, the 295 mentally and physically challenged men and women, 120 of whom live in Quincy, and arrive and depart from Work Inc.'s Arlington Street Building every day, along with 110 non-disabled staff will face many challenges and difficulties if Stop & Shop is allowed to build its new store as planned at the end of the street.

Work Inc., located at 3 Arlington St. for the past 16 years, is one of Massachusetts' oldest and most successful non-profit providers of vocational rehabilitation services, housing, transportation and employment opportunities for persons with disabilities.

Recognized nationally for 25 years of pioneering efforts in community-based programs for the disabled, Work Inc. now serves more than 700 disabled men and women every day.

The unsafe zone that will be created by this new development fails dismally to properly ensure the safety of those who come to Work Inc. every day for employment and training. It will create a needlessly dangerous and hazardous environment—especially in the winter—for hundreds of men and women who already face any number of difficulties and challenges in their everyday lives.

We at Work Inc. know how difficult it is now for our disabled consumers—men and women in wheelchairs with visual and perceptual disabilities—to get to and from our door in special vans or from the T.

While we all recognize the benefits a well-planned Stop & Shop development can have for Quincy, we must urge our city councilors not to grant the special permit for this development until the outstanding traffic issues can be fully examined and resolved to the benefit of the entire Quincy community.

Hank Cheney
President, Work Inc.

NO EXTENSION IN TRANSIT RE-ORGANIZATION
A new state agency was proposed to operate and finance the Metropolitan Transit Authority, but no plan for a long awaited South Shore extension was included.

Quincy legislators Joseph Brett and James McIntyre, however, filed bills to include the new service. Brett's plan called for express bus service to operate on the Old Colony right of way; McIntyre's would mandate Budd cars.

McIntyre insisted that Budd cars were the only alternative to MTA extension, noting "the people of the South Shore voted in favor of Budd cars and the majority of legislators from the area have favored them as an alternative to the MTA extension."

George Yarrington of the Quincy Taxpayers' Association said a third proposal for an extension of the MTA was still under study by the Citizens' Transit Study Committee, headed by Dr. Charles Djerf.

SENIOR HOUSING IN QUINCY POINT

The Quincy Housing Authority awarded a contract to Campanelli Construction of Braintree for 75 units of elderly housing in the area of Scammell, Keating and Mary Sts.

The $1.04 million project would bring to 120 the elderly housing units city-wide (there were 45 units at Snug Harbor).

It was proposed that the new project be named after slain President Kennedy.

OUR Policy ON ENGAGEMENT PHOTOGRAPHS AND Wedding ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Quincy Sun will continue to publish photographs with engagement announcements as it always has.

The Sun will also continue to use in wedding announcements, the names of all members of the wedding party including maid or matron of honor, best man, parents, bridesmaids, ushers, flower girls and ringbearers, etc.

We invite engaged couples to submit photos with their announcements, and when submitting their wedding photo, to include a complete listing of the wedding party.

Black and white photos are preferred. The Sun can convert most color photos to black and white for publication but the photo loses some clarity in the process.

We suggest that when you have your engagement photo taken, you request the studio to send a copy to The Sun with the reminder that The Sun is continuing its policy of publishing engagement photos.

The Sun also publishes photos and photos of wedding announcements, beginning with the 25th anniversary.

Marie's Kitchen

Turkey Pot Pie

Have you still got some turkey leftover and don't know what to do with it? I made one big turkey pot pie in no time at all which served eight of us. Not only did I use the leftover turkey, but the leftover stuffing, gravy and mashed potatoes as well.

light and dark leftover turkey (cut in small pieces)
1 can or frozen package of mixed vegetables (or cut up fresh carrots, par-cook and use a small can of peas, leftover stuffing or potatoes (optional) leftover gravy pie crust for a nine inch pie plate

CREAM SAUCE FOR PIE

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour (you may need a little more after you add soup)
1 1/2 cups milk
8 ounces of chicken stock or a can of plain chicken broth

The first thing you have to do is cut up pieces of dark and light turkey meat and set aside. (amount varies on how much is left over.)

Make the cream sauce starting with melted butter, then adding the flour milk and broth. You may have to add a bit more flour if needed until sauce is thickened. Add the turkey pieces and any leftover stuffing, mashed potatoes and gravy, plus the mixed vegetables. Cook until well blended.

Place in a pie plate and cover the top with the pie crust. Make a few air holes with the sharp end of a knife on the top of the crust. Bake in a 425 preheated oven for five minutes and then reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake for another 35 to 40 minutes or until crust is golden brown. Let cool before serving. I served it with my leftover butternut squash. A cool meal especially on a cold night!

You can freeze the turkey bones until you're ready to make soup.

Ayers Holding Annual Toy Drive

Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers announces his third annual toy drive. Ayers said he holds the annual event because he knows many families cannot afford to purchase toys for their children. "I know many of us have good toys, games, and children's clothing in our basements, attics, garages, etc. collecting dust," said Ayers. "This Christmas season, as in the past, I ask all of you to take a few minutes of your time and sort through these items. They would make a terrific gift for a child who otherwise may have none." Items may be brought to the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, Squantum Community Center, or at Ayers Handicap Conversion Center, Inc., weekdays between noon and 3 p.m. Those with no means of delivery, should call Ayers at 472-9877 to arrange for a pickup time. Those in need of toys, clothing or other items, should also contact Ayers to make arrangements to receive a gift for their child or children.

YOUR NAME WILL GO DOWN IN HISTORY

The City of Quincy is expanding the brick plaza and "Walk of Names" at Constitution Common...located at the entrance to City Hall. For a limited time, you can guarantee that your name...or the name of someone you love...will go down in history. And you'll help improve everyone's Downtown.

Over 3,000 individuals, businesses and organizations have already donated to the "Walk of Names"...and their engraved bricks have become part of Quincy's history.

Phase 2 of the project is now underway. For each $50 donation, a brick will be engraved and included in the design of the walkways. Each personalized brick comes with a special certificate for you to frame or present as a gift.

To place your brick order, call or pick up an order form at City Hall.
376-3676

Quantity is limited. Bricks dedicated on a first come, first served basis. Each $50 donation includes one brick engraved with 2 lines, each 15 characters long. A third line may be added for an additional $20. Ask about purchasing groupings of bricks.

WBNW 590 Fund Food Fest Today

WBNW Radio's 590 Fund for the Homeless has joined forces with several South Shore-based homeless shelters to raise funds during the upcoming holiday season.

The 590 Fund Food Fest will be held today (Thursday) from 6 p.m. to midnight at Shooter's Cafe, 58 Ross Way, Quincy Center. Eight area restaurants and caterers, including three from Quincy, will serve their house specialties.

Entertainment will be provided by comedian Mike McDonald and DJ "Goldie" of Goldie's Vision of Paradise. Title sponsor of the event is Citizens Bank. Other sponsors include Shooter's Cafe, The Quincy Sun, and Continental Airlines.

Participating restaurants and caterers include Tullio's Restaurant and Grotto, Lazzarino's Gourmet Pizzerias, Montilio's Bakery, all of Quincy. Four Quincy shelters—Father Bill's Place, Quincy Community Action, Mary Martha Crisis Center and Louison Family Center—are among seven agencies overall that will benefit from the event.

Donation is $5. For more information, call Maureen McCann at 242-5900 ext. 330.

Central Middle School Elects Student Senate

Central Middle School recently elected officers to its Student Senate.

Twenty-two students campaigned for the top four offices of the Senate. Winners were: Brendan Griffin, mayor; Betsy Stone, deputy mayor; Elizabeth Ashworth, secretary and Joseph Watson, treasurer.

Seventy-six students ran for the remaining 24 Senate Representative seats. Winners included:

Grade 6: Andrew Mannix, Christopher Mearns, Rebecca Ballard, Andrea Marshall, Katherine McEvoy, Michael Campanale, Domenic Papile, Marianne Casper.

Grade 7: Elizabeth Leuchte, Kristin Coughlin, Janelle Hersey, Meredith McCormack, Allison Jones, Kelly Hunter, Lauren Aved, Brian Shaw.

Grade 8: Meredith Hutchinson, Courtney Paquette, Meghan Spillane, Leanne Martin, Lisa Maconochie, Helen Lao, Alexis Pivnicny, Crystal Kazolias, Patricia Dixon.

The elections were held under the direction of the Social Studies staff including Department Head Dr.

Laurence Osborne, Patricia Drew, Lawrence Coombs, John Buckley, Arthur Svensen and Robert Saunders.

The Student Senate will meet Mondays before school in the Media Center. School and student issues will be discussed, and the agenda includes plans for an Appreciation Breakfast for the staff during Education Week, holiday projects, food drives, fund-raisers, and the annual Care and Share Project which is a service group for the underprivileged.

Library To Host Reception, Book Signing For Cahill Dec. 7

The Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center, will host a reception and book signing for local author Timothy Cahill Wednesday, Dec. 7 at 7:30 p.m.

Cahill, who serves on the Quincy City Council, has just published "Profiles in the American Dream:

the Real-Life Stories of the Struggles of American Entrepreneurs". He will give a reading from his new work and invite discussion from the audience.

Cahill's book traces the rise of four Quincy men in the business world: Louis Grossman, who established a chain of home-building material stores; Howard Johnson, who founded a nationwide restaurant and motel business; William Rosenberg, founder of Dunkin' Donuts; and Peter O'Connell, who developed a New England-wide real estate firm.

For more information, call the library at 376-1300.

Salvation Army Christmas Kettle Drive Underway

The 1994 Salvation Army Kettle Drive is underway in Quincy.

Members of the three Quincy service clubs will be at some of the many locations in Quincy beside the traditional Salvation Army red kettles against this year. Members of the Quincy Lions Club will be at the Stop and Shop on Southern Artery Saturday, Dec. 3. Quincy Rotary Club members will be there on Saturday, Dec. 10 and Quincy Kiwanians will be there Saturday, Dec. 17.

For the last 99 years the people of the South Shore have looked to the Salvation Army for help during the Christmas holiday season.

Some look to the Salvation Army because they find themselves in need of special holiday assistance. Families and individuals whose income and expenses don't provide for the luxury of a special holiday meal or a few nice toys for their children.

Others look to the Salvation Army because they are concerned about their less fortunate neighbors and are interested in helping to meet their needs.

Monies collected in the Salvation Army Christmas Kettles make many services possible and enable the Army to continue to provide care and assistance throughout the year.

Quincy Corps Commander, Capt. Scott Kelly, assures the public that these gifts in the Red Kettle will make a difference. He welcomes the assistance of other individuals and groups who would be willing to donate a few hours manning a kettle during the holiday season. Phone him at 472-2345.

Elisabeth Morrissey Serves On USS Eisenhower Off Haiti

Navy Chief Petty Officer Elisabeth M. Morrissey, a 1970 graduate of Quincy High School, recently returned from operations off the coast of Haiti aboard the aircraft carrier USS Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Morrissey and Eisenhower went to Haiti after unloading 1,800 soldiers and more than 50 helicopters from the U.S. Army's 10th Mountain Division. The lack of air threat from Haitian forces enabled the Navy to remove the carrier's air wing and reconfigure the ship for the soldiers and their aircraft.

While off Haiti,

Morrissey and fellow crew members worked in support of Navy and Army helicopter operations transporting troops and equipment ashore.

Morrissey joined the Navy in August, 1974.

Wollaston Business Association Holiday Celebration Saturday

$1,000 In Prizes To Be Awarded At Wollaston Festival

Nearly $1,000 in prizes will be awarded during the ninth annual Evening in Wollaston holiday celebration on Saturday.

A total of 27 Wollaston Business Association members have included coupons in this week's issue of The Quincy Sun which can be dropped at the appropriate businesses during Saturday's festivities. A drawing for the winner will be held at each store at the end of the event.

Evening in Wollaston will feature special offers from Wollaston businesses, a performance by the Quincy All-City Elementary School Band and, of course, an appearance by Santa Claus himself. What better way to kick off the season?

Event Co-Chairperson Lynne Nightingale of Morrill Real Estate said participating merchants will begin their special offers around noon. The band, directed by Richard Striano, will perform from 4 to 5 p.m. at the corner of Beale and Cushing Sts.

At the conclusion of the band's performance, children will delight when Santa Claus arrives on the scene by fire truck at 5 p.m. Shortly after his arrival, Santa will pose for pictures with children at Steve's Beale Street Diner where free hot chocolate will be served. Those interested in having a picture taken with Santa should bring their own cameras.

Nightingale said the annual lighting of the Wollaston Christmas lights has been canceled this year due to ongoing construction in the business district. However, the area will be decorated with wreaths and banners and the lighting ceremony is expected to return next year with a brand new set of holiday lights, she added.

Free lollipops for the children will be available at Steve's Beale Street Diner and balloons will also be handed out to the children by a number of area businesses.

The festivities will end at 6 p.m. when participating businesses from the Wollaston Business Association draw the prizes from the coupons.

The participating merchants and their prizes are: Barry's Deli, 21 Beale St., free lunch for one for a week.

Beale St. Fish Market, 35 Beale St., $15 gift certificate.

Blackwood Pharmacy, 663 Hancock St., $25 gift certificate.

ENC Professor Appointed To N.E. Aquarium

Dr. J. Philip McLaren, professor of biology at Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston, has been appointed to the Education Advisory Committee of The New England Aquarium.

McLaren, who has served as a consultant to the aquarium in the past, will assist the aquarium's Education Department in developing new materials and displays for teachers. His task will be to evaluate and advise on support materials for teachers and students visiting the aquarium.

He is currently completing a four-year term on the board of directors of the American Sail Training Association and is a past president of the Massachusetts Marine Educators. For 12 years, he served as a member of the national board of directors of the National Marine Educators Association.

While active at the leadership level, McLaren has continuously sought ways to place his students aboard sailing vessels for scientific work. During his 18-year tenure at Eastern Nazarene College, he has placed approximately 50 students aboard research vessels from Woods Hole.

McLaren holds a B.A.

in biblical literature and Christian education from Bethel College and an M.S. in biology and a Ph.D. in science education from Western Michigan University. He specializes in the studies of ecology, marine biology and tropical natural history.

QVNA Moves To Granite St.

By MICHAEL WHALEN
The Quincy Visiting Nurse Association has moved to a new location at 10 Granite St., Quincy Center.

The QVNA had previously been located at 1354 Hancock St. for the past five years. Before that, it had been headquartered at the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St. for many years.

Executive Director Stephen Robbins said the association had to relocate because it had outgrown its former location.

"The reason for the move is so that we can have a facility that keeps up with our growth and enables us to have a more efficient operation," he said.

The move took place Monday and Tuesday.

Robbins noted that five years ago, the QVNA had a staff of 90 employees who made 50,000 annual visits to area patients. Today, the staff has grown to 150 people, and visits have doubled to 100,000 a year.

Despite the need to relocate, however, Robbins said that the association planned from the start to remain in the city's downtown business section.

"The QVNA chose a site that would keep us in Quincy Center because we encouraged our 150 employees to be part of the economic renewal in the downtown," he said.

Originally founded by the Quincy Women's Club, the QVNA was incorporated in 1932, according to Robbins. The association, which is affiliated with Quincy Hospital and is a member agency of the United Way of Massachusetts Bay, will celebrate its 90th anniversary next year.

For more information about the QVNA, its services or new location, call Robbins at 472-2828.

NORFOLK COUNTY has been awarded a 1994 National Association of Counties Achievement Award for its Centralization of County-wide Purchasing Pilot program. Accepting the award are, from left, Commissioner John Gillis, Commission Chairman William P. O'Donnell, Gail Farrell, manager of purchasing, and Commissioner Bruce Olsen. With tight budget restraints and the increased demands on local government, the program allows 28 municipalities in Norfolk County to take advantage of centralized purchasing through blanket contracts that have been bid, evaluated and awarded based in quality and lowest bid price, thereby saving on items such as supplies.

Evening With Santa Friday At Bernazzani School

The Charles Bernazzani Elementary School PTO will host "An Evening with Santa" Friday, Dec. 2 from 6 to 8 p.m. in the school's gymnasium.

The fund-raising event will feature photographs with Santa for the children, and ice cream sundaes from Baskin-Robbins.

Tickets may be purchased in advance (before and after school) at Bernazzani. Cost is $2.50 for sundaes and $3.50 for photographs if purchased in advance.

Tickets are also available at the door.

The PTO will also hold a drawing that evening. Items to be raffled include a "Gingerbread House" and a Christmas flag.

The public is invited. For more information, call Maureen and Steven Durkin at 472-6585.

ARM & SHOULDER PAIN

Arm and shoulder pain can have a number of causes, but the large percentage of cases are caused by misalignment of one or more spinal bones (vertebrae), improper posture, spinal curvatures, occupational stresses, or injury to the spine. Any of these conditions may cause irritation or impingement of the nerves supplying the arms, shoulder, and neck. Arm and shoulder pain does not always mean trouble where the pain is felt.

The degree of pain may vary between slight and intermittent, to excruciating. But do not be fooled by the degree of pain; sometimes a slight pain goes along with a serious condition while intense pain may be a symptom of nothing more than temporary muscle soreness caused by a weekend of unusual activity.

It should be apparent to anyone that arm and shoulder pain may indicate a serious condition. But whether the problem is serious or not, the pain can become quite debilitating. Fortunately, the doctor of chiropractic is eminently qualified to correct arm and shoulder problems. The chiropractor's education and experience have been directed to such problems that involve the spine, nerves, muscles and joints of the human body.

If you have any questions or would like to make an appointment please call Dr. Mark Jaehnig, a lifelong Quincy resident, at Quincy Chiropractic Office, 110 Billings Road, N. Quincy, 773-4400.

Tympanette Micro-Canal Hearing Instrument Now Available

Our office is happy to announce that we are now fitting a completely In-The-Canal hearing instrument. This remarkable new hearing aid is not only more discreet and comfortable to wear, it may also provide important hearing benefits because of its deep placement in the ear canal.

The Tympanette is the smallest hearing aid ever manufactured by Starkey Laboratories, the world's leading manufacturer of custom hearing instruments. Its extremely small size will be very popular, so call now for your hearing assessment and consultation.

Call today to schedule your appointment.

New: The Tympanette micro-canal hearing aid, a breakthrough in hearing aid design, fits deep in the ear canal and is barely noticeable.

For Quincy It Wasn't Gone With The Wind

By KERRY BYRNE

The wind.

It whipped off the ocean, over Pageant Field, and made a bee-line for Veterans' Memorial Stadium. Fans huddled against the wall in the north end zone to avoid its wrath. The American flag, also in the north end zone, stood straight and cracked wildly as the wind beat upon it.

North Quincy quarterback Sean Dolbear stood at midfield facing the wind. He saw Derick Epps wide open on the Quincy 11 yard line and heaved the ball in his direction. But the wind grabbed it, took the spiral out of it, and allowed Quincy's Terry Bowman to race into position as the ball dropped out of the sky and into his hands. The interception, with just 1:32 left in the game, preserved Quincy's 21-14 Thanksgiving Day win over North Quincy.

Both clubs finished with 6-4 records. Quincy leads the intra-city classic, 30-27-5.

The game looked like it would be a blowout when Bowman raced 17 yards around left end to give the Presidents a 21-0 lead early in the second quarter.

But, as has happened so many times in this storied rivalry, the North Quincy Red Raiders were far from finished. Their defense stiffened and in the fourth quarter they staged a valiant comeback. North superstar Shawn Nee (15 carries, 97 yards), playing with an injured shoulder and hemmed in for most of the contest, finally broke QUINCY HEAD coach Jack Raymer looks to the sideline as he gets ready to send a play in with quarterback Mark Glynn. The 21-14 win over North Quincy allowed Raymer to go out a winner as he announced Thursday's game was his last as Quincy's head coach.

free from the ferocious Quincy defense and raced 35 yards for a touchdown on the first play of the final quarter to make the score 21-7.

On NQ's next possession, Dolbear, who came alive in the second half (five for 11, 118 yards in the second half), found Epps for a 32 yard scoring strike. Nee's two-point conversion run made the score 21-14. Suddenly it was a whole new ball game.

The Red Raiders marched from their own 17 to the Quincy 45 on their next possession before Bowman's pick locked up the Quincy win.

North Quincy coach Ken McPhee had faith in his team even when things looked bleakest. "I thought we absolutely had a shot [when we were down 21-0]," said McPhee. "We have a good team and a great bunch of kids. We never felt out of it."

"We made a few adjustments at the half," said McPhee. "We tried to go to the weak side more and tried to throw the ball a little quicker."

Bowman's interception allowed Presidents' head coach Jack Raymer to end his coaching career at Quincy on a winning note.

"Our players had to fight hard for the win and they did it," said Raymer. "This is their Super Bowl. To name names on Turkey Day is not the thing to do. So many kids did the job." Raymer won his first Thanksgiving Day contest as a head coach in 1984 when the Presidents beat the Raiders, 14-12.

One player Raymer did single out was senior tailback Sam Brown. Brown put his stamp on the game early as he ran for a 38-yard touchdown and a two-point conversion which gave the Presidents a 14-0 lead in the first quarter.

He ended the game with 139 yards on 29 carries and 1,246 yards rushing for the season.

"Sam played great," said Raymer. "He proved 'em all wrong. They gave him a hard time after last year's game but he came through this year." Brown totaled just 11 yards in last year's 14-7 loss to NQ.

Also playing superb football for the Presidents was quarterback Mark Glynn. Although he completed just one of seven pass attempts, the pint-sized sophomore carried the ball four times for 23 yards. The numbers aren't impressive until you consider that three carries resulted in first downs and the other - a 5-yarder around right end - provided the game's first touchdown midway through the opening quarter.

The Quincy offense, as had been the case for most of the season, was paced by the play of linemen Butch Palaza, Mike Feeley, Matt Strauchon, Peter Kolson and Jeff Burrell. They paved the way for Quincy's 260 yards on the ground. Four different President ball carriers - Brown, Bowman, Greg Santoro and Bill Dunn - had carries of 20 yards or better.

The Presidents benefited from outstanding field position in the first half. All three touchdown drives started in Red Raider territory. Their first score was set up by Bowman's 46-yard, reverse-field punt return which brought the ball to the North 10. The third score was set up by a punt block by Feeley which gave Quincy the ball on the Raider 29.

Other than that, the Raider defense was outstanding. One-hundred-eighty-pound nose tackle Rob Ragusa played heroically against the punishing Quincy ground game. Linemen Brian (Muskie) Walsh, Keith Martinson, Ricky Maciera and Neil Kiley also waged a stout battle against the larger President line.

Defensive back Gerry Fernandez led the Raider defense with nine tackles. Epps, Toby Odom, Jamie Karvelis, Kenny Burke and Glenn Peterson also played well in the secondary as they held the Presidents to just one completion for 9 yards on eight pass attempts.

Linebackers Dave Carney and Tim Zaniboni made four tackles each. Captain Carney also broke up a number of pass plays.

The Quincy defense also played tough, hard-nosed football. Senior Jason Bennett made several tackles in the NQ backfield, including one in the third quarter that caused a fumble that was picked up by Feeley. Feeley raced into the end zone but the score was called back due to an illegal block call against the Presidents.

Senior defensive end Mike Flagg batted away two Dolbear passes. Linebackers Dunn, Jon Ryan and Ed Anderson helped "hold" the North Quincy ground game to 161 yards on 29 attempts.

TERRY BOWMAN races down the sideline during his 46-yard punt return in the second quarter that put the ball on the North 10-yard line and set up Quincy's first score.

They also helped put pressure on Dolbear.

Quincy's defensive backs, save for Epps' big day, played well against the strong Red Raider pass attack. Chris McArdle, Matt Miller and Mike Sheffer made a number of big sticks in the secondary.

North Quincy offensive linemen Maciera, Kiley, Joe Renzi, Sean Kenner-son and Matt Hourin were outstanding. They held the usually potent Quincy pass rush without a sack.

Nee's 97 yards put him over the 1,000-yard mark for the second consecutive season. In his three-year varsity career he ran for over 3,000 yards despite suffering a number of injuries.

Epps caught three passes for 106 yards in the second half.

Panther Cheerleaders Pull Off 'Three-peat'

The Quincy Point Panther cheerleaders pulled off the 'three-peat' when they won the Quincy Youth Football League cheerleading competition for the third year in a row last weekend at Veterans' Memorial Stadium.

Not settling for just being the best in Quincy, the Panther girls won the state cheerleading championship this weekend during the Emmanuel College State Invitational Tournament at Boston College High School.

The next step for the girls is a trip to Six Flags in New Jersey for a regional competition.

During the QYFL competition, each team was given four minutes to show their best chants, cheers and dances. The girls were judged based on choreography and creativity, partners, stunts and pyramids, and jumps, voice and spirit.

The two judges were provided by the National Cheerleading Association. One is a cheerleader at UMass-Lowell, the other a cheerleader at Boston College.

Bonnie Ford and Jana Bagen are the captains of the Panther squad. The other varsity cheerleaders are Valerie Doherty, Jamie McCarthy, JoAnna Ford, Elizabeth Dunlea, Sara McQuinn, Kristen Perry, Tiffany McAdam, Lisa Califano, Maeve Glynn and Kristen Brogna.

The Panthers are coached by Patti Myers and Anita Curran.

The West Quincy Elks finished second in the QYFL competition. The captains of the Elks' cheerleading squad are Chrissy Louis and Shannon Massarelli. The other team members are Danielle Ahern, Annie Blodgett, Tricia Fraser, Lindsay Marshall, Stephanie Oakes, Danielle Bonome, Jessica Pettinelli and Danielle Brancaccio.

Christine Miele, Colleen Cooper and Courtney Tierney are the West Quincy coaches.

Sacred Heart CYO Hoop Season Underway

The North Quincy Sacred Heart CYO basketball league began its sixth year of play Saturday, Nov. 26.

The league has expanded from 140 kids in its inaugural season to 440 kids and 38 teams this year.

The divisions are: rookie boys (ages 8 and 9), eight teams with 84 players; rookie girls (ages 8-10), six teams with 72 players; college boys (ages 10 and 11), 10 teams with 120 players; college girls (ages 11-15), six teams with 72 players; pro boys (ages 12-15), six teams with 72 players.

All games are played at the North Quincy High School gymnasium on Saturdays from November through March. When possible, divisions have one or more travel teams that compete against squads from surrounding towns.

There are also two teams of boys ages 15 through 17 that play in the South Shore YMCA League.

The 680 kids involved are instructed by volunteer coaches, referees and scorers under the direction of Mark Jaehnig and a board of directors.

Beginning with the games of Dec. 3, results will be published in The Quincy Sun.

Mike McKeon paced Granite Rail with two goals. Josh Giordani netted one goal. Rose Devlin, Steve Maggio and Jake McQuinn posted the assists.

Mark DeCoste's four goals led an offensive barrage for Doherty & White as they beat Lydon Russell, 14-0.

Steve Crispo was the top point-getter with two goals and three assists. Also netting goals were Johnny McClintock, Ben Metcalfe, Tim Watson, Jake O'Donnell, Taylor Reinhardt, Nick Puopolo, Brendan Craig and Bill Jones. Brianna Nolan, Pat Casper, Rick Cullen and Jones dished out three assists each. With single assists were Nick Manning, McClintock, Metcalfe, O'Donnell, Watson and Reinhardt.

Pee Wee House

Neponset, Colonial, Skinner's Tied For First

Neponset Valley Survey moved into a three way tie for first in the Pee Wee House League with a 5-2 win over Colonial Federal.

Joe Thorley, Martin McGrath, Rob Rice, Matt Gregory and Dan Kennedy scored for Neponset. Assists were made by Derek Kelley (2), John Mooney, Matt O'Connell, Gregory and Thorley.

Sean Haidul and Chris Murphy netted the Colonial goals. Ryan Doyle and Matt Reggiani handed out the assists.

Skinner's Winners stayed tied atop the standings with a 13-3 win over Mike Morrissey Club. Paul Zenga scored three goals and made one assist to lead the offensive flurry. John Gavin and Graham McShane lit the lamp two times each. Single tallies were recorded by Tom Gaeta, Mike Welch, Steve McGonagle, Jay Grazioso, Ryan Graeber and Paul Campbell. Others with assists were McShane (3), Adam Smith (2), Tom Maloney, Mark Gibbons, Graeber, Welch and Grazioso.

Matt Minicucci, Pat Lahar and Mike Campanale buried the Morrissey goals. Steve Ricciardi and Minicucci assisted.

Mark Giese picked up three goals and two assists as he led Marina Bay Taxi to a 10-3 win over Keohane's.

Joe Callahan, Sean Fennelly and Spike Bertucci netted two goals each in the winning effort. Terrence Doherty scored once. Paul Markarian (3), Joe Tower (2), Pat O'Donnell, Kiva Tupe, Matt Glynn, Callahan and Fennelly dished out assists.

Lighting the lamp for Keohane's were Chris Lumaghini, Mark Fitzpatrick and Mike Carloni. Didier Alther (2), Shane Kabilian and Kyle Piazza recorded the assists.

Pee Wee House League standings: Skinner's, 5-2; Neponset, 5-2; Colonial, 5-2; Marina Bay, 4-2-1; Morrissey Club, 1-6; Keohane's, 0-6-1.

McKeon and Cunningham.

Captain Brian (Blue Chip) Stock, Sean Richardson and Jill McGinnis led the effort on the blue line.

Jimmy (Slashin') Cashins paced the Quincy squad with two goals. Billy McKeon and Joe Cunningham also scored.

Frank Guest was a wizard with the puck as he handed out three assists. Dave Germain made two assists. Also setting up goals were

Pee Wee C Team Pounds Milton

The Quincy Youth Hockey Pee Wee C team outskated and outbustled a tough Milton team on the way to a convincing 9-4 win.

Matt Kenney had a hat trick for Quincy, along with two assists.

Also scoring goals were Martin McGrath (2), Graham McShane, Dan Jones, Tom Gouthro and Matt Glynn.

Assists were handed out by Jones, Matt Reggiani, Chris Murphy, Pat Lahar, Tim O'Connor and Joe Callahan.

John Mooney played another great game in goal.

Kris Farr, Mark Fitzpatrick and Matt Miller played outstanding two-way hockey.

Jaehnig Club Remains Undefeated

The Jaehnig Chiropactic baseball club remained undefeated in the Bridgewater Dome fall baseball league.

The Jaehnig team is made up of 10-year-olds from Quincy.

The Quincy boys beat Sharon, 4-3, thanks to a four-run rally in the last inning.

Chris Ham cracked a bases-loaded single and then stole home to spark the Quincy rally. Patrick Jaehnig recorded the victory with a strong performance on the mound.

Patrick Gregoli came on to save the game by striking out the last batter with the tying run on third.

James LaFleur saved two runs with a nice running catch in center field and Chris Lockhead made two Brooks Robinson-type plays at third base.

John Fidalgo had a single and pitched well. Phil McGillicuddy smashed a long double. Mark Maher walked and scored the go-ahead run due to some heads-up base running. Jackie Liuzzo and Jason Fidalgo also played well.

In a wild affair, the Jaehnig club battled to an extra-inning 7-7 tie with a strong Walpole squad.

Walpole jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first inning. The Quincy boys answered with two runs in the third inning thanks to RBIs off the sticks off Patrick O'Brien and John Fidalgo.

The Jaehnig Club took the lead in the fourth. Jaehnig stroked a long, opposite-field double, Lockhead walked and both scored on Gregoli's clutch two-out double.

The Quincy team added another run in the sixth as Justin Hall singled and scored on Jaehnig's second double of the game. Keith Doherty then blasted a long double high off the left field wall but was unable to score.

The scrappy Walpole team fought back with two runs of their own to send the game into extra innings.

The Jaehnig Club scored two runs in the top of the seventh. Ham singled, Charlie Vidoli doubled, and with two outs, Ham pulled off his second successful steal of home in two games. Vidoli scored when the Walpole catcher threw wildly to third base.

Walpole was able to again rally for two more runs. The game ended in a tie because of a curfew.

Jaehnig Club pitchers Hall and Lockhead both strike out the side. Rookie David Jaehnig looked good at the plate and made a nice defensive play in left field. The play of the game was turned in by Vidoli who made an outstanding throw to first base from right field to turn what looked like a sure single into a long out.

SOUTH SHORE YMCA's newest staff members. From left, Peter Compton, youth and family director; and membership directors Nancy Tangney and Erik Abboud.

Three Join Staff At South Shore YMCA

Youth and Family Director Peter Compton and Membership Directors Nancy Tangney and Erik Abboud have joined the professional staff at South Shore YMCA in Quincy, announces Executive Director Ralph Yohe.

Responsible for developing programs for youth from infancy to age 17, Compton joins the YMCA staff as youth and family director. Formerly associated with the South Shore YMCA as a part-time lifeguard and swimming teacher, he also served as the aquatic and youth director at the Hyde Park YMCA.

A focus of Compton's programming will be to strengthen the Youth Leaders Club, a self-motivation program designed for girls and boys ages 14-17.

A resident of Braintree, Compton holds a bachelor's degree in exercise science from Bridgewater State College.

Abboud has been promoted from member services associate to membership director. He began his career with South Shore YMCA in 1989 as a part-time swimming instructor and joined the staff full-time last year as member services associate.

In his new role, Abboud is responsible for serving and attracting new membership with a specific focus on assisting members participating in the bank draft payment program.

A graduate of the University of Massachusetts, Boston, Abboud holds a bachelor's degree in business management. He lives in Quincy.

Tangney has been promoted from front desk supervisor to membership director. She joined South Shore YMCA in 1989 as a part-time front desk clerk and joined the full-time staff last year as member services associate.

In her new role, Tangney is responsible for serving and attracting new members, with a specific focus on financial assistance.

She is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts, Boston, with a bachelor's degree in sociology and psychology. She lives in Weymouth.

New Sports Show On WJDA

Former Boston Red Sox relief pitcher Dick Radatz is hosting a new show called "Sportsline" Monday nights from 6 to 8 p.m. on NewsInfo 1300 WJDA in Quincy.

The show is broadcast live each week from Pat Flanagan's Pub & Grille on the Parkway in Quincy and features guests from all over the world of sports. "Sportsline," which debuted Nov. 14, promotes audience participation for those at the broadcast and phone lines are opened to home listeners. Trivia contests also offer the chance to win prizes.

"We're excited about having a call-in sports show on WJDA," said

Station Manager John Nicolson. "We're excited about having a call-in sports show on WJDA. Dick Radatz is a terrific host and has lined up some great guests including Tom Heinsohn, Joe Morgan, Lou Gorman and Johnny McKenzie. Monday nights promise to be lively and entertaining on WJDA."

Killer Bees Bested By Canton

The Quincy Youth Hockey Mite B team, the Killer Bees, fell to Canton in a tightly contested, well-played game.

Aggressive play by the Killer Bee forwards kept Canton on the defensive throughout the game.

Taylor Reinhardt stung the Canton netminder with a beautiful goal that was set up by Billy Jones.

Forwards Danny Sullivan, Chris Sheehan and Brian Nolan buzzed around the Canton goal but were unable to beat the tough opposing goaltender. Breakaways by Myles Klanczy, Liam Powers and Brendan Linnane were also turned away.

Bees defenseman Pat Maloney held the fort in the left corner, better known as Pat's Corner. Blue liners Danny Davis, Matt Haskins, Jon O'Connor and George Snowling swarmed the Canton forwards on numerous occasions.

Bees goalie Nick Manning turned away shots with a number of great stick saves.

In the end Canton was able to sneak by the Bees.

Youth Soccer Corrections

One score was incorrectly reported, and another omitted, in the summary of Quincy Youth Soccer League championship games published three weeks ago.

Hohmann Oil beat Re-Max Realty, 11-9, in the Boys Under 14 division, not the Boys Under 12 division.

In the Boys Under 12 championship game, M&M Plumbing edged Atty. George Burke, 1-0.

Charlie Acton scored the game's only goal with just minutes remaining. He was assisted by Dan Duggan.

SEEING THE WARNING LIGHT

Because yellow "check engine" warning lights often show up on the instrument panel unaccompanied by any apparent symptoms, drivers may continue to drive their cars and blame the incidents on glitches in the system. The fact is, however, that the matter should be examined by an auto technician at the earliest opportunity. The reason for this rests with the fact that a modern car's onboard computer system receives information about the engine and other parts of the car from an array of sensors. If any of these sensors relay information about an abnormality, the "check engine" light will come on and the car may continue to function as long as the computer can compensate. The point is not to ignore the warning to the point where failure develops. HINT: When the check engine warning light comes on, check the owner's manual for specific instructions.

People generally put a great deal of money into their cars. With the initial purchase price, insurance, tune-ups and repairs, you can end up with a sizeable investment. Doesn't it make sense to make sure you have your car serviced and repaired by the best auto technicians around? You and your car deserve the very best and here at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO you'll get it. Stop by 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (843-1550) and get acquainted even if you only need to fill your gas tank. "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer."

Interfaith AIDS Healing Service At St. John's

An Interfaith AIDS Healing Service will be conducted Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the main sanctuary of St. John the Baptist Catholic Church, School St., Quincy.

Persons affected by HIV/AIDS, their loved ones, caregivers and those concerned about the disease are invited to attend.

The AIDS Healing Service is a semi-annual event sponsored by the Quincy Clergy AIDS Healing Committee chaired by Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon, pastor of Quincy Point Congregational Church. The committee, which was formed four years ago, is dedicated to the support of all people affected by HIV/AIDS.

Members of the committee and their faith communities are responsive and accessible to persons in need of confidential conversation, support or referral. The group also provides an annual workshop for clergy and other caregivers pertaining to HIV/AIDS. The committee effort is linked with the Quincy AIDS Consortium and the Ecumenical AIDS Task Force of Greater Boston.

Guest speakers Friday will include Michael Irvin, health educator for Boston City Hospital's Project Trust and Rev. Atwood-Lyon who will speak on "What Does Healing Mean in the Context of HIV/AIDS?"

The service will include prayer with the laying on of hands for those desiring it, and singing by Paul Knox, John Ray, Eastern Nazarene College student Christopher Porter and the congregation. Ray, who is organist and choir director of Quincy Community United Methodist Church, will also play the service music. Charles O'Leary will provide sign language for the hearing impaired.

The service will be led by clergy of Quincy Catholic and Protestant churches of Quincy and representatives of area human service agencies. Refreshments will be provided by the host church following the service.

For more information, call St. John the Baptist Church at 773-1021, the Quincy Crisis Center at 471-7075 or Christ Church Episcopal at 773-0310.

United First Parish

United First Parish Church (Unitarian Universalist), 1306 Hancock St., will begin its celebration of the Christmas season this week.

On Saturday, the church will hold its annual Christmas Fair from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Highlights will include crafts, gift items, new books, baked goods, a raffle, white elephants, used books, refreshments and a hot lunch of different Italian and Vietnamese foods.

Decoration Sunday will be observed at the 10 a.m. Worship Service Sunday, children of the Church School will bring in garlands of greenery and hang them from the pulpit and pews as the congregation sings "Deck the Halls".

During the service, children and parents will hang ornaments on the Christmas tree. Nicole and Joe Bennett will place the Christmas Star they made at the top of the tree.

Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett will speak to the children, and then for adults, preach on "Ecology And Spirit". Music will be by Norman Corey, music director, and a guest instrumentalist. The congregation will sing Christmas carols. Usher will be Matt Malloy. Greeter will be Brenda Powers.

Wilson Selected From Field Of 92 Candidates Sheets Looks Forward To Working With New Interim College Head

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Mayor James Sheets said Tuesday he looks forward to working with the new interim president of Quincy College.

Selected for the one-year position last week by the Quincy College Board of Governors was Linda Wilson, director of the Quincy Public Schools Drop-Out Prevention Program. Wilson, the first woman to head the school, was chosen from a field that originally included 92 candidates.

Wilson, who will take a leave of absence from Quincy Public Schools while she runs the college, replaces Donald Young, who has held the interim position for more than a year since the firing of O. Clayton Johnson. Johnson has appealed his termination and arbitration is still pending.

Sheets, who is on leave from a teaching position at the college, said he is confident in Wilson's abilities.

"I taught with Linda Wilson, and I'm sure she's extremely qualified," said Sheets. "She'll do a good job, and I'll work with her."

However, Sheets said he still feels Young had done a good job running the college and deserved to remain in the position.

"I see nothing in his performance that would not warrant his going on as interim president," he said.

Last week, the City Council adopted a resolution in support of allowing Young to remain in the interim position until the Board of Governors decides it ready to look for a permanent president. The resolution, introduced by Council President Michael Cheney, was supported by all councillors except Councillor Joseph LaRaia, Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien and Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio, who serves on the Board of Governors.

The resolution was hand-delivered to the board by a police officer while it was interviewing finalists for the interim presidency.

Board Chairman Daniel Raymond criticized Cheney for interfering with the selection process "in the 11th hour." Cheney, however, said he only wants the college to get off to a good start under the Board of Governors, which replaced the School Committee as the governing body of the college earlier this year.

Cheney also said the resolution only represented the opinion of the council, not a direct order.

Sheets sided with the council, saying the mayor and the council gave the board its authority in the first place and therefore should be allowed to voice an opinion. He added that Quincy College is still a city department and ultimately must answer to the city.

"The mayor and City Council have general responsibility for the college in all areas not specifically vested in the board," said Sheets. "In many ways, the city actually has more authority over the college now than it did when it was governed by the School Committee."

Prior to the decision by the Board of Governors, Young had also received the support of nearly 100 college employees who had signed petitions to retain him for another year.

Montclair School Students 'Suit Up' For Space Shuttle Competition

Fourth graders at Quincy's Montclair School are getting an unique opportunity to discover the physical realities of neighboring planets as they design miniature space suits.

The children are taking part in a "Suit Up for the Space Shuttle" competition sponsored by Continental Cablevision and the Discovery Channel.

Under the guidance of teacher Sharon Grady, the youngsters have been working with a detailed study guide provided by Continental, and finding out how gravity and the atmosphere changes in space and on other planets. They are using that information to design and construct their own space suits.

The students, divided into six teams, have also written reports and produced video presentations of the features of their suits. A panel of scientific experts recently judged the projects, along with efforts from several other South Shore communities. One team will advance to a regional competition, with the opportunity to win a trip to the U.S. Space Camp in Huntsville, AL.

"This contest is a nice way to recognize the terrific work done in the classroom, but the important thing to remember is that all these youngsters are winners," said Bill McColgan, Continental Cablevision's director of Local Programming. "The creativity of the kids in Mrs. Grady's class is really remarkable, and we're happy that we could help to provide an educational outlet for that creativity."

The "Suit Up" curriculum is designed to coincide with the Nov. 13 premiere of the Discovery Channel's special on the Space Shuttle. Later this month there will be a display of the finished suits in the front lobby of the Continental Cablevision office at 81 School St., Quincy.

Registration for Ski Program Starts Dec. 12

The Quincy Recreation Department will conduct registration beginning Monday Dec. 12 for a five-week program of ski instruction at the Blue Hills Ski Area.

The program is open to Quincy youngsters age 8 through high school and features a 1 hour and 45 minute lesson from beginner to advanced, and free use of the ski tows.

Supervised transportation from Quincy and return will also be included. The instruction will be provided by certified instructors of the Blue Hills Ski School.

The program will be conducted on Tuesdays, beginning Jan. 3 and will continue for five weekly lessons. Cost of the program is $82 and is payable at the time of registration. Equipment rental can be arranged for an additional cost.

Registration will take place at the Quincy Recreation Department, 100 Southern Artery, Quincy weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. as long as openings exist. Additional information can be obtained by calling the Quincy Recreation Department at 376-1394.

Child Abuse Prevention Center Seeks Donations

The Dianne DeVanna Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect, Inc. is seeking the assistance of people from the South Shore.

The Braintree-based center will hold its annual Christmas Drive Dec. 19. Susan Nagle, executive director is asking for donations of new toys and winter clothing such as hats and gloves.

The DeVanna Center was established in 1978 after 11 year old Dianne DeVanna was beaten to death by her parents.

Today, it is a private non-profit organization that works with families considered at risk for child abuse and neglect in 10

South Shore communities.

The center's parent aides build ongoing supportive relationships with these families. The aides help parents overcome feelings of isolation and despair, build their own self-esteem and find better ways to communicate with and care for their children.

Sheets Plans After-School Expansion $85,592 In U.S. Funds For Recreation Programs

By MICHAEL WHALEN
The city is slated to receive $85,592 in federal money that will be used to expand Quincy's after-school gym program, according to Mayor James Sheets.

The grant, which is being distributed through the federal Local Partnership Act, will be made available for FY96 which begins next July 1. A total of $270 million is being awarded nationwide.

Sheets said Tuesday he was pleased to receive the news from the U.S. Conference of Mayors, but added that he wishes the city could receive even more.

"I'd like to have about $300,000 or $400,000, and then I could open every school in the city (for the after-hours gym program)," he said. "That's the goal, to open all of the schools."

Sheets said he is still waiting for final confirmation on whether the $85,592 can be used for the after-school program—which was established, among other reasons, to cut down on youth crime—but said the interpretation on how the funding is utilized is "very flexible" and he does not foresee any problems.

According to the memorandum Sheets received from the U.S. Conference of Mayors, "The funds provided through the Local Partnership Act can be used for education, substance abuse treatment or a jobs program to prevent crime, or for coordination of other crime prevention programs to meet the overall needs of communities. They can either be used...for activities substantially similar to those programs, or for other efforts consistent with the statutory provisions."

The Quincy Recreation Department after-school program, which began Oct. 24, is open to Quincy students in Grades 6-12. It operates in eight city public schools from 5 to 7 p.m. for middle school students and 7 to 9 p.m. for high school students.

The program is held Mondays at the Snug Harbor and Daniel Webster schools, Tuesdays at the Atherton Hough and Lincoln-Hancock schools, Wednesdays at Bernazzani Elementary and Atlantic Middle schools, and Thursdays at Squantum and Montclair schools. It was designed to keep Quincy youth off city streets at night and started with a budget of about $60,000 in Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) and Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG) monies.

Recreation Director Barry Welch said the program has been attended by an average of 169 to 285 young people a week, and added he is thrilled about the chances of expanding it.

"We've been more than looking forward to doing it," he said. "The need is there. We're extremely happy, and we're excited about the possibilities."

Welch said he would sit down with Sheets as soon as possible to discuss specifically how the funds should be used.

Sheets said the Local Partnership Act funds are a "one-shot deal" that the city will not be able to obtain next year. He pledged, however, to keep the recreation program at its expanded level after the funds have been exhausted.

"We've got to find the money somewhere else," he said. "I'm committed to this program."

By law, the city must hold a public hearing on the federal funds before they can be accepted, Sheets said. The hearing will be scheduled at a later date.

Merchants Assn. Holds Presidents Place Celebration

The Merchants Association of Presidents Place recently held a celebration in its Galleria featuring face painters and clowns to entertain children and photo opportunities with the white and pink Power Rangers.

According to Andy Ravech, property manager of Presidents Place, more than 2,000 people were on hand for the event.

"Our merchants were very pleased with the turnout, and everyone had a fun time," said Ravech. "This was the perfect time of the year to spread the word on Presidents Place."

"Bringing in a large crowd to visit our stores and restaurants gave families a chance to see our shopping environment first-hand. As a result of this event, we're expecting a busy holiday season for many of our store owners and eating establishments."

The Presidents Place Merchant Association includes: ATS Mobile Electronics, Buck-A-Book, Cafe Lazzarino's, G.J. Coddington's, Dunkin' Donuts, Harvard Community Health Optical Shop, Presidential Dry Cleaners, Presidents Place Dental, Tedeschi Food Shop, The Treasure Chest and Weight Watchers.

Presidents Place is located at 1250 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Citizens Bank Donates $4,000 For New Beechwood Gym Floor

Citizens Bank of Massachusetts has presented Quincy's intergenerational life center, Beechwood on the Bay, with a gift of $4,000 to be used to install a custom maple wood gymnasium floor.

Beechwood, established on Fenn St. in Wollaston in 1981, recently relocated to the site of the former Myles Standish School at 440 E. Squantum St., in Squantum at the entrance to Marina Bay.

"City and community-wide support proved invaluable to the success of our relocation," said Beechwood Executive Director Sharron Beals. "However, some needs are yet to be met."

"One was the gymnasium floor which has to meet certain specifications in order to provide proper support and protection for its users. Our elders and adults use the gymnasium for volleyball and fitness activities and our children use it for indoor exercises and activities during the winter months," Beals said.

"Without this floor Beechwood's programs would have been seriously impaired. We are very grateful to Citizens Bank," she added.

Robert M. Mahoney, president and CEO of Citizens Bank of Massachusetts, visited Beechwood and toured the site prior to presenting the donation.

"It's a pleasure to have the opportunity to demonstrate the support of Citizens Bank to the Quincy community through such a worthwhile resource such as Beechwood on the Bay. We are delighted to be of assistance in the continuing success of this vital community," Mahoney said.

Formerly known as Beechwood Community Life Center, Beechwood on the Bay serves Quincy and the surrounding area by providing child care, pre-school, after school, elder care programs, a music school and community educational and cultural enrichment activities and programs.

Residents Divided Over Proposed Stop & Shop

Residents are divided over whether Stop & Shop should be allowed to build a new superstore at the Pneumatic Scale site in North Quincy.

At a public hearing Monday night, 25 people spoke in favor of the project and 23 voiced opposition. In addition, 14 signed in support of the store and 13 were recorded as being against the proposal.

Most of those who spoke in opposition were affiliated with Work Inc., which employs people who are mentally and physically disabled. Opponents said increased traffic and other results of the new store, would place Work Inc.'s clients in jeopardy.

"This plan would make it even tougher for disabled people," said Work Inc. President Hank Cheney, who is no relation to City Council President Michael Cheney.

Some residents disagreed, however, saying Stop & Shop would be a welcome neighbor, particularly given the company's pledge to make more than $1 million in area traffic improvements.

Roger Lyons of 211 West Squantum St. said the supermarket would be a better use for the site than others.

"If this program doesn't get through, can you imagine what's going to go in there?", said Lyons.

Stop & Shop, which is headquartered in Quincy, is seeking a special permit to build a 75,000-square-foot supermarket and an 18,800-square-foot retail building on the Newport Avenue site.

It's Official: Tax Rate Increase Only One Cent

By MICHAEL WHALEN

It's now official: there will be no increase in commercial, industrial and personal property (CIPP) taxes in Quincy and only a one cent increase in residential taxes this year.

The City Council passed Mayor James Sheets' proposed FY95 property taxes of $30.58 (per $1,000) for CIPP and $14.58 for residential property Monday night. Last year, the rates were $30.58 and $14.57 respectively.

Sheets made good on his promise earlier this year to hold the line on property taxes and as a result, the average Quincy homeowner's tax bill will increase only $3 this fiscal year. Last year, the increase was $154.

The owner of an average single-family home, valued at $138,450, will pay $2,019 this fiscal year. Last year, the average homeowner's tax bill for a home valued at $138,350 increased about 8 percent from $1,862 to $2,016.

Sheets has attributed the new rates to a couple of factors, but mainly cost savings in government made possible by the co-operation between himself and the City Council.

Sheets said since the real estate market has stabilized, residential property values have risen only slightly this year. Under the new rates, business owners will pay about 37 percent of Quincy's tax-levy of $78.5 million.

Commercial property accounts for about 22 percent of the total value of Quincy real estate.

Homeowners will pay about 63 percent of the levy, despite the fact that residential property accounts for about 78 percent of the total value of real estate in the city.

Property taxes are the largest single source of revenue for the city's budget, which was $134.4 million this year. Local receipts, including sewer and water bills, excise taxes and other fees amount to about $32.1 million, while state aid amounts to about $32.1 million.

Two Councillors Undecided On Change Close Vote Seen On Making College Board Non-Political

By MICHAEL WHALEN

A home-rule petition to remove elected officials from the Quincy College Board of Governors has received both support and opposition on the City Council and will come down to two remaining votes.

The council could vote on the matter as early as its Dec. 19 meeting. The City Council Ordinance Committee is scheduled to discuss the petition to discuss the petition that night at 6:30 p.m.

Four of nine councillors have gone on record as being in support of the petition: Council President Michael Cheney, who drafted the proposal; Councillor-at-Large, Timothy Cahill, Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien, and Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan.

The petition needs a majority of City Council support before it can be sent to Mayor James Sheets for his signature. Sheets has indicated he would sign it and send it to the Legislature, saying that he supports the council's right to amend a previous petition if they so choose.

Three councillors have voiced opposition to the proposal: Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio, who serves on the Quincy College Board of Governors; Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson and Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers. Councillor-at-Large Joseph LaRaia and Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristoforo have said they need more time to think the matter over.

Sheets' home-rule petition passed earlier this year established the Board of Governors as the new governing authority over Quincy College. Traditionally, the School Committee had governed the college, but the New England Association of Schools and Colleges (NEASC) ruled last year that a new governing board had to be established or the college might lose its accreditation.

The NEASC said the

Alfred Grazioso Jr. Named New Purchasing Director

Alfred Grazioso Jr. of North Quincy has been appointed the city's new purchasing director by Mayor James Sheets.

Grazioso, 40, a sales representative for Bristol Graphics in Braintree and former owner of Grazioso's Deli Shoppe in Squantum, will replace outgoing Purchasing Director Michael McFarland by Dec. 19.

McFarland has been named to succeed Thomas Koch as Sheets' executive secretary. Koch is replacing retiring Parks, Forestry and Cemetery Department Executive Director Raymond Cattaneo.

Sheets said Tuesday he has known Grazioso and his family for more than 20 years, adding that the new appointee has a solid computer background and is perfectly suited for the purchasing position.

ALFRED GRAZIOSO JR.

"He'll do a very good job," said Sheets.

Grazioso sold the deli, which he had owned for six years, earlier this year when he began with Bristol. Previously, he worked for Kendall Furniture Co. in Boston from 1986-88 and Savings Management Computer Corporation from 1973-86.

Grazioso is a member of the Quincy Republican City Committee as well as various community and church groups. A 1972 graduate of North Quincy High School, he has attended Massachusetts Community College, the American Institute for Banking, Northeastern University and Boston University.

He lives with his wife Catherine and three children, Nicole, 11; Mathew, 9 and Christin, 8.

City Seeking Teen-Age Snow Shovelers

The city of Quincy is looking for teen-age students to do snow shoveling throughout the city during the winter months.

Teenagers between the ages of 14 and 18 should call the Quincy Council on Aging for information at 376-1243.

Jobs will be available according to the amount of snow. Students will work on a on-call basis.

Assignments will be made according to neighborhoods and workers will be required to have their own shovels.

Rate of pay will be $7.50 per hour.

Dan Yaeger Calls City 'Sleeping Giant'

Quincy 2000 Hires Tourism Consultant

By MICHAEL WHALEN
Dan Yaeger, owner of Yaeger Communications in Swampscott, has been hired as a tourism consultant/strategic planner by Quincy 2000, the city's public-private planning corporation.

Yaeger, 35, was chosen in early November from among a field of "35 to 40" applicants who responded to a request for proposals (R.F.P.) for the position, Quincy 2000 Executive Director Charles D'Aprix announced this week. Terms of the deal were not disclosed.

D'Aprix said Yaeger was chosen by the 15-member Quincy Tourism and Visitor Bureau Advisory Board, a Quincy 2000 initiative incorporating the former Quincy Tourism Association into a new

DAN YAEGER

Quincy 2000 subsidiary.

"What the city has been lacking is a first-class plan of action for tourism," said D'Aprix. "That's what Dan will provide us with."

Yaeger said at this point he has no concrete plans for the city. He noted that he is currently "in a fact-finding mode" and familiarizing himself with the community, a process he expects to last until he delivers "a final report" to Quincy 2000 in February.

Yaeger, however, referring to the city's historic sites and other attractions such as the U.S. Naval and Shipbuilding Museum at the Fore River shipyard, also called Quincy a "sleeping giant" in terms of tourism potential.

"Very few areas in this state have, in such a small area, what the City of Quincy has to offer," he said.

Yaeger began his career in the travel industry in 1984 as director of administration for the Massachusetts Office of Travel and Tourism. He was responsible for coordinating eco-

Fr. Quinn Named Successor Effective Feb. 1 Fr. McCarthy Retiring As St. John's Pastor

Rev. William R. McCarthy, Quincy's beloved "Father Bill" is retiring as pastor of St. John's Church.

Fr. McCarthy, 68, will be succeeded by Rev. Peter F. Quinn, 49, who has been serving as administrator at the church since August.

Fr. McCarthy, who has been pastor for 17 years, will remain at St. John's as senior priest in residence.

His retirement and Fr. Quinn's appointment as pastor will take effect Feb. 1 according to an announcement read at Masses at St. John's over the weekend.

The announcement said that Fr. McCarthy, who has been fighting a health problem through most of the year, requested the retirement which was approved by Cardinal Bernard Law. The latter then named Fr. Quinn as his successor.

Father Quinn has special praise for Fr. McCarthy.

He told the Quincy Sun Tuesday: "People who know him know what a wonderful person he is."

"He is a person who has given his whole life to the community and has never stopped giving and giving to the people, a Christlike witness anywhere."

Fr. McCarthy was not available for comment at press time.

Fr. Cornelius Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, and vicar for the Quincy Vicariate, described Fr. McCarthy as "the gentle shepherd who fortunately does not know how to say 'no' especially to the poor."

"We will miss him."

Dr. Peter V. Corea, pastor of Houghs Neck Congregational Church, praised Fr. McCarthy as a "great leader in the community, a positive force for good in the city and even state wide."

"He is a very ecumenically minded person and an extremely caring person. He is much loved by all of us."

FR. PETER QUINN
(Fr. Joseph O'Brien photo)

Fr. McCarthy was given a special honor by the Quincy-South Shore Interfaith Sheltering Coalition for his assistance to the homeless when it named its shelter for the homeless, "Father Bill's Place" in June, 1988.

St. John's parish is the largest of nine Catholic parishes in Quincy with more than 3,500 families. It was founded in 1863 and is second oldest in Quincy to St. Mary's established in 1840.

Fr. McCarthy was appointed pastor in 1977, the 11th in St. John's history. He succeeded Fr. John Tierney.

Since coming to St. John's, Fr. McCarthy has been active in the community in various

FAT CHANCE FOR DRINKERS

There is more bad news for heavy drinkers: too much booze can make you fat, and not just from the excess calories. Weight watchers have always pointed out that alcohol adds only "empty" calories, or calories with no nutritional value. Now, however, there is evidence that drinking also slows down the speed at which the body burns fat eaten in other foods. (Alcohol itself is fat-free.) In a study done by Swiss researchers, a group of non-alcoholic men drank the equivalent of six beers or six shots of wis-key a day. As a result, their metabolism of fat was suppressed by 36 percent.
Since fat that isn't burned off is stored in nasty bulges on the body, it may be wise to cut down on fat if you choose to drink.

P.S. That two-ounce shot of whiskey packs 148 calories.

Cutting down the amount of alcohol you consume is always good for your health. We can inform you what adjustments you can make in your diet and exercise to best maintain your health. At COMPRE-HENSIVE CARDIAC
CARE, we offer complete health care with a focus on heart problems and their prevention. I am affiliated Sheets Unopposed Again?

Mayor James Sheets plans to announce his candidacy for a fourth term tonight (Thursday) at a holiday reception which is hardly a political surprise.

The question is: will anyone step forward to challenge him? And, the answer to that is: probably no.

If there's anyone out there thinking of making a serious run against Sheets, if may already be too late. And if someone doesn't make an announcement by January, forget it.

Looking around, the only likely challenger of stature would be Councillor Tim Cahill who is the only one who would even think of taking on Sheets.

He almost did last year but yielded to friends who advised him not to because of Sheets' high popularity rating. They told him to wait for a more opportune time.

And next year doesn't look like the opportune time either. Sheets is still riding on a popularity tidal wave and it doesn't look like anyone or anything is going to push him off it.

Cahill doesn't seem to be gung-ho about running next year. He's been busy on the guest speaking circuit since his book, Profiles In The American Dream, came of the press in October.

And on these speaking engagements he hasn't been mixing politics with literature. Although he's getting to meet a lot of people which is a political plus for the future.

The feeling is that Cahill won't run against Sheets next year and nobody else will either.

City Council President Mike Cheney wants to run for mayor—but someday—not against Sheets.

RAYMONDI

Former state Senator Paul Harold and School Committee Vice Chairman Dan Raymond are names that keep popping up as future mayoral candidates. Councillors Larry Chretien and Charles Phelan are two more.

But all of them appear to be willing to wait until Sheets decides to leave City Hall for another job or to go fishing.

If he doesn't have a challenger next year, Sheets will be making a little more political history.

He is the only mayor in Quincy's history to twice run unopposed. This would be his third free ride.

Only two other mayors have run unopposed and both only once: Thomas Burgin in 1940 and Frank McCauley in 1983.

MBTA Advisory Committee Meeting At City Hall Dec. 13

The Access Advisory Committee to the MBTA (AACT) will meet Tuesday, Dec. 13 from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. in the second floor Conference Room in Quincy City Hall Annex, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Transit issues in the South Shore area will be discussed. MBTA personnel will attend.

The AACT is a consumer body, composed primarily of people with disabilities who advise and make recommendations to the MBTA regarding accessible transportation including RIDE, local buses and trains.

For more information,
call 973-7507 or 973-7089

Some feel that Sheets will not only win a fourth term in 1995 but seek and win a fifth term in 1997.

A completed fifth term—10 years—would be quite historic—under Quincy's Plan A form of government.

The longevity champ is the late Charles Ross who was elected five times (not consecutively) but didn't finish one of his terms.

Sheets, if he completed five terms, would be the new champ.

Amelio Della Chiesa served the longest as mayor with 12 years but only eight of them were as Plan A mayor. Four were under Plan E when a city manager was the chief executive and the mayor was like the city council president.

Anyway, Sheets will launch his fourth term campaign tonight at the reception (6 to 9 p.m.) at The Fours Restaurant, Cottage Ave.

The event is sponsored by his election committee with tickets going to $100.

That should help him get off to a good start.

THE REPUBLICAN REVOLUTION has most Democrats moaning and groaning but Congressman Gerry Studds has something to smile about.

According to a scorecard on the House of Representatives election compiled by The Washington Post, Studds ran up the highest vote total in New England and was fourth highest in the nation. His total was 171,585 with 69 percent of the vote over his rival, Republican Keith Jason Hemeon.

Top vote getter was Timothy Johnson (D-South
Dakota) with 183,038. Second was Thomas Bliley (R-Virginia) with 176,650 and Jam Ramstad (R-Minnesota) with 173,190.

FRANK KEARNS, Quincy Housing Authority
Commissioner, is back from California where he visited his daughter, Marylou Dewar in Los Angeles.

It's a trip he won't forget.

Frank decided to go by train for the experience and because, well, as they say, trains are safer than planes.

He left Boston and everything was fine until they reached South Bend, Ind., where the train hit a car, killing two people. The train was damaged and could not proceed.

The railroad brought in six buses to transport the passengers to Chicago from where they flew to Kansas City where they boarded another train to California.

When anyone asks him how his trip was he says, "It was eventful."

Incidentally, coming home, he took the plane.

Scenes From Yesterday

R. R. STATION, QUINCY, MASS.

THIS IS A 1915 postcard showing the Quincy Center station of the Old Colony Railroad in just about the same site that the new commuter rail station is expected to be built. The old station could be reached from Hancock Street by Depot Avenue or Saville Street both of which are now gone and are included as part of the McIntyre Mall. This view is facing north from what then was Irving Place, a short dead end street west of the tracks which became part of Upland Road and later, Burgin Parkway. The store fronts visible under the canopy on the right were around the base of the Hancock House hotel. The building on the left was owned by the A.J. Richard & Sons Co. which sold hay, grain and masons supplies.

A Thank You From Cerebral Palsy Of South Shore

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
On behalf of the Board of Directors and the Auction Committee, we want to thank all the individuals and businesses throughout the South Shore, Greater Boston and, for that matter, New England, who donated items, services, trips, dinners, sports memorabilia, and food to the fourth annual auction to benefit Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore.

The auction raised over $13,000 thanks to the generosity of our donors and attendees. We also want to thank our terrific committee, Dan Flynn our auctioneer, the Quincy Sons of Italy, our co-sponsors WJDA, The Quincy Sun and Continental Cablevision, and all our other volunteers.

Your efforts support therapeutic, educational, psychological, social and recreational services for disabled children, adults, and their families throughout Metropolitan Boston, the South Shore, Southeastern Massachusetts, Cape Cod and the Islands.

We are an independent, non-affiliated agency, that is not associated with a national organization, that provides direct services to thousands of individuals and their families in Massachusetts.

Again, thank you for your support.

Student Learns 'A Lot' From Anti-Smoking Show

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
My name is Thuy Linh. On Thursday, Nov. 17 all the seventh graders in Atlantic Middle School went to North Quincy to watch the show called Smoke Free Class 2000. We saw a lot of things in that show. We also listened to the band. It was great.

After that, we filled out a questionnaire and got a new pencil and a very cool T-shirt that has two big Chinese words and the words "Smoke Free Class 2000."

On that day, I learned a lot about smoking. At home, my father and my brother smoke. I hope I can do something to stop them from smoking or help them smoke less than before.

Nash To Stay As District Court Chief

By PAUL HAROLD

Judge Kenneth Nash was asked to remain as Chief Justice of the state's district courts by Governor Endicott Peabody.

The announcement came following a meeting at the Governor's home in Cambridge where the governor asked about the judge's health. When he told the governor it was fine, the judge was told he could continue in the chief's position.

The 76-year-old judge who has been on the bench for 46 years said he would like to continue for another 3 to 4 years.

His career began in 1918 when he was appointed special justice in Quincy and later in 1933 as full-time judge.

His career included 21 years as baseball coach at Tufts University.

Our Policy On ENGAGEMENT PHOTOGRAPHS And Wedding ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Quincy Sun will continue to publish photographs with engagement announcements as it always has.

The Sun will also continue to use in wedding announcements, the names of all members of the wedding party including maid or matron of honor, best man, parents, bridesmaids, ushers, flower girls and ringbearers, etc.

We invite engaged couples to submit photos with their announcements, and when submitting their wedding photo, to include a complete listing of the wedding party.

Black and white photos are preferred. The Sun can convert most color photos to black and white for publication but the photo loses some clarity in the process.

We suggest that when you have your engagement photo taken, you request the studio to send a copy to The Sun with the remainder that The Sun is continuing its policy of publishing engagement photos.

The Sun also publishes wedding and photo of wedding announcements, as well as wedding announcements.

Esther's Ricotta Cake

Here is a great recipe for Ricotta Cake made by my friend Esther who baked it for her son and daughter-in-law for Thanksgiving Day.

You may either use a package of yellow cake mix or a favorite recipe for the same. It will be a great dessert to serve at Christmas because it is not time consuming.

ESTHER'S RICOTTA CAKE
1 package of yellow cake mix
3 eggs
2 pounds of ricotta cheese

3/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Grease and flour a baking pan. Mix the ricotta, sugar, eggs and vanilla together on low speed in the electric mixer until smooth.

Place cake mix in pan. Spoon the ricotta mixture evenly over the top of the cake. Bake in a 350 degree oven for about an hour. Sprinkle top with powdered sugar. Cool in pan and cut in squares for serving.

Don't Let The 'Grinch' Steal Your Christmas

The upcoming holidays are generally very happy and festive times for most people.

However, a few people take advantage of this time of year by stealing the property of others. We'll call these people the "Grinch."

On Monday, Nov. 28, a "Grinch" broke into a car on Quincy Shore Drive and took some Christmas gifts that were left in the car. This type of theft occurs frequently during this holiday season.

What can you do to prevent this from happening to you?

Never leave valuables in your car. If you must leave valuables in your car, place them in the trunk. Remember the adage "out of sight, out of mind." If you have a station wagon, van or pick-up truck, place your valuables on the floor and cover them with a blanket.

Never store valuables in your trunk. Remove them as soon as you get home. A "Grinch" may be watching for an opportunity to do his holiday "shopping" from the trunk of your vehicle.

A second problem occurred recently. It seems we have another "Grinch" who is going into businesses during the day and stealing employee purses. During the past week five people have had their purses stolen by an unknown and unseen "Grinch." These crimes occurred in Wollaston Center and Quincy Square, see "Hot Spots" for locations.

Here are some suggestions on how you can prevent this "Grinch" from ruining your holidays.

Always lock your purse in a secure place. A locked desk drawer or file cabinet are best. Never leave your purse under your desk or in plain view.

Never carry more money in your purse than you need. You should also remove photos and documents that may be difficult or impossible to replace.

If you see a stranger in an employee's area, ask them if you can help them. If he or she does not have a good reason for being there, call the police immediately. Do not attempt to apprehend that stranger. Get the best physical description you can. Note the person's approximate age, height, weight, color of hair, color of clothing, and the direction they left in.

Be very careful with your purse while you are shopping. Never lay your purse down, not even for a few seconds. An experienced "Grinch" can steal your purse in the blink of an eye.

When making your holiday purchases, never flash large amounts of money. This is certain to get the attention of a "Grinch."

Follow these simple suggestions and chances are you won't become a victim of the "Grinch."

B.C. High Receives $100,000 For Charbonnier Scholarship Fund

Boston College High School recently received a gift from an anonymous donor in the amount of $100,000 to endow a scholarship fund in memory of State Trooper Mark Charbonnier.

Charbonnier, 31, who worked out of the Norwell barracks and as a state police prosecutor at Quincy District Court, died Sept. 2 after being gunned down during a routine traffic stop.

Applications for a grant from the Charbonnier Scholarship Fund—a grant which will cover half tuition for four years—will soon be available at the school. Each applicant must be the son of a state or local police officer and must be either presently enrolled at the school or an applicant to B.C. High.

The first grant(s) will be made in the spring of 1995, effective with the 1995-96 academic year. A recipient of the Charbonnier Scholarship must remain in good standing during his stay at the school.

For more information about the scholarship, call Richard Gill, director of admissions and financial aid, at 436-3900.

Broad Meadows Students Vow To Help 12-Year-Old Human Rights Activist

Broad Meadows Middle School students have vowed to aid a 12-year-old boy in his struggle to end forced slavery and child labor in his native Pakistan.

The students were horrified by the story of Iqbal Masih, whose father sold him to a carpet factory owner at age 4 for the $12 needed to pay for his elder son's wedding.

Iqbal, who was chained to a loom in a factory and forced to work for six years making carpets, urged students through a translator to help his people. He said they could do so by writing letters to high-ranking officials and staging demonstrations to persuade the U.S. government to pressure the Pakistani government into passing a law requiring that all children be educated.

Although indentured servitude became illegal after the Pakistani Parliament passed the Abolition of Bonded Labor Act in 1992, the laws against enslaving children are rarely enforced because of the influence of wealthy industrialists. Iqbal finally escaped after the law changed at that time by running away to attend a rally organized by the Bonded Labour Liberation Front, at which point he decided to become a human rights activist.

The boy, who is not appearing before any other student groups, decided to speak at Broad Meadows last Friday because of the school's ongoing efforts to preserve human rights around the world, officials said. The students, who agreed to help Iqbal in his fight, have helped work on similar projects in the past.

Iqbal was scheduled to receive the Reebok Human Rights "Youth in Action" Award at a ceremony at Northeastern University in Boston yesterday (Wednesday) for his willingness to speak out against child slavery.

HOLIDAY STRESS TIPS

Don't let the holidays get you down. Dr. Freedman has some sound advice based on his health care experience and training.

1. Before you jump on the merry-go-round of activities, pull out and pitch all the non-essential projects that were time-consuming and wasteful the previous year.
2. Concentrate on essentials, and pace yourself. Make up a list of projects to be done by priority and allow sufficient time for them.
3. Don't try to get all your entertainment into the holidays. If you "owe" someone dinner or social response, try to schedule it after the holidays. Since other people suffer the same frustrating schedule as you do, they might also appreciate an invitation when the pace slackens.
4. Resist the temptation to over-eat or to indulge in an excess of rich foods.
5. Get plenty of sleep and relaxation.
6. Keep an important place on that calendar of busy activities for periodic health examinations, including a spinal examination.

Dr. Freedman is offering a HOLIDAY SPINAL SCREENING at NO CHARGE in exchange for THREE (3) CANS OF FOOD to be donated to Father Bill's Place, thru December 31, 1994.

CHIROPRACTIC WORKS-NO DRUGS-NO SURGERY. Dr. Barry Freedman has been the Director of FAMILY PRACTICE OF CHIROPRACTIC for the past 15 years, with offices at 112 McGrath Highway, Quincy Center. He is President of the Massachusetts Chiropractic Society, teaches nutrition at Massachusetts Community College and lectures extensively at many organizations and schools, including Harvard University School of Medicine and Boston University School of Nursing. If you have any question about chiropractic or need information about lectures for your organization please call Dr. Freedman's office at 472-4220.

Basketball

North Boys Will Rely On Speed

By DAVE SOUTHWICK

According to eighth-year North Quincy High School boys basketball head coach Ted Stevenson, his team will be "even better than last year's team" when his group opens the season Tuesday, Dec. 13 against Plymouth South at 7 p.m.

"This is a very quick team, said Stevenson, "the quickest I've ever coached."

Team strengths of speed and experience should allow the Raiders to better last season's 14-7 record, which included a trip to the Division I state tournament.

The biggest loss Stevenson has to deal with is that of center Jason McLeod. McLeod, who averaged 19 points a game last year and set a school record with 10 blocked shots in one game, is suiting up for Mt. Ida College on a basketball scholarship.

Leading the way this season are senior tri-captains Gerry Fernandez, Brad Gray and William Ngutter. All three bring plenty of experience as each started at least 15 varsity games last season. Junior Matt Beston, last year's leading three-point shooter and an Old Colony League all-star, also brings varsity experience to the court.

North has several players moving up from the junior varsity team. Included in this group are seniors David Scott, Jesse Casler, Eric Zimmerman,

The starting lineup will have Beston and Ngutter at guard and Gray and Fernandez at forward. The starting center position has yet to be decided due to a lack of size in the group. Among the candidates are Scott, Zimmerman and Coughlin.

"Size is our biggest weakness," said Stevenson. "But I think our speed will make up for our size."

North will again square off with teams in the tough Old Colony League. Leading the pack are defending champion Silver Lake, Bridgewater-Raynham and Taunton. Cross-town rival Quincy, a team North beat twice last year, once in double-overtime, will also play the Raiders tough.

In addition to their league opponents, North's schedule includes a Christmas tournament at St. John's Prep in Danvers, a home game with Boston English and a trip to take on powerhouse Milton, a top-five team they upset last year in the regular season finale.

This year's assistant coaches include Jim Rendle, who returns to lead the junior varsity, and Kipp Caldwell, who will take over the freshmen team. Paul Fitzpatrick, last year's freshmen coach, returns as a volunteer assistant.

NORTH QUINCY High School graduate Carin Corrigan was a starting fullback on the Bridgewater State College soccer team this fall as a sophomore. The Lady Bears finished the season with a record of 9-10 under coach Tom McGuinness. Corrigan played soccer and basketball at North Quincy.

Quincy Boys Lineup Still To Be Decided

Intensity is the word as players battle for spots on a Quincy High School boys' basketball team that was decimated by graduation.

"We've had a lot of competition in camp," said head coach John Franceschini. "No spots have been solidified which has made for excellent practices."

The Presidents face their first test Tuesday, Dec. 13 at Taunton, one of the premier teams in the Old Colony League. They host Weymouth Friday, Dec. 16 at 7 p.m.

Quincy lost last season's entire starting unit to graduation but Franceschini is pleased with what he's seen so far.

"This year's team is a nice blend. We'll play eight to 10 kids on a consistent basis. Those eight to 10 are all on the same par and they're very solid with what they do. There are no superstars. You'll see points from many different kids on many different nights."

The coach is counting on leadership from senior co-captains Jason Downey, a guard, and Dave Sawan, a forward. The other seniors on the squad are Tom Clark, Chris DeLisle, Jim Lencki and Chris McParlin.

The varsity roster also includes juniors Jed Donnelly, Dave Gunther, Jeff Russell and Todd Sullivan, and sophomores Geoff King and Bob Walsh.

"Clark, Russell and Lencki will be our primary outside scorers. Gunther will do most of the ball-handling chores," said Franceschini.

The Presidents will again be hampered by the lack of a true center. "We'll rotate our forwards in and out," said the coach. "As in the past we'll look to play an up-tempo brand of basketball. We'll try to get offense from our defense."

"Our goal will be to hold teams to 60 points or under in order for our offense to compete."

With the new rule this year that allows teams to reach the tournament with a .500 record, the coach feels that post-season play for his team is possible. "It's an obtainable goal. It's not something that's not there. How we play the first couple of weeks will set the tone for the rest of the season."

Taunton, Bridgewater-Raynham and Barnstable return a wealth of talent and are expected to be tough. Defending league champion Silver Lake will again be strong.

By KERRY BYRNE

North Girls Look For Improvement

North Quincy girls' basketball coach Ken Panaro is looking for great improvement over last season's 5-15 record.

"We're going to surprise some people," said Panaro. "We all worked very hard, not just in pre-season, but individually over the summer."

His team will get their first test Tuesday, Dec. 13 at Plymouth South. Their home opener is Friday, Dec. 16 against Falmouth at 7 p.m.

North returns seven players with varsity experience, giving them a good base for improvement. The seven are senior co-captains Amy Riley and Kim Healy, senior Kristen Proude, juniors Sarah Stanton and Kelly Keegan, and sophomores Kerry Ginty and Erica Crawford.

Stanton was one of the top players in the Old Colony League last year. She comes into the season as the team leader in scoring and rebounding. She set a Red Raider record last year with 38 points in one game.

The starters will be Stanton and Ginty at forward. For Stanton it will be her third year as a starter on the varsity squad. Healy and Proude will get the nod at guard. Riley and Crawford are competing for the center position.

Rounding out the roster are junior Kristen Kelly and sophomores Jill Pacardi and Dawn Coler.

Panaro is wary of his team's lack of tall players. "This will be a tough season because of our team's height," he said. "We're short and this will be a tough league to be short in."

Favored to lead the pack in the OCL are defending champion Bridgewater-Raynham, Barnstable and Taunton.

First-year assistant Michael Simmons will coach the JV team. Arthur Godde returns to coach the freshmen.

Fast Break, Connolly Keys For Quincy Girls

By KERRY BYRNE

First-year Quincy High School girls' basketball coach Diann Abela hopes to mold her young squad into fast-break team centered around junior captain Kerri Connolly.

"We have a very young team with just three seniors," said Abela. "Kerri's the only one who played varsity last year."

The Presidents host Taunton Tuesday, Dec. 13 in the season-opener. They travel to Weymouth Friday, Dec. 16.

"We have some speed so I want to run the ball as much as possible to get easy baskets. If we get stuck in the half-court game we probably won't do as well. I'm designing plays to get the ball up court and get Kerri open as much as possible. She's only five-two or five-three but she's a strong girl, physical and aggressive, with a good shot."

Junior point guard Toni Kabilian, a three-sport athlete, will be responsible for moving the ball into scoring position. "She's a good ball-handler and sees the court well," said Abela. "We're trying to get her to get rid of the ball quick for the fast break."

The other starters will be senior Stephanie Wiltshire at center, sophomore Angela Hogrell at forward and either senior Muiread Flaherty or freshman Erin Barry at the other forward spot.

"Stephanie is tall (about six feet), has some quickness and some good low-post moves. We'll try to get her in the mid-to low-post area. Erin is a promising freshman with good upper body strength," said the coach.

Abela will be assisted by Bob Noble and Nicki Caldwell. Caldwell's husband Kipp coaches boys basketball at North Quincy High. The two were married last month.

Abela, a 1988 graduate of Providence College who captained the Lady Friars basketball team her senior year, has a long-range goal of slowly rebuilding a Quincy program that has been less than spectacular in recent years.

"Erin [Barry] was involved with Quincy Bad Girls, but most of the players I have were not. I want to get our girls involved in youth leagues so that they have the fundamentals when they get into high school."

10 Inducted Into Q-NQ Football Hall of Fame

By KERRY BYRNE

Former North Quincy High School football player Bill Degan was the featured honoree at the Quincy-North Quincy Football Hall of Fame induction ceremony held at the Morrisette American Legion Post.

Degan, a 1968 graduate of North Quincy, went on to have a distinguished military career in the United States Marine Corps. In 1992, as a member of the US Marshall Service, he was killed in the line of duty.

Nine other men were inducted into the Hall of Fame. The inductees from North Quincy High were Don Johnson (class of 1940), Joe Concannon (1947), Howie Harding (1959) and Kevin Cobban (1980). Quincy's inductees were James Papile (1942), Ed (Sonny) Westland (1949), Peter Chella (1964), Thomas Malvesti (1966) and Thomas Brennan (1980).

The Hall of Fame banquet also honors the senior football players from both high schools.

Family friend Ed Bennett spoke of Degan and his accomplishments:

"No one epitomizes better high achievement in athletics and human endeavors. On the football field he wanted the toughest assignment, responsibility and leadership. Late in the '66 game against Quincy, they had a fourth-and-two. Degan started yelling at the Quincy kids, 'run at me!' They did and he stopped them for a 2-yard loss.

"He wanted the toughest assignment as a US Marshall. He gave his life in service of his country in August of 1992 on a ledge in Idaho. He is a true American hero.

"He loved North Quincy High football. If he were here he'd tell you to enjoy these memories."

Degan's son, Bill, received a standing ovation as he accepted the award for his father.

"My father loved football," said the young Degan. "He believed it was more than just a game. It was a test of incredible strength and strategy. It shaped his life."

To the senior players Degan said: "If my father were here he'd tell you all 'play to win.' He loved going to the Thanksgiving Day game and he loved to bring us."

Johnson was the evening's first inductee. He was introduced by Pete Zoia. "I knew him when he played as a quarterback under coach Jack Donahue in his single and double wing offense. He was a running QB," said Zoia.

"When I went to Colby College (in Waterville, Maine)," said Johnson, clad in his NQ varsity letterman sweater, "the last thing in my mind was that I'd become a Down Easter, so like a Down Easter I'll keep it brief. To

Germain's 7 Points Pace Quincy Sun

Dave Germain had a busy day around the crease with four goals and three assists as his Quincy Sun squad burnt Burgin Platner, 11-6, in Squirt House League play.

The other Sun goal scorers were Brian Keefe (2), Jon Tallent, Matt Conso, Rob Mooney, Dan Sheehan and Wayne Moynihan. Two assists each were handed out by Steve Summering, Bruce Maggio and Conso. Single assists were recorded by Tim Gleason, Mooney and Sheehan.

Steve Romanowski, Billy McKeon and Steve Price each netted two goals for Burgin. Mike Delahoyde was the leading playmaker with three assists. Romanowski dished out two assists and Joe Cunningham and Peter Turowski made apiece.

Brian O'Hanley and Jim Kuhn (two goals each) were the spark plugs for Johnson Motor Parts as they beat Green Environmental, 9-1.

Single tallies were recorded by Jordan Virtue,

Brett Keyes, Pat Clifford, Scott Markarian and Shaun Flaherty. Andrew Mahoney (2), Virtue (2), Flaherty, O'Hanley, Markarian, Sean Moriarty and David Toner posted assists.

John Mateu scored an unassisted goal for Green.

Ryan Tobin's two goals were the difference for Doran & Horrigan as they edged Granite Auto Electric, 5-4, to stay on top of the Squirt House League standings.

Jim Cashins, Shawn Richardson and Chris Anderson also tallied for the winning squad. Jill McInnis handed out two assists. Richardson recorded one assist.

Neal Gavin led Granite with two goals. Mike Conley and Dan Coughlin notched single goals. The assists were posted by Lisa Kelly, Katie McShane, Jeff Atkins and Mike Conley.

Squirt House League standings: Doran, 6-1-1; Quincy Sun, 6-2; Johnson, 5-1-2; Burgin, 2-5-1; Granite Auto, 1-5-2; Green, 0-6-2.

Mite House

Lynch Leads Harold Club With Four Goals

Brian Lynch was the week's top scorer in the Mite House League as he netted four goals to lead Paul Harold to a 5-3 win over Lydon Russell.

Steve McGrath notched the other winning goal. Assists were handed out by Ryan Feldhoff (2), Keith Flaherty and Andrew Pangraze.

Brendan Oliverio, Dan Durocher and Pat Maxey lit the lamp for Lydon Russell. Dishing out assists were Terry O'Connell, Steve Bythrow, Joe Norris, Maxey and Durocher.

Ryan Conley and the hard-skating Barter Boys, Ryan and Billy, each chalked up goals, to lead M. Sugarman to a 3-2 win over Purdy's Ice Cream.

Matt Germain was the other top gun with a two goals and an assist. Other goals were notched by Andrew Patten, Kyle Carmody and Justin Swierk.

Tim Duggan (2), Dan Giannotti and Nick Leger netted the Purdy's goals. Jon O'Connor posted the lone assist.

Ben Metcalfe and Steve Crispo posted unassisted tallies for Doherty.

Jessica Poggi and Steve Ohlson netted two goals each for Samoset Pharmacy as they doubled Granite Rail Pizza, 8-4.

Also lighting the lamp for Samoset were Steve Kelley, Tim Sommers, Matt Lavery and Matt Haskins. Assists were handed out by Dan Poggi, Myles Clancy, Bret Martinson, Paul McLean and Kelley.

Josh Giordani was again the big cheese on Granite Rail Pizza as he scored two goals. Single tallies were notched by Paul Lennon and Patrick Devlin. Kevin Richardson, Mike McKeon, Lennon and Devlin handed out assists.

Speed racer Danny Sullivan posted a goal and three assists to lead Barry's Deli to an 8-4 win over Purdy's Ice Cream.

Matt Germain was the other top gun with a two goals and an assist. Other goals were notched by Andrew Patten, Kyle Carmody and Justin Swierk.

Tim Duggan (2), Dan Giannotti and Nick Leger netted the Purdy's goals. Jon O'Connor posted the lone assist.

Pee Wee House

Three Teams Remain Tied Atop Standings

Eleven different players scored for Skinner's Winners as they stayed tied atop the Pee Wee House League standings with a 13-6 win over Keohane's.

Mike Welch and Paul Campbell were the only two-goal scorers for the winning squad. With single tallies were Tim O'Connor, Mark Gibbons, Tom Costa, Graham McShane, Rene Lumaghini, John Grazioso, John Gavin, Paul Zenga and Steve McGonagle. Lumaghini (3), Gibbons (2), McGonagle (2), Gavin, O'Connor, Welch and Costa posted assists.

Didier Alther led Keohane's with two goals and two assists. Single goals were recorded by Matt Miller, Kyle Piazza, Kevin Mason and Mike Carloni. Carloni, Chris Lumaghini and Matt Moriarty made assists.

Conrad Leger, Martin McGrath and Dan Kennedy lit the lamp two times each as Neponset Valley Survey topped Mike Morrissey Club, 8-3.

Paul Burke and Matt Gregory netted one apiece for the winning squad. Kennedy (2), Steve Wilkie, John Mooney, Steve Goff and Matt O'Connell assisted.

Duncan Devlin, Brian Nolan and Matt Minicucci netted the Morrissey goals. Derek Whitman and Minicucci assisted.

Five different players scored for Colonial Federal in their 5-2 win over Marina Bay Taxi.

Matt Reggiani, Patrick Mullen, Ryan Doyle, Scott MacDonald and Sean Haidul were the Colonial lamp lighters. Rich Bonvic was the top playmaker with two assists. Reggiani made one assist.

Spike Bertucci and Kiya Tupe scored and assisted for Marina Bay Taxi. Mark Giese also notched an assist.

Pee Wee House League standings: Skinner's, 6-2; Neponset, 6-2; Colonial, 6-2; Marina Bay, 4-3-1; Morrissey Club, 1-7; Keohane's, 0-7-1.

Mite A's Win Three Straight

The strong Quincy Mite A squad chalked up wins over Needham, Belmont and Pembroke.

Andy (Stonewall) Patten stood fast between the pipes in Quincy's 11-0 win over Needham.

The 'G' Crew, Matt Grazioso (three goals, one assist), Josh Giordani (three goals) and Matt Germain (two goals, one assist) did the bulk of the offensive damage for Quincy. Richard Stone also played superb in the Needham zone with two goals and an assist. Kevin Richardson netted the first goal of the game.

Assists were dished out by Brendan Conley (2), Ryan Conley, Joe Norris and Brendon Craig.

Timmy Duggan showed outstanding hustle, passing and leadership. Matt Lavery was the top blueliner.

Quincy edged out a 3-2 come-from-behind victory over Belmont.

Lavery led a 2 on 1 breakaway capped by a picture-perfect pass to Stone for the game-winner.

Giordani scored the first two Quincy goals - one on a pass from Grazioso and the other and outstanding unassisted breakaway.

Goalender Richardson made a number of crucial early saves to keep Quincy alive as Belmont rushed the net hard.

Pat Maxey played strong on defense and Grazioso showed relentless hustle up front.

A short-handed Quincy squad handed Pembroke a 5-2 loss. Quincy was missing five players and was limited to just two full lines.

Germain led Quincy with a hat trick and two assists. Craig scored and dished out three assists. Maxey netted one and assisted on two others. Norris broke up several Pembroke scoring threats. Stonewall Patten was again excellent in goal.

Danny Durocher played determined hockey and was all over the ice for Quincy.

Netminder Shaun Flaherty notched his first shutout of the season as the Quincy Squirt A's hammered Westwood, 9-0.

Flaherty knocked away a number of Westwood shots with his quick pads.

Billy McKeon led the offensive charge with two goals, the last tally coming with just one second left in the contest.

Also lighting the lamp were Joe (Fitz) Fitzpatrick, Jim (Slashin') Cashins, Ryan Donahue, Jill McGinnis, Andy Ross, Brian (the Flying Irishman) O'Hanley and David Germain.

Setting up the goals were Brian (Blue Chip) Stock, Frank Guest, Matt Conso, Joe Cunningham, Slashin' Cashins, O'Hanley, McGinnis and Germain.

Sparkling blue line play was turned in by Sean Richardson and Blue Chip Stock. Danny Sheehan also played well.

George Snowling and Danny Davis.

Jacob O'Donnell scored an unassisted goal for Quincy in the second period on a shot that the Medfield netminder is still looking for. Additional shots by Brianna Nolan, Myles Clancy, Mark Lewis, Chris Sheehan and Liam Powers kept the Medfield goalie busy.

Bees goalie once again stopped a number of hard shots fired his way. Medfield's aggressive forwards were stung by defenders Ricky Cullen,

Soccer

Quincy Men Lead Massasoit To N.E. Title

The Massasoit Community College soccer team won the New England championship for the 16th time, and two Quincy men played a significant role.

Massasoit's first-year head coach is Quincy native John Murphy, a 1985 graduate of North Quincy High School. Jake Costa is a freshman midfielder and a 1994 graduate of Boston College High School.

The Warriors beat Mt. Ida College, 2-0, on Nov. 5 to secure the New England title and move to a No. 4 ranking nationally. It was their 10th New England championship in the last 11 years.

Massasoit posted a 17-2-1 record and scored 117 goals during the season.

Entering the national quarterfinals, they were shooting for the all-time record for goals in a season of 134.

Murphy, 27, was an accomplished player. He was a star player at North Quincy and played for Massasoit when they won the junior college national title in 1986. He spent six years in the Quincy Youth Soccer League.

Costa, 19, was the first man off the Warrior bench this season. He scored four goals and recorded seven assists. Murphy describes him as "very quick, very aggressive and tough - a typical Quincy kid."

Murphy and Costa first teamed up as coach and player in the Quincy Youth Soccer League.

Sullivan Leads Pee Wee B's

Michael Sullivan netted two goals to lead the Quincy Pee Wee B team past Brookline, 6-3.

The other Quincy goals were scored by Mark Giese, Mark Gibbons, Steven McGonagle and Shane Kabilian.

Mike Cuniff and Kabilian handed out two assists each. Single assists were made by McGonagle, Giese and Tommy Gaeta.

Matt O'Connell and Ryan Murray also played well. Domenic Papasie was outstanding on defense.

Pat O'Donnell and Matt Gregory shared the netminding duties and both looked sharp.

Bowling

Patriot Glass Atop Olindy's Standings

Patriot Glass sits atop the Olindy's Junior All-Star Bowling League with a record of 26-14.

They are followed by Mike's Auto Body, 25-15; J&S Plumbing, 24-16; Don's 24-16; Eco Muffler, 22-18; Petar's Automotive, 21-19; Team #8, 18-22;

Team #12 18-22; Everlasting Engraving, 18-22; Country Ski & Sport, 16-24; Tony's, 14-26; Olindy's, 14-26.

Bowlers of the week were Jack Sullivan, who rolled a 240, 51 pins over his average; Robert Jolicoeur, who bowled a 239, 53 over his average, with a personal high single of 90; Amanda Pelletier whose 280 was 31 pins over her average and included a high single of 101; and Sherry MacKenzie who bowled 120, 30 pins over her average.

Eric Dickens and Brian

Wilkosky are tied for the highest boys average with 98. John Fitzgerald (95) is third and Paul Stewart (93) is fourth.

Pelletier is the leading girl with an average of 85. Melissa Cook (82) and Cheryl Fillis (73) are second and third.

honors: "After playing at Quincy Papile went on to captain the Northeastern University football team. He then joined the Army and stayed in for 33 years. He retired as a colonel and was appointed head of the New York Emergency Management Council by governor Mario Cuomo."

"Since I've been away from Quincy for 40 years, it's nice to be remembered," said Papile.

Concannon was introduced by Butch Mahoney: "In 1946 North Quincy had a 7-2 record. The Father's Club gave two trophies, one to Leo Luchini, for being the best back, and one to Concannon for the best lineman. In Joe's three years at they went 21-5-3 and beat Quincy twice."

Said Concannon: "They told me to keep it brief, and I will. I do have one thing to say that is ironic tonight. There's another guy getting inducted into the Hall of Fame, from Brewer's Corner, that I met in the '30s. We played football together, and if you ever want to meet a tough guy, meet Sonny Westland."

Westland spoke to the players about the meaning of the Quincy-North Quincy game. "It wouldn't be Thanksgiving without watching football on Thanksgiving morning. I know all the names, I've been going to the games for 55 years, ever since I could jump over the wall [at Veterans' Stadium]."

"Sonny had great speed," said Kenny Balducci, who introduced him. "He was a good player at Quincy. He went on to Thayer where the coach polished him into a gem."

After high school Westland played with Concannon under coach Pete Zoia for the North Quincy Alumni team which included players from both sides of the city.

Ron Zoia introduced Harding as the next inductee. "Howie was a lineman who went to Northeastern where he played offense and defense for four years, including the only undefeated season in Northeastern history. He was, through hard work, big, strong and fast. Or, as they say, agile, mobile and hostile."

Said Harding to Zoia: "I didn't know how good I was until now."

Peter Kolson introduced Chella, his friend and former teammate. As he took the podium, the portly Chella looked over at Don Johnson and quipped, "I can't believe that they put me and Pete on stage with a guy who can still get his letterman sweater on."

Chella, now a teacher at Quincy High, spoke fondly of former coach Jack Garrity. "Garrity taught me the meaning of hard work and was responsible for me getting into UNH. It is coaches like that that led me to teach."

"The other person who taught me about football is my father, who went to all my games. This honor, as much as it means to me, would mean more to him. My one regret is that he is not here."

Fellow Hall of Famers Jim Rendle and Nick Malvesti did the honors for Nick's son Tom. "In '65 we started out at 0-2," said Rendle, "but then Tom came in at QB and we went 6-1 the rest of the way. He also played defensive end - a rare combination." Malvesti went to Western Arizona to play football and baseball, then flew 50 combat missions in Vietnam. He is now a detective in the Quincy police force.

"From this Thanksgiving Day game I've made friendships with people from the other side of the city, people like [current North head coach] Ken McPhee. Now my son Tom (a 1994 Quincy High grad) is roommates with Dave Pacino (a 1994 North Quincy High grad) at Stonehill College. They both put their high school towels up on the wall of their room."

Hall of Fame Committee vice-president Fred Cobban introduced the final North Quincy inductee, his brother Kevin. Kevin became a three-year starter at quarterback at Boston State College. He coached at North Quincy and Weymouth before taking over the program at Plymouth North this season.

"I'm very honored to be here," said Kevin. "All I ever wanted to do was play football for North Quincy."

"I'd like to thank a couple of men - Dave Burke, who was the head coach in my day, and Ken McPhee and Jack Raymer who were assistants who helped me become the coach I am today."

To the senior players he said: "When you come out on Thanksgiving and see the crowd going crazy, take a look around and take it all in. I know your coach doesn't want you to, but it's the biggest event you'll ever be involved in."

Former Quincy High coach Tom Fitzgerald introduced Brennan, the evenings final inductee. "When I went to Quincy I was trying to put a team together. It didn't seem like we had much, and this little guy, 5 feet 6 inches, 140 pounds, showed me and the whole team what football is all about."

"Every opposing coach came over after the game and said, 'God, who is that guy?'"

"We were losing one game at the half and I couldn't get our guys up. Tom came up to me and said 'don't worry about it, I'll take care of it.' You never heard such a speech!"

"What I miss most about football," said Brennan, "are the teammates I had."

Dan McPhee, the father of North Quincy head coach Ken, was given a lifetime achievement award by Hall of Fame

Committee treasurer Tom Kiley. Kiley called McPhee "our ultimate worker."

McPhee plays a pivotal role in the Hall's fund-raising efforts.

KEVIN CAREY, a 1994 Quincy High graduate, was one of two recipients of the Bill Degani Jr. Memorial Scholarship. William F. Degani Sr. presents a check to Carey who was a starting defensive back on the Fitchburg State College football team this season. The other scholarship recipient, Dave Pacino, a 1994 graduate of North Quincy High, was not present at the ceremony. Pacino was a starting defensive lineman at Stonehill College.

COOL RUNNING

Under the terms of an international agreement, the refrigerant (R-12) used in most cars more than two years old will no longer be manufactured after 1995. Unlike R-12, its replacement (R-134a) is a hydrofluorocarbon which does not erode the atmosphere's ozone layer. As good as this news is for everyone under the sun, it complicates matters for car owners with automobiles that use R-12 in their air conditioning systems. Because R-12 and R-134a differ in their chemical and cooling properties, they are not directly interchangeable. Before supplies of R-12 run out, car owners are advised to have their old air conditioning systems checked if they have not been examined within the past year or two, or if they are performing below par.

HINT: Once supplies of R-12 run out, older AC systems will have to be altered to accommodate the new refrigerant.

SPORTS SPOTLIGHT

By KERRY BYRNE

I was at BU's Nickerson Field Saturday for the Division 3A and 1A Super Bowls, games 38 and 39 that the Football Guy has attended this year.

During the afternoon contest, the 1A game between undefeated eastern Mass. titans Peabody and New Bedford, thousands of people packed the stadium. The stands on the visiting side were jammed tight. On the larger home side there were empty seats in the corners, but that was about it. A wall of people lined the field from end zone to end zone, in some places six-deep. Imagine what it might have been like had there not been 16 other Super Bowl games being played across the state that day?

Bands wailed back and forth, cheerleaders urged on their teams, and the boys batted it out on the field. The college-like atmosphere was fantastic.

I'm watching this and I'm thinking how people always say that Massachusetts isn't a football area. Well, those people are wrong. Does a football fan have to go barefoot and call females 'women folk' just to be a good fan? I don't think so.

If I remember correctly, 25,000 people left Boston for Dallas to watch Boston College play in the 1985 Cotton Bowl. It was called the largest exodus from Massachusetts since World War II.

A year later, 20,000 or so people made the trip to Miami to watch the Patriots spank the Dolphins in the AFC title game.

This year both Boston College and the Patriots, each with a promise of bigger things to come, nearly sold out every home game just with season tickets alone.

And let's not forget that three Massachusetts men, Doug Flutie, Joe Bellino and Angelo Bertelli, have won the Heisman trophy, perhaps the most coveted individual award in American sports.

Massachusetts is home to rabid fans, some of the best players the game has ever seen, and one the nation's great football traditions: Every Thanksgiving, hundreds of thousands of people, maybe even a million, flock to stadiums across the state to watch high school rivals do battle. Some of these rivalries are the oldest in the nation.

And we are not a football region? Just because we don't wear overalls and straw hats and have names like Jed or Bobby Sue doesn't mean we're not good football fans.

So I'm playing street hockey Sunday for the first time this year behind Broad Meadows Middle School.

Running around, scoring goals, showing some of the stick wizardry that made me a legend in my own mind.

It was a crisp, kinda chilly fall day. The cold air dries out my throat but it feels about as clean as air can feel this close to a sludge plant. I haven't done much running around since the summer, but I'm thinking to myself, 'Wow, I feel pretty good.'

Monday morning I get up to go to work.

The tears start. Then searing pain shoots through my body. 'Why me? Why?! Why?!' I say in my best Nancy Kerrigan voice.

After an hour or so of stretching I'm able to get in the shower. The hot water does wonders but soon the fleshy material that passes for muscle in my legs is tight as can be.

I bend over to put on my shoes and I have trouble standing up. I soon realize that years of bodily neglect and bad nutrition have finally caught up to me.

What makes it even worse is that on Tuesday 1, a supposedly healthy 24-year-old, go to see the over-60 hockey league at Quincy Youth Arena. Guys in their 70s are skating up and down the ice playing what is probably the most difficult sport there is.

That was really an ego boost.

Now, to talk about the real athletes:

Chris Canio, a Quincy resident and graduate of Archbishop Williams High School, helped guide the Merrimack College men's soccer team to a school record 16 wins and a New England Conference title.

The junior recorded 14 points in 22 games.

David Rafferty of Quincy, a junior offensive guard on the Norwich University football team for the second straight year, opened holes for Steve Gabriel who was the league's top rusher with 1,050 yards.

Plymouth State College sophomore Jeff Craig has posted a goal and four assists in six games this year. PSC is coming off a 17-8 season which saw them advance to the semifinals of the ECAC Div. III tournament.

North Quincy High graduate Derek Colantonio, a junior at Plymouth State College, will wrestle at the 126-pound weight class this year. This is his second season as a starter for the Panthers.

Seniors Take To Ice In New Over 60-League

BILL BAILEY (No. 10) beats goaltender John Prescott during over-60 league action at the Quincy Youth Arena. Jim Sullivan applies the defensive pressure.

The action may not be furious, and, in the words of one player, "the puck doesn't get much of a beating," but that hasn't stopped a group of men from gathering at the Quincy Youth Arena each Tuesday to play in the city's first over-60 hockey league.

The league, now in its eighth week, was the brainchild of 66-year-old Merrymount resident Bill Lewis.

"A lot of people don't give senior citizens credit for being in shape," said Lewis. "Jim [Condos, one of the players] is a swimmer. A lot of the guys still have part-time jobs. We're all pretty active."

Many of the men have been playing hockey since they were small children. Lewis began playing when he was five years old. Eugene Leahy, a 65-year-old from Reading, began playing when he was a little boy in Brighton. "My brother put my mother's skates on me and put me on Chandler's Pond," he said. "That was my lesson."

Dick Villa, 66, of Manchester, who has been playing hockey for 60 years, says that leagues such as this are not uncommon north of the border.

"I've been up to play in Canada a couple of times. They have a lot of teams for 60 and over, 65 and over, even over 70. It's very organized," said Villa.

Lewis hopes to build the Quincy league into a more organized outfit. Right now it is little more than a pick-up game among the 12 or so players who show up with a couple of dollars to help pay for ice time.

"We're looking for more skaters and we're looking for sponsors right now," said Lewis. "We're trying to get a team from Hudson down here to play us to see where we stand."

Lewis wants to get a bearing on his team in case they're able to take part in the Senior Olympics.

"The New England Senior Olympic Committee called me about the over-60 and over-50 Olympics. We got guys for the over-60s. We need more guys for the over-50s." The Olympics take place Feb. 24-26 at the four-rink New England Recreation Facility in Marlboro.

How they'll stack up against the competition is yet to be seen, but it is obvious the condition of some of the players would leave men half their age envious. Goalie Bill Parsley, 61, played in the Quincy Executive League until three years ago when he was replaced by a 35-year-old.

Jim Sullivan, 62, who had not skated since he was in the Executive League 20 years ago, said "I feel good, my legs haven't bothered me at all." This after he had been skating for close to an hour.

In case your wondering, Cohasset resident Sumner Smith is the oldest player in the league at 74.

organizations. He served as a Quincy Housing Authority commissioner during which time he pushed for affordable housing and senior citizen units in the city.

He has also been active as a trustee at the Woodward School, a member of the Teenage Mother Group, the South Shore Council on Alcoholism, Granite Place and the Quincy-Shore Interfaith Sheltering Coalition.

He was honored as the "Good Neighbor of The Year" by the South Shore American Red Cross Chapter and as "Citizen of the Year" by the Quincy Jewish War Veterans.

Fr. McCarthy grew up in Haverhill, graduated from St. John's Seminary in Brighton and was ordained to the priesthood Jan. 10, 1952 by Cardinal Richard Cushing. He served at St. Rose Church in Chelsea as assistant pastor from 1952 to 1963 and at St. Gregory's Church in Dorchester from 1963 to 1977 before being named pastor at St. John's.

Fr. Quinn, who has been a parochial vicar at St. John's since 1992, was ordained to the priesthood by then Archbishop Medeiros in 1972.

He grew up in St.

Peter's parish in Dorchester where he attended St. Peter's School. He graduated from Catholic Memorial High School and St. John's Seminary.

He served as associate pastor at St. Richard's in Danvers from 1972 to 1978 and then for six years at St. Catherine's in Charlestown.

In 1984, he entered Duquesne University for graduate studies for two years where he earned a master's degree in spirituality. He then served five years as spiritual director at St. John's Seminary.

Nominations Coming In For Sun 'Citizen Of Year'

Nominations are coming in for The Quincy Sun's 10th annual "Citizen of the Year" award.

Established in 1985, the award recognizes an individual for outstanding community service or a special achievement.

Last year, Mary Vallier, a founder of Domestic Violence Ended and a longtime aide to battered women and abused children, was honored. She was selected from 41 nominations submitted by Sun readers.

Sun readers may nominate the person they feel is the most deserving.

After nominations close Dec. 31, a judging panel will be selected to make the final choice from the nominations submitted.

A nomination ballot to help the selection process appears on Page 5 in this week's issue of The Sun.

If you know of someone you would like to see recognized with this award, fill out the ballot and mail it to:

The Quincy Sun
Attn: Citizen of the Year
1372 Hancock St.
Quincy, MA 02169

Nominations should be postmarked no later than Dec. 31.

Ballots can also be dropped off at The Sun office at the above address by Dec. 31.

Those submitting nominations should identify themselves. They can also attach to the ballot a letter detailing the reason for the nomination.

Nominees can be someone in elective office, a member of an appointed board, a clergy member, a teacher or school administrator, a police officer or firefighter, someone in the business community, a sports figure or an "unsung" neighbor or friend who has given freely of his or her time to a worthy project or cause.

Past recipients of the award, and the year of their selection, are:

Tony Siciliano, deputy director of Quincy Emergency Management (formerly Civil Defense), 1985.

Ruth Wainwright of Houghs Neck, a long-time community volunteer, 1986.

The late Richard J. Koch Sr., for his work with charitable and community causes over four decades, posthumously in 1987.

Martin Finnegan, retired Quincy high school athletic director, for coordinating the drug and alcohol program Project Impact, 1988.

Clara Yeomans, a long-time environmentalist and charter member of the Quincy Conservation Commission, 1989.

Gerald Gherardi, for his contributions to charities and service organizations over a half century, 1990.

Frank Kearns, for his innumerable volunteer contributions as a community activist and advocate for the city's elderly, homeless, needy and poor, 1991.

Stephen Cantelli, an innovative Quincy public school teacher and advocate of community education, 1992.

Those nominated the past nine years are eligible to be nominated again this year. Since this is not a popularity contest, a person receiving the most nominations will not necessarily be the final winner.

Anyone nominated just once has an equal chance of being the award recipient.

Again, the deadline for nominations is Saturday, Dec. 31.

The name of the winner will be announced in The Quincy Sun in January.

Residents Divided Over Proposed Stop & Shop

rence Chretien, whose district includes the site, said Work Inc. and Stop & Shop have already begun negotiations, adding that he would like a compromise worked out as soon as possible.

Stop & Shop officials said they believe the issues of traffic, parking and safe access to Work

Inc.'s vans can be worked out.

The hearing was a continuation of a hearing begun in June. Stop & Shop announced it wanted to build on the site earlier this year after Pneumatic Scale officials said they would be seeking a new home for the company.

The council set no date on a vote on the project.

Earlier Monday evening, a public hearing was held on whether to rezone part of the proposed construction site from open space to Planned Unit Development (PUD) zoning. A majority of residents expressed opposition to the rezoning, saying they were in favor of having some open space in their neighborhood.

At a public hearing Monday night, no one spoke or was recorded in favor or against the proposed rates. Council President Michael Cheney took note of that fact, calling it "a record" and saying that the council in the past has had to sit through "hours of testimony" from residents concerned about proposed tax rates.

Cheney also praised his fellow councilors, crediting them for helping to keep the tax rates down as well as Board of Assessors Chairman Marion Fantuccio for packaging Sheets' proposal for presentation to the council.

nomics and market research for the state's travel industry and also managed the agency's $9 million promotional budget and $2.2 million regional tourism grant program, assisting the development of tourism promotion groups statewide.

During his tenure with the MOTT, Yaeger also supervised the creation and operations of the Commonwealth's tourist information center network.

He went on to become executive director of the Northern Middlesex Convention and Visitors Bureau, charged with creating a $750,000 organization to promote Lowell and the Merrimack Valley as a visitor destination.

Yaeger subsequently served as executive director of the Northern Middlesex Convention and Visitors Bureau, where he was charged with creating a $750,000 organization to promote Lowell and the Merrimack Valley as a visitor destination. He also became executive director of the Massachusetts Tourism Coalition, where he spearheaded an advocacy effort resulting in the creation of the $15 million Massachusetts Tourism Fund, a permanent, room-tax generated revenue stream for the state's promotion efforts.

Yaeger, who founded Yaeger Communications in 1988, also served on the advisory committee of the 1991 Massachusetts Tourism Strategic Plan conducted by Harvard University's Kennedy School of Government.

Yaeger also pioneered "The Art of Partnering," a marketing technique creating cooperative marketing promotional campaigns among community businesses and organizations. As an example, he noted that he promoted the city of Cleveland, Ohio through a 1991 campaign that included Continental Airlines, area hotels and symphonies orchestras, and other groups.

A graduate of Gettysburg College, Yaeger holds a master's degree from Harvard.

Raymond Mason Receives Human Service Award

Raymond Mason, executive director of Quincy-based Family Continuity Programs, is one of the 1994 recipients of the Richard J. Bond Award.

The award is presented each year by the Massachusetts Council of Human Service Providers, a trade association. Mason received the award designated for managers of human service provider agencies.

Since 1987, the Council has recognized excellence in the human services profession with the Richard J. Bond Award. The award is named after the late veteran executive director of Boston Children's Services because of his stability, courage and innovation.

The award was presented at the Providers' Council's 19th annual Convention and Expo in Boston Oct. 27.

Vinny Scarnici Service Manager At Shiretown Ford

VINNY SCARNICI

In June 1993, Scarnici was awarded the Quality Professional Service Manager's Award by Ford Motor Company. He has also received his automobile damage appraiser's license from Curry College in Milton.

"Vinny brings a wealth of knowledge and customer commitment to Shiretown Ford," said a Ford Motor Co. representative. "Vinny knows the importance of serving the customer to his or her needs and that's what this industry needs more of."

With plans to expand the dealership located on Route 44 in Plymouth, Scarnici said he wants to increase the service business significantly.

Scarnici's goal is to work closely with Shiretown Ford President Kenneth Fosdick, and Tony Scalse, general manager, to make the dealership number one among Ford and Lincoln/Mercury owners on the South Shore.

Fosdick, formerly with Ford Motor Co., purchased the dealership in 1981. It is located on Route 44 (Samoset St.), just off Exit 6 off Route 6 south in Plymouth.

Scarnici is also known in the Quincy community for his effort on a political campaign over the past two years.

Dr. Ashok Patel Opens Quincy Practice

Dr. Ashok Patel has opened an office at 67 Coddington St., Quincy opposite Quincy High School and the South Shore YMCA.

The announcement was made recently by Boston Medical Group, a primary care group practice affiliated with Carney Hospital in Dorchester.

A graduate of Grant Medical College-J.J. Hospital in Bombay, India, Dr. Patel completed his internal residency training at Carney Hospital. He has practiced primary care medicine for 10 years, and has extensive experience managing associated medical surgical and psychi-

Paul McCluskey Completes Air Force Training Program

Paul F. McCluskey of Quincy has completed a U.S. Air Force ROTC field training encampment at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas.

The summer curriculum consists of orientation on jet aircraft, career opportunities, human relations education, and equal opportunity training. Physical fitness and survival training is also emphasized. The field training is normally attended by cadets between their second and third year of college.

McCluskey, a student at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University in Blacksburg, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel F. McCluskey of 24 Overlook Rd. He is a 1992 graduate of Boston College High School.

Close Vote Seen On Making Board Non-Political

college had outgrown its governance by the School Committee.

The original home-rule petition called for a 13-member board made up of 11 private citizens, a city councillor and a School Committee representative. Cheney's proposal would remove Fabrizio, School Committeeman Ronald Mariano (who also serves as a state representative) and School Committee Vice Chairman Daniel Raymond, who was selected as a private citizen, from the board.

Cheney's proposal comes after the Board of Governors ignored a City Council resolution urging them to allow interim president Donald Young to remain at the college. Rather than selecting a permanent president, the board chose another interim head, Linda Wilson, to serve for one year.

Cheney said his proposal is designed to help the college by removing all politics from the board. He added that while the decision on the interim presidency is not the reason for the home-rule petition, the board's action is indicative that a body containing politicians may not be receptive to outside opinions.

"I have to believe there was some politics involved in the board's not accepting an advisory," he said. "They've said they wanted to take the politics out of the college, and this will take the politics out 100 percent. Let it go and let it (the college) grow."

Cheney's proposal calls for a new appointing board made up of five people—two appointed by the mayor, two by the board of governors and one by College Courses Inc., which raises money for scholarships and runs the college bookstore—to name the three replacement governors to the college board.

Cheney, who was part of the five-man appointing council that appointed the 11 non-political board members and who chose Fabrizio to serve on the board, said such political problems at the college could not have been expected by the City Council.

Phelan said the city has created other boards without politicians, such as the Zoning Board of Appeals, that have been very successful.

"We should be getting politics out of the board," he said.

"When we mix appointing boards with elected officials, we run into trouble," said Cahill. "It's like mixing oil and water—it just doesn't work."

"We didn't create the best product (with the current board), and now it is politically running amuck," said Chretien. "I don't see the point of having politicians on the board."

Fabrizio and others, however, disagreed.

"I really question who's bringing up the controversy," said Fabrizio. "This was the best product, in my opinion...I feel I'm over there because you people wanted me over there."

"The message that needs to get over to Quincy College is: let this board do its work."

"I think we created the board to do its job, and I think we ought to let them do it," agreed Ayers.

Questioning the reasons for the new petition, Kolson wondered, "Where does our politics stop?"

Raymond, after the council meeting, pointed out that the college board voted unanimously to search for an interim president, and 11 of 13 members—including eight non-politicians—voted that Wilson should replace Young because it was believed she was the person who would work best with the Board of Governors. The board chose another interim president, he said, because of a lawsuit filed by former President O. Clayton Johnson who is suing to get his job back.

Johnson was fired over a year ago by School Supt. Eugene Creedon and is suing to get his job back. Raymond said the Board of Governors has "legal advice" to not appoint a permanent president until that matter is resolved.

Raymond called the new home-rule petition "politics at its worst" and said it stems solely from opposition to the board's selection of a new interim president.

"And if it boils down to the fact that they disagree with our vote, then that sets a dangerous precedent," he said.

Non-political members of the board, including Quincy Savings Bank Vice President John Farmer, have also expressed opposition to the council's new home-rule petition.

"I'm not for that at all," said Farmer, one of only two board members who voted to keep Young on as interim president. "This is the way it was initially set up, and to all of a sudden try to change it like that, I don't think it's right."

"I think it's political interference, myself, and I don't think it's going to fly. We haven't been given the chance to operate as a board."

Mariano agreed and said he will testify against the home-rule petition at the State House should it be passed by the council.

"I'm disappointed," said Mariano. "This is a blatant political attempt to keep control on the City Council side. It's petty."

Sen. Michael Morrissey, the ranking member of Quincy's legislative delegation, said he will file the bill if he receives it but at this point has no position on the issue.

Morrissey added, however, that he finds it "ironic" that the council would want to change the makeup of the board only a couple of months after it was established through Sheets' home-rule petition passed by the council and Legislature.

"I hate to think anyone would be excluded from service, and there's always going to be politics on the board," said Morrissey. "In many respects, I think there's an argument that can be made for having members of the School Committee on the board, for transitional and institutional reasons."

"They're (the City Council) free to do what they want, but I do have some concerns."

Reps. Stephen Tobin and Michael Bellotti said they would reserve comment until after the City Council votes on the petition.

Negotiations With Developer Ongoing Plans For New Downtown Hotel Moving Forward

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The city's public-private corporation is negotiating with a developer interested in building a state-of-the-art hotel behind Presidents Place in Quincy Center.

Quincy 2000 Executive Director Charles D'Aprix said Tuesday that his corporation has been in contact with the developer for some time. However, he would not disclose any names at the developer's request.

"He's asking us not to say," he said.

D'Aprix noted that Quincy 2000 is giving plans for the hotel a top priority, adding that negotiations with the developer depend on four contingencies:

- Site control of the land in question, which is owned by Citizens Bank. D'Aprix said Quincy 2000 is trying to convince the bank, which also owns Presidents Place, that usage of the site for a hotel would best serve the community.

- Development of an incentive package of public and private money which would be put together to ensure "less risk" for the developer. A consultant has been hired to devise a financing plan for the project, D'Aprix said.

- Update of a study done last year determining the impact of a major hotel on the city's downtown section.

- Hiring of a management company to run the day-to-day operation of the hotel.

D'Aprix said negotiations are moving rapidly and he hopes to gather all of the above information "in a matter of weeks."

"The data that has to be collected is significant," he said.

The construction of a downtown hotel has long been a goal of Mayor James Sheets, who has talked about such a project since first taking office in 1990. Sheets has said bringing a hotel to Quincy Center is crucial to the revitalization of the downtown and something that would benefit the entire city.

Sheets said at press time he is pleased by what he has learned from Quincy 2000 on the matter.

"I'm very encouraged," said Sheets. "What's been happening is that we've been fast-tracking the hotel planning, and there have been some very good prospects. It's going very well. It's all coming together."

The mayor added that in his opinion, a hotel could not be built in Quincy Center until the Quincy-built heavy cruiser U.S.S. Salem was established as the centerpiece of the U.S. Naval and Shipbuilding Museum at the Fore River shipyard. The ship arrived in the city Oct. 30.

Sheets said U.S.S. Salem reunion groups and others interested in coming to the city to see the ship are crucial to the success of the downtown.

"You have to create a demand for a hotel, and the museum substantially increases that demand," he said.

Quincy 2000 is also continuing to work toward bringing new retail businesses into the area, D'Aprix said. Presidential Camera, a graduate of Quincy 2000's Retail

Roche Bros. Supermarket Set For Granite Crossing

A Roche Bros. supermarket will be among the stores at the Granite Crossing shopping center in Quincy Point.

Atlantic Development Corp., developer of the project, announced Tuesday that Boulevard Realty Trust, c/o Roche Bros. Supermarkets, 70 Hastings St., Wellesley has purchased 9.8 acres of land near the proposed Granite Crossing site off Quincy Ave. near The Falls condominium complex.

Donald MacKinnon, president of Atlantic Development, said the land was sold Dec. 7. N.H. Funding Corporation, an affiliate of MacKinnon's Hingham-based firm, sold the property for a price of $2.5 million, he noted, which includes the cost of the land as well as other development costs.

"We are currently bidding the sitework for the development and look forward to starting construction on the shopping center soon," said MacKinnon. "The decision by Roche Bros. Supermarkets to locate at Granite Crossing shows their strong commitment to the City of Quincy."

"Although Boulevard Realty Trust will own the Roche Bros. portion of the shopping center, Atlantic Development will develop the entire site as a single integrated retail shopping complex."

The $20 million Granite Crossing project will be built on 28 acres and will include a Wal-Mart department store, the Roche Bros. supermarket and possibly a junior retail anchor. It is hoped the shopping center will open in late 1995 or early 1996.

Parents Seek Elimination Of School Half-Days

Nearly 700 residents have signed a petition to eliminate the long-standing practice of weekly half-days for elementary school students.

Parents who circulated the petition told the School Committee last week that the practice was counterproductive to learning and a hardship for working parents who must juggle their schedules on Tuesdays to accommodate the 11:30 a.m. dismissal.

The School Committee accepted the petition, but made no comment on it.

Early release days, written into the teachers' contract for the past 30 years, are intended to provide time for teacher development and training. The elementary schools have a half-day every Tuesday, a total of 38. In the middle schools, the half-days are twice a month and in the high schools, they are once a month.

Even with half-days, Quincy meets the state's minimum requirement for the number of hours children must spend in school. However, the parents who began the petition drive surveyed 58 communities in the region and found the average number of half-days in elementary schools to be 14.3.

The Quincy parents want the School Committee to bring the issue of early release days to the bargaining table when a new round of teacher contract negotiations begin in the near future. However, the Quincy Education Association--the teacher's union--has opposed eliminating half-days.

Parents, however, said eliminating the half-days is in line with the proposals of the state Department of Education, which wants more time spent on academic subjects, especially math and science.

Mayor James Sheets, who serves as chairman of the School Committee, said the issue is not simply a matter of eliminating half-days from the teachers' contract. Sheets noted that the committee has made great efforts to keep student-to-teacher ratios low (about 22-to-1 at the elementary level), and said paying for schools to be opened Tuesday afternoons would result in other budget cuts.

The mayor said if the cuts resulted in fewer teachers, class sizes would go up.

CDDC Seeks Volunteers

The Children's Developmental Disabilities Center (CDDC) a program of Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore, is currently offering several volunteer opportunities.

The agency provides therapeutic, educational, psychological, social and recreational programs and services to disabled children, adults, and their families throughout South-eastern Massachusetts, Metropolitan Boston, the South Shore, Cape Cod, and the Islands. The center is headquartered at 105 Adams St., Quincy.

Volunteer opportunities include:

- Public Education Steering Committees -- the organization is looking for individuals who would join local town/city Steering committees. The Committees implement Public Education and Public Relations programs, and will be working on Community Needs Assessment and Strategic Plan.

- Assist with the Adult Recreation Program, run in conjunction with the Quincy Recreation Department at Lincoln Hancock School in Quincy on Wednesday evenings during the school year. Volunteers may sign up to help anywhere from one to four evenings per month. Programs include arts and crafts, ceramics, drama and music.

- Typists or anyone familiar with word processing are critically needed. Also positions helping with mailings, filing and telephone work.

- Develop information for a Community Resource Library being put together by the organization.

- Volunteers are needed to assist in running fund raising programs. Will help with special events, work with area businesses, recruit additional volunteers and help with direct mail campaign.

CONCERN OVER IRON WAS OVERBLOWN

Chalk up another reason for not going off the deep end at every new study or medical finding that makes the 6 o'clock news. It has been over a year since the headlines were full of the "news" that taking iron supplements could increase a person's risk of heart attack. Thousands of people - especially women - who take iron regularly worried whether or not they should stop. Now, results of an exhaustive study indicate that the original warnings about iron were probably exaggerated. Most people who take iron supplements on their doctors' advice can expect no increase in their risk of heart disease. Iron may, however, be a factor in developing heart disease among people with very high levels of the "bad" LDL cholesterol.

P.S. Whenever you hear medical "news" that concerns you, talk it over with your doctor before making any lifestyle changes.

For assistance determining which vitamin and mineral supplements may be right for you, consult your physician. At COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE, located at 700 Congress St., Suite 2C, in Quincy, Dr. Lisa Antonelli and myself offer complete medical care with a focus on heart disease. Delahunt Move No Surprise

This week's acknowledgement from Dist. Atty. William Delahunt that he will not seek reelection in 1998 confirms a report here last November.

Just before the state election, we noted, Delahunt had told a group of Quincy Democratic City Committee members that he was probably making his last run for district attorney.

It was a sort of "I'm moving up or moving out" declaration.

A source close to him confirmed at that time that Delahunt was thinking big: a run for governor.

Actually, Delahunt now could have a bid for governor, attorney general—or Congress in mind.

Delahunt has been district attorney for 20 years and was elected to another four year term without opposition last month. He began his political career as Ward 5 city councillor in 1972. He then served in the House of Representatives and was named district attorney by Gov. Michael Dukakis in 1974 succeeding George Burke.

The tip-off that Delahunt is really serious about running for a bigger office was the fact that he held a major fundraiser last week—not in Norfolk County—but in Boston at Anthony's Pier 4.

And he reportedly "packed them in" at $125 a head which added up to an estimated $100,000-plus.

Not bad to start a campaign war chest with.

The logical post for Delahunt to run for would be attorney general if Scott Harshbarger makes a bid for governor in 1998 when Governor William Weld would be completing his second term.

But if Harshbarger doesn't run for governor, Delahunt might.

Weld could be picked for the vice-president spot on the national GOP ticket in 1996. And if so, Delahunt or Harshbarger could be running against Paul Cellucci for governor.

And if the flak over the legislators' pay raises doesn't go away, it could haunt Weld if he decided to run for a third term.

Delahunt has another possible option:

If Congressman Gerry Studds tires of playing second fiddle to Republicans on Capitol Hill and decides it isn't worth the political aggravation and retires, Delahunt might run for that seat.

Delahunt was a candidate for the seat when it was redistricted in 1992 but dropped out and threw his support to Studds.

Meanwhile, keeping a close eye on what Delahunt does are prospective district attorney candidates such as former state Senator Paul Harold, School Committee Vice Chairman and former Norfolk County Treasurer Dan Raymondi, Senator William Keating of Sharon and Rep. Paul Haley of Weymouth. And, no doubt, a few more are waiting in the wings.

SPEAKING OFF FUNDRAISERS, the one for Mayor James Sheets at The Fours Restaurant here in Quincy, reportedly was "one of the most successful" ever held for him.

Some 160 people showed up at $100 per person, or $16,000 gross.

He didn't make a big deal of it, but Sheets announced he was seeking a fourth term as he was expected to do.

SPECULATION PERSISTS THAT former state

Senator Paul Harold next year will run for city councillor-at-large, a seat he once held.

But Harold says that's all it is—speculation—and he has no plans to make another run for the city council which in a way would be a step backward.

But he hasn't ruled out running for mayor when James Sheets decides to step down.

QUINCY'S NEW Purchasing Director Alfred Grazioso, Jr. is the brother-in-law of Quincy District Court Judge Warren Powers, a former assistant district attorney and Ward 5 city councillor. Powers is married to Grazioso's sister, Holly, who met while the two were campaigning for George Burke when he ran for and was elected district attorney.

NQHS, BFDS, State Street Bank Celebrate Flagship Partnership

North Quincy High School, State Street Bank and Boston Financial Data Services held a signing breakfast recently in acknowledgement of school-business initiatives made possible by their flagship partnership.

NQHS Principal Peter Chrimos spoke about the positive influence the partnership continues to have on the climate at the school. Chrimos and George Russell, vice president of State Street commended Barbara Clarke, the chairperson of the State Street component for outstanding leadership.

Russell spoke of the continuing significance of the mediation, technology, speaker's bureau and great ideas initiatives. He said the partnership is "vital" and part of a core value in helping society to develop.

School Supt. Eugene Creedon spoke of the partnership as a "flagship" and "model" of school-business partnerships while praising State Street and Boston Financial's "magnificent support of education programs."

More than 100 speakers, parents and faculty members attended the assembly in the NQHS Atrium.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1910 view of Washington Street in Quincy Point looking South toward the shipyard. At this time the Southern Artery had not yet been built across the street. The trolley tracks on the right went on to Weymouth but principally they connected the shipyard to the Quincy Center railroad station. In later years the U.S. government subsidized the operation of this trolley service to ensure that workers could get to the shipyard. The neighborhood was rather quiet and still mostly residential at the time this postcard picture was taken. Today commercial development extends down both sides of the street and it is a main route for commuters to and from the South Shore.

Home-Rule Petitions Are Not Frivolous Items

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Talk about politics in connection with the new Quincy College board! The chair of the City Council, Mike Cheney has introduced politics into the whole mix. First, on the very night of the vote for an interim president, he chose to introduce a resolution as to whom the board should choose. The decision and accompanying rationale as to the necessity for the search and the process was given months before. Why was there no outcry in September?

Did Mr. Cheney attend any of the open hearings as the process unfolded? Did he listen to Dr.

Young's answer as to why he personally felt the process was a good one? It was only after a vote, contrary to Mr. Cheney's views, was made that the cry of "politics" was heard. Now, Mr. Cheney has introduced a home-rule petition amendment to change the makeup of the board to get rid of the three Quincy "politicians!"

The vote of the board was 11-2. Did any members of the board and, in particular, the City Council representative, complain of "political" pressure by other "politicians" on the board? No, the political pressure was from the City Council resolution.

The board was constituted involving a person from the council and another from the School Committee for terms of two years when the home-rule petition was voted after an open hearing and discussion by both bodies. It was felt that such a new board could use the experience of representatives from these two bodies because this was a new city department and the School Committee had long experience governing the college. All other members were voted on, including Mr. Raymond for whom Mr. Cheney voted.

Every time a vote is taken against Mr. Cheney's view, will he introduce a new amendment changing the board? Or will some other councillor do so?

Home-rule petitions are not frivolous items to be sent to the Legislature which has enough important business to act upon. Let the board as established do its job. After two years, all members will be elected by the board and if necessary, amendments should be made then. Let's truly get the politics out of this now and get to work on the business of the college.

Plans For Nuclear Sub Tankers

By PAUL HAROLD

General Dynamics announced its proposal to major oil companies to build 170,000-ton nuclear power submarine tankers at its Fore River Shipyard. It was viewed as both a practical and economical way to move Arctic oil.

With a full load the tanker would weigh a half million tons. With a length of 900 feet and a beam of 140 feet the ship could be taken through the Fore River Bridge, unlike conventional supertankers which were too wide.

DR. DJERF HONORED

The School Committee took time out at its meeting this week to honor Dr. Charles Djerf who is retiring after 16 years as a committee member.

While on the committee he was noted for his progressive attitudes and his efforts to establish the vocational-technical school. He also worked to establish special programs for the retarded, physically handicapped and gifted students.

NEW CRIMINAL BUREAU

Dist. Atty. George Burke announced his establishment of a criminal information bureau in his office.

He told the county commissioners that an updated dossier was being collected on all persons appearing in a county court or serving time in a county jail. The new system was patterned after one in Plymouth.

The dossiers would be available to all law enforcement agencies in Massachusetts to help them locate persons they are looking for.

Urges City Council To Deny Stop & Shop Permit Unless Traffic Issues Resolved

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

All of us at Work Inc. are glad that we are finally got to present publicly, for the record, our point of view on just how the proposed Stop & Shop will impact the safety of employees and clients with disabilities at Work Inc.

More than 125 Quincy residents including Work Inc. Officials, employees, clients with disabilities and their parents waited, some standing, for nearly three hours before some 23 speakers told the Quincy City Council that the proposed development, which would abut Work Inc. located at 3 Arlington St., does not ensure their safety. (Thirteen more people signed against the project.)

It is noteworthy that at the hearing, a senior Stop & Shop official acknowledged the safety needs of the elderly and the children, yet failed to recognize the needs of the nearly 300 men and women with disabilities who travel to and from Work Inc., daily, for training and employment.

We have tried repeatedly to explain the the proposed strip mall will turn a relatively quiet street where our clients who felt safe for the past 16 years into a major roadway where impatient shoppers will zoom down Arlington Street, as Work Inc. clients walk to work, and handicapped equipped vans unload passengers. If any of our elected officials doubt the severity of the situation, they only need visit us and take a closer look at our everyday reality.

We urge our city councilors not to be seduced by Stop & Shop's shopping cart of traffic improvements. Please don't ignore the needs of this important, often overlooked population. Do not grant the special permit for this development until the

Traditional Holiday Festival At Historical Society Sunday

Quincy Historical Society will present a Traditional Holiday Festival Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Adams Academy, 8 Adams St., Quincy Center. The program will recreate the holiday entertainments and festivities of a century ago and the spirit of holiday pastimes in the family parlor and community social gatherings.

The event will feature music by the Brass Consortium, a Boston ensemble who appeared at the Historical Society two summers ago. The group's members have individually played with the Boston Symphony, Pops, Ballet and Opera orchestras.

The Consortium will play a mix of classical music, and traditional and modern holiday favorites. The event will also feature classic Christmas and Hanukkah stories and poems. In addition, Santa Claus will make an appearance and refreshments will be served.

The event is suitable for families and singles, youngsters and seniors. All are welcome. Admission is free.

'An American Holiday' Exhibit At Historical Society Through Jan. 7

"An American Holiday," a seasonal exhibit, is on display at the Quincy Historical Society, Adams Academy Building, 8 Adams St., Quincy Center now through Jan. 7.

The exhibit, tracing the background and traditions of the classic American celebration of the holidays, features period decorations, illustrations and clothing, antique toys, and an old-fashioned Christmas tree. Hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m. The Society will be closed Dec. 24 and 26 and Jan. 2.

Admission is free for Society members. Non-members are requested to make a donation.

QUINCY CHORAL SOCIETY will perform a concert entitled "Let Us Rejoice" Sunday at 3 p.m. at United First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Quincy Choral Society Concert At United First Parish Sunday

Our Policy On ENGAGEMENT PHOTOGRAPHS And Wedding ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Quincy Sun will continue to publish photographs with engagement announcements as it always has.

The Sun will also continue to use in wedding announcements, the names of all members of the wedding party including maid or matron of honor, best man, parents, bridesmaids, ushers, flower girls and ringbearers, etc.

We invite engaged couples to submit photos with their announcements, and when submitting their wedding photo, to include a complete listing of the wedding party.

Black and white photos are preferred. The Sun can convert most color photos to black and white for publication but the photo loses some clarity in the process.

We suggest that when you have your engagement photo taken, you request the studio to send a copy to The Sun with the reminder that The Sun is continuing its policy of publishing engagement photos.

The Sun also publishes articles and photos of wedding anniversaries, beginning with the 25th anniversary.

And, as in the past, there is no charge.

Two longtime Quincy civic associations have agreed to merge into one organization.

The Quincy Citizens Association and Wollaston Park Association will become a single entity called the Quincy Citizens and Wollaston Park Associations Inc., according to QCA President Arthur Chandler and WPA President Richard Lockhead. The announcement was made at the QCA's recent Annual Meeting and Christmas Party at Raffael's Restaurant in North Quincy.

Chandler said the reason for the merger is "to become more active in the community and advance our efforts to improve the quality of life for Quincy residents by providing a vibrant monthly forum for voters to express their concerns and sentiments about the city to our elected officials through an enhanced 'Voice of the People.'"

The new organization will have more than 500 members, merging the approximately 400 QCA members with the 100-plus WPA members.

The Wollaston Park Association was organized in 1956 to get the Wollaston Park and Beach area rezoned to "Residential A" zoning to prevent it from being used as an amusement park area. The OFFICERS ELECTED BY the new Quincy Citizens Association and Wollaston Park Associations Inc. are, from left, Dominic Falcetta, second vice president; Dorothy Kelly, secretary; Arthur Chandler, president; Frank Rines Jr., first vice president and John Digilio, treasurer. WPA was also successful in preventing the Black's Creek Marsh at the south end of the beach from being filled for the construction of 39-story apartments.

In addition, the WPA has taken an active part in writing the city's "zoning ordinance" and has been involved in wetlands protection at Marina Bay and other public environmental concerns.

On behalf of the WPA membership, Lockhead presented a plaque to Dorothy Kelly, longtime association secretary in appreciation of her leadership role.

Officers elected for the new organization were: Chandler, president; Frank Rines Jr., first vice president; Dominic Falcetta, second vice president; John Digilio, treasurer and Kelly, secretary. Falcetta was former WPA vice president, while Kelly had also served as QCA secretary.

Spotlight On Business

MacDonald's Ski Emporium Finds Success In W. Quincy

By WAYNE FITZPATRICK

Three years ago Edward MacDonald packed up his "cottage industry" business and ventured into his new location at 166 Willard St. But when he first opened up MacDonald's Ski Emporium, he had no idea just how successful he would be.

"It's a great job; I enjoy it a lot. You're not going to get rich off it, but it has its rewards," he said.

In addition to working in the ski industry, MacDonald, a Quincy resident, also teaches math at Marshfield Middle School.

"I started out doing this as a hobby and it just sort of snowballed from there," MacDonald said of his business.

MacDonald moved his ski shop to his new residency three years ago. Later that year, the Home Depot opened up and ushered in a new era for MacDonald's business.

"I thought I would help them and bring them some business," he mused. "Seriously, though, it has helped me get a lot more exposure and has probably helped us grow."

When MacDonald entered into the ski industry 17 years ago, it was a noticeably different business. Operating outside of his Quincy home base, he offered a more informal and casual atmosphere.

"All my advertising back then was by word of mouth. I worked on a personal referral basis and my business was by appointment only," he said.

An avid skier in his younger days, MacDonald first became interested in working with the equipment when he would go skiing with friends.

"We were nomadic skiers. Every weekend during the winter we would hop on the highway and decide where we would ski while we drove on the expressway," MacDonald reminisced.

"At first we would just tune up our skis and talk to friends, like a social thing," MacDonald said.

MacDonald still tries to maintain a comfortable customer-friendly atmosphere at his new location.

"I love to talk to people. I like people and I love skiing and when you put those two elements together you get a ski salesman," MacDonald said.

And a successful ski salesman at that. Ski sales have doubled each year he has been at his new location, and last year, MacDonald's Ski Emporium rented 125 skis, he said.

Instead of renting skis for a weekend or for the day like most ski shops do, MacDonald rents skis for the entire ski season.

"It's more convenient and there's less hassle," said MacDonald, who also conducts day trips to such ski resorts as Sunday River in Maine and Waterville Valley in New Hampshire.

Timing has played an important role in the success of MacDonald's business. When Ski Town, a competitor in the ski industry, closed three and a half years ago, MacDonald saw his opportunity to grow.

One of the casualties of the closing of Ski Town was Jim Kelley, who now works at MacDonald's Ski Emporium.

"We're a real family-oriented group here. Every year we see the same core of customers coming back and they tell their friends," Kelley, a boot fitter and salesman at the ski shop said.

Kelley said he enjoys talking to customers about skiing and he admires MacDonald's business approach.

"I like the way Mr. MacDonald does business. He puts the best price on the floor and everyone has to beat his prices," he said. Bill Bowler, a Milton resident and frequent customer, called MacDonald's his favorite ski shop.

"I have been skiing 26 years and my children have been skiing since the age of 3 and this place is the best I've been to," Bowler said.

Bowler said MacDonald's prices are competitive with other stores in the area.

"I still go to other ski shops and compare prices and this place beats them all," he said.

MacDonald's Ski Emporium is not just better because of their prices but also because of its service and reliability, according to Bowler.

"This place is better than other ski shops for many reasons. You make out better with the service, the sales people are friendly and knowledgeable and when they say something is going to be ready, it is," he said.

"I pride myself on the feeling that this is a comfortable place for customers to come to," MacDonald said.

MacDonald's Ski Emporium, 471-9269, is open Monday thru Friday 11 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday 12 to 5 p.m.

Studds To Host Financial Aid Forums

U.S. Rep. Gerry Studds will host two forums in January to help students and parents cope with the soaring costs of higher education.

The first forum will be held Sunday, Jan. 8 from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Harrington Center of the Massachusetts Maritime Academy, Buzzards Bay. It is free and open to all residents of the South Shore and the Cape and Islands.

Studds will also sponsor a regional follow-up session on the South Shore, which will feature a workshop on completing financial aid forms. That forum will be held from Thursday, Jan. 12 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at Weymouth High School.

"The cost of higher education today is staggering, and rising fast," said the congressman. "More and more families and students are unable to afford the costs of college without substantial financial aid. These forums can help make everyone aware of what type of help is available, and how to obtain it."

For more information, calls Studds' district office at 1-800-870-2626.

Red Cross Spreads Cheer With Annual Stocking Program

By WAYNE FITZPATRICK

The Red Cross is helping to bring some Christmas cheer to thousands of children in the Quincy area as well as countless volunteers with its annual stocking program.

In its fifth year, the program has been effective in helping the less fortunate children of the Quincy area, according to Helen Crowley, area volunteer coordinator for the American Red Cross of Massachusetts Bay office at 85 Quincy Ave.

Crowley said 2,500 stockings were distributed in last year's stocking program.

"The stocking program has been hugely successful. It is a wonderful, happy program," she said.

Whether it is by knitting a stocking, putting gifts in one of the red mesh stockings the Red Cross supplies or by donating gifts, the response from volunteers has been positive.

"The response from people wanting to help has been remarkable. We get so many calls from people wanting to know how they can help, in any way. People want to help and this is a great outlet for people who want to help others, but don't know how to," Crowley said.

Some of the groups who participated in the program last year include students from both Quincy and North Quincy High School, groups from senior citizen complexes and cheerleaders from Braintree High School as well as scores of businesses and corporations.

The stocking program has become so successful that, according to Crowley, it becomes almost impossible to walk around the office or enter the doorway near the end of the program.

"I could hardly make it to my desk last year because of all the boxes full of stockings lying around,"

CHRISTMAS STOCKINGS FILLED with gifts are ready for delivery from the American Red Cross of Massachusetts Bay office at 85 Quincy Ave. Helen Crowley (left), area volunteer coordinator for the office and Susan Cavanaugh, assistant manager of The Co-Operative Bank's Quincy Ave. branch pose among the bags of stockings that will be given to needy families. The bank is one of the gift donors to the program.

Crowley said, referring to the large piles of boxes which were scattered throughout her office.

The stocking program began in 1989 when the Red Cross stopped their program of giving dolls to needy girls when they wanted a more inclusive program.

"They [the Red Cross] were pleased with the help they were giving girls, but they wanted to include boys and they came up with this idea," said Crowley.

The stockings are distributed on an anonymous basis to the children of families who are on food voucher assistance. The holiday stockings are also used as a disaster relief vehicle to benefit children who are victims of an unforeseen disaster.

Among the organizations which the stocking program benefits are the Quincy Crisis Center and DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended).

Stockings will be distributed between today (Thursday) and Dec. 20. For more information, call Crowley at 770-2600.

5 Finalists For Library Addition

Five finalists have been chosen in the design competition for a major addition to the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Center.

They are: Shepley Bulfinch Richardson and Abbott of Boston, successor firm to Henry Hobson Richardson, who designed the original Crane Library; Childs Bertman Tseckares and Anthony Tappe and Associates, both of Boston; Graham Gund Architects of Cambridge and Loheed Design Partnership of Somerville.

Three Quincy firms were among the 22 overall that submitted proposals, but Design Committee Chairman Michael Wheelwright said they had little experience with libraries or historic preservation projects.

Finalists were chosen Dec. 7.

The library's board of trustees will interview the five finalists and choose a designer by the end of the month, according to Wheelwright, a landscape architect and program manager for the Quincy Department of Public Works.

The $9 million expansion will add a 40,000-square-foot building and 100 parking spaces. Construction is expected to begin in late 1995 or early 1996, and most of the funding is expected to come from a state bond issue for library construction.

Plans For New Hotel Move Forward

Incubation Program, is expected to open on the Hancock Street side of the South Shore Bank building in Quincy Center, he noted, while four other graduates are expected to open stores in March or April of next year.

Three of the new shops will open in the downtown and the fourth in the North Quincy business district, D'Aprax added.

Library Door To Be Replaced

Patrons of the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Center will not have to struggle with the building's heavy, awkward front door for much longer.

Mayor James Sheets announced Tuesday that he will ask the City Council for an appropriation of $25,000 to pay for the door to be replaced. The mayor said he will send the request for the funds, which will be taken from the city's free cash account, to the council at its Dec. 19 meeting.

Sheets is having the door replaced not only because the city is obligated to do so under ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act) requirements, but also because elderly and disabled Quincy residents have long struggled with the door, which is unusually heavy and narrow. The mayor said he wants the work done as soon as possible.

"It's very bad," said Sheets. "We really have to do that (have the door replaced) right away."

Under ADA requirements, Quincy and communities across the country must make sure that all public buildings are completely handicapped accessible by Jan. 1, 1996.

The Crane library's walkway, another ADA project, was also recently replaced. Funds for the new walkway were derived from Sheets' multi-million dollar bond package passed by the City Council in June, and the total pricetag for the project totaled $170,000, according to the mayor.

In addition, five finalists bidding on the library's planned $9 million expansion were selected last week. The library's Design Committee is expected to choose the designer for the project by the end of the month.

Most of the funding for the expansion, which will add a 40,000-square-foot building and 100 parking spaces, is expected to come from a state bond issue for library construction. Work is expected to begin in late 1995 or early 1996.

No Alcohol Sales Dec. 26 And Jan. 2

Drinking establishments and package stores may not sell alcoholic beverages on Monday, Dec. 26, or Jan. 2, 1995. Restaurants may open on their regular hours.

License Board chairman Joseph Shea said on the two Saturdays Dec. 24 and Dec. 31, the closing hours have been extended from 1 a.m. to 2 a.m.

MAKE HISTORY WITH YOUR PRESENTS

Quincy has created a brick plaza and a "Walk of Names" at the entrance to City Hall. Already over 4,000 individuals have purchased a brick. For a $50 donation, we'll engrave a brick with the name of someone special in your life — your parents, husband, wife, children. Each brick comes with a custom certificate for you to frame or present as a gift. Dedicating a brick guarantees their name will go down in history!

To order your brick call

(617) 376-3676

Please call before December 20th to be sure you'll have your certificate before Christmas.

Quantity is limited. Bricks dedicated on a first come, first served basis. Each $50 donation includes one brick engraved with 2 lines, each 15 characters long. A third line may be added for an additional $20. Ask about purchasing groupings of bricks.

Quincy Must Overcome Youth, Inexperience

By KERRY BYRNE

"It will be a season of mixed emotions," said Quincy High School hockey coach Bob Sylvia.

"A lot of young kids will be put in a position of playing varsity hockey - that's the good news. The bad news is that it's tough for a young team to survive in a league like the Old Colony League."

The youthful Presidents got their first test Wednesday, Dec. 14 when they traveled to Taunton. They host Boston Latin today (Thursday) at 2:45.

Sylvia and assistants, Ted Walsh, Rich Reinhardt and George Peachy, will put just four seniors and a slew of sophomores and freshmen on the ice. The starting blueliners are a sophomore, Matt Langille, and a freshman, Steve Verlicco. Langille saw a great deal of varsity time last year.

"Matt's our most experienced defenseman, but he's just a sophomore. That should give you an idea where we stand," said Sylvia, adding that there is a "fight for the third, fourth and fifth spots" between juniors Bruce Stenberg and Jay Fennelly and freshmen Derek McTomney and Tim Lewis.

Lewis may also skate at forward.

The first line consists of senior co-captains Chris McArdle and Steve Barrett and senior Mike McKinnon. Second-liners include sophomores Mark Glynn and Matt Messing and junior Scott Shepherd. Glynn was a starting defender on last year's team.

Sylvia called the third line a "smorgasbord" consisting of Matt McSweeney, Brad McCauley, Mark Regan, Bobby Hall and Kevin Cellucci. Hall and Cellucci are both freshmen.

Senior Mark Smith will likely start between the pipes. Sophomore John Masoni will also play goal. "We're hoping John will push for the starting job," said Sylvia.

Adding problems to the Presidents' youth and inexperience is the loss, due to injury, of Chris Haidul and Mike Martin. Sylvia called Haidul "the best freshman to come to Quincy in 10 years and a bona fide varsity high school hockey player." He referred to Martin as a "legitimate second-line defenseman."

Haidul broke his arm in a scrimmage against Rockland and is lost for the season. Martin broke his ankle and will probably return midway through the schedule.

Sylvia is cautious about his expectations this season but feels the team will improve steadily. "We should be better later in the year than we are in the beginning. It will be tough for the freshmen who are being thrown into the fire. But by the time they're seniors they'll have a wealth of experience. The one's who have to bear the brunt are the seniors this year."

"There's a price to pay for inexperience," he said.

"We have to be a disciplined team, stay out of the penalty box, stay close in the third period. We're not gonna be a team that scores a lot of goals."

North Quincy coaches have been pleased with the play of Zaniboni. "Tim started to come on strong in the tourney last year and has kept it up in practice," said Doyle.

Senior Robby Callow will center the third line with wings Chris Geary, a senior, and Eric Wood, a sophomore. "Chris has been the surprise newcomer," said Doyle. "He hasn't played hockey in three years but has looked sharp in practice."

Among the other forwards likely to skate for the varsity team are Chris Knox, Rich Perona, Chris Sheehan and Billy Barron.

According to Doyle, there is a "dogfight" to see who will get the starting nod between the pipes. Senior Mike Manganaro was solid last season but has been challenged by sophomore Brian Beaton.

"Brian has been unbelievable in practice so far, but Mike is a senior and has been there before. The coaches would feel at ease with either in goal," said Doyle.

"We're not going to be a high-scoring team this year. We will concentrate on defense," said Doyle.

with four residents on the squad. From the left are Scott Dunn, a senior sociology major, Mike Duran, a senior management major, Marc Swirbalus, a sophomore mathematics major, and Dan Burke, a sophomore sociology major. Dunn and Duran served as co-captains under coach Joe Walsh.

North Girls Aiming For Winning Record

With a strong contingent in the technical events (hurdles, high jump, shot put), the North Quincy girls should improve on their 2-5 record of a year ago.

"We are going to make a definite impact this year," said Geoff Hennessey, who is entering his seventh season as NQ's head coach. "Key factors will be staying healthy, shoring up weak areas and plugging in our new people into the right events."

Juniors Phyllis Poon, Suk Ng and Lynn Garland will compete in the hurdles. All are very experienced. Poon took third in last year's Old Colony League championship meet.

Freshman Sarah Beston, who has a strong gymnastics background, can "hurdle and high jump like a natural" according to Hennessey.

Aja Jackson, a 4-foot-10-inch high jumper last year, leads a crew that includes Beth Crowley, Renata Wierzbowski and Rachael Repoff.

The shot put team is led by junior Jen Pineo, who took a medal at the states last year, and sophomore Wingsze Yuen. Freshman Kristy Deputula appears ready to eclipse the 30-foot barrier. Deputula competed in the Quincy Track Club and was a three-time state champ in the softball throw as a participant in the Hershey youth track meets.

Other shot-putters are Beth Downey, Erin Mc-

North Hurt By Loss Of Defenders, Sapienza

Last year the North Quincy High School hockey team finished with a record of 16-4-3 and went to the Division 1 state semifinals for the second consecutive season. Things may not be so easy this year.

Gone is the Old Colony League's leading scorer, Jim Sapienza, who is now playing his trade for the Warriors of Merrimack College. But the biggest loss of all could be that of their top three defenders.

"We're definitely undergoing a rebuilding year," said coach Bob Doyle, who will be assisting head coach Tom Benson for the fourth season. "We're a physically weaker team than last year. Especially on defense."

The Raiders were tested for the first time yesterday (Wednesday) against Milton. They host Taunton Friday, Dec. 17, at 6:40 p.m.

Last season the Red Raiders relied on the aggressive blue line play of Andrew Vermette, Dave Pacino and Dennis Patenas, but each graduated. Only junior Dan Stone returns with a great deal of varsity time.

Junior Matt Jarnis will join Stone on the top defensive line. Junior Paul King and senior Ralph DiMattia are the second-team blueliners. Also likely to see time on defense are senior Dave Doherty, junior Dan Hughes, and sophomores Dan Stock, Brian Degan and Tim Wood.

Although the defense is weakened, the Red Raiders return two of the top offensive players in the Old Colony League in center Brendan O'Brien and right wing A.J. Carthas. The two seniors teamed with Sapienza last year to form the most devastating line in the OCL. Junior Jim Kelley replaces Sapienza at left wing.

"The first line has the potential to be as strong as last year," said Doyle. "In the last couple of scrimmages they've really come together. I fully expect Brendan and A.J. to be among the top scorers in the league again this year."

Skating on the second line will be juniors Tim Zaniboni, Jeff Coleman and Pat Tevenan. The

THINGS ARE UNDER (TRACTION) CONTROL

While four-wheel drive weight to the vehicle. gives an automobile go-anywhere capability, a new option traction control may be gaining ground as a means of providing added traction and increased safety. Traction control exerts control over the two drive wheels in the event that a wheel begins to spin on a slippery surface. At the instant of slippage, a computer detects the problem and directs less power to the affected wheel. As a result, wheel spin is controlled and all systems revert to normal operation. This technology was once restricted only to upper echelon vehicles, but it is now making a more widespread impact. Traction control helps prevent skids under acceleration without adding much in the way of perceptible

North Quincy In 'Rebuilding' Year

By DAVE SOUTHWICK

The North Quincy High wrestling team began the hard task of rebuilding a program that has lost many seniors over the last two seasons.

The Red Raiders, who finished 14-3 as a team last year, opened the season Wednesday, Dec. 14 at Randolph. Their first home meet is Saturday at 10 a.m. against Marshfield and Whitman-Hanson.

"We had two good years," said head coach Steve Joyce. "We graduated a lot of seniors those years so it's a rebuilding year this year."

There are big holes to fill with the loss of Billy Chu and Fran Bellotti. Chu won the Division 2 119-pound state title last season and is wrestling as a freshman at Bridgewater State College.

Although rebuilding, Joyce can count on experience this season. Among the returnees who will see varsity action are senior co-captains Jamie Karvelis (135) and Robert Ragusa (171), senior Steve Vukoza (HVV), and juniors Joe West (125) and Jason Gibson (117).

Other varsity wrestlers include seniors Tom Bianco (14), Adam Harris (152) and Ken Goon (160), juniors Jesse Madison (125), Dan O'Donnell (145) and Sean Hughes (189), and sophomores Sean O'Toole (112) and Tony Shweiri. Freshman Dan Conway (103) rounds out the first-string team.

Others on the varsity roster are seniors Richard Cram (125), Paul Vukoza (HVV) and Dan Turner (HVV), juniors Ed Ford (119) and Dong Yang (125), sophomore Jose Villanueva (130), and freshmen Ryan Daly (160) and Jim Callahan (189).

"I think if we can finish at .500 that will be a successful year for us," said Joyce.

North will wrestle as the only Division 2 school in the Division 1 Old Colony League. This year's OCL favorites include Quincy, Weymouth and Bridgewater-Raynham.

The Raiders will also face league opponents Silver Lake and Plymouth South.

Non-league opponents include Norwood, Braintree, Brockton, Malden Catholic and Rockland.

Joyce will be assisted by Rich Ragusa and volunteer Mike Moriello.

League, Sectional Titles Among Quincy's Goals

The Quincy High School wrestling team is hoping to put it all together this season after sharing the Old Colony League title with Weymouth last year and finishing third in the sectionals.

Eighth-year head coach Lou Venturelli feels this squad can surpass those goals. "We definitely have the talent here to win both the league and sectionals. We return 11 of our 13 starters, so the experience will help out in close matches," he said.

Wrestling at 103 pounds is senior John Richards, who, in his fourth year of wrestling, finally has a weight class to be comfortable in. Sophomores Matt Louis and Dai Nguyen and freshman Bryan Dunn are the back-ups.

Junior John Leonard returns to the 112-pound class after placing sixth in the sectionals a year ago. Sophomore Cuong Diep will also wrestle at this weight.

Wrestling at 119 is junior Rich Testa, who placed fourth in the sectionals at 103 last year. "He's worked hard enough in the season to make the jump," said Venturelli. Cindy Wong, one of two girls on the squad, provides back-up.

One of the year's early surprises, according to the coach, is the return of 125-pound senior Billy Mitchell to Quincy. A former Broad Meadows wrestler, Mitchell won the spot over senior Paul Robinson and freshman Joanna Cullen.

Senior captain Matt Miller placed fourth in the state last season at 130 pounds and should challenge for the state title this year. Sophomores Sev Tan and Quang Pham will also see varsity action.

At 135 pounds is junior Mark Froehlich. "Mark was a sectional runner-up a year ago and appears ready to make noise at the state level," said Venturelli. Ready to jump in the line-up are sophomore Kevin Connolly, junior Brian Woodberry and senior Fred Corson.

Junior Tuan Tan will fill in at the 140-pound division.

Junior John Cheverie will wrestle at 145 pounds. "He worked extremely hard in the off-season and will be tough at this weight," said the coach. Sophomore Jason Sakulich is a capable back-up.

At the 152-pound class is senior Rich Gallaue, who is in his second year as a captain of the Quincy High School wrestling team. He placed third in the sectionals a year ago and Venturelli feels he is capable of placement at the state level.

Senior captain Greg Santoro and senior Rich Bergeron could both have outstanding seasons at 160 pounds.

Junior Pete Kolson and freshman Dan Nichol will vie for the starting spot at 171 pounds. Kolson will double as a member of the Quincy High School winter track team. Sophomore Carmine Landolo may also wrestle at 171.

At 189 pounds is senior Matt Strauchon who finished fourth in the sectionals last year. His back-ups include senior Ted Dobbins, junior Jake Drohan and freshman Mike Atwood.

Senior heavyweight Mike Feeley, fresh off an all-scholastic year in football, must battle ankle injuries in his quest for a state title. Junior John Moss is a capable replacement.

Third-year assistant coach Larry Taglieri believes hard work will pay off for this team during the grueling season. "These kids are great to work with. They want the extra push-up, the extra sit-up, the extra sprint. This is a motivated team."

Also assisting the coaches on a volunteer basis is Ashley Davis, who won the state title last year at 152 pounds.

The Presidents opened at home last night (Wednesday) with Marshfield. They take part in the Wayland Tourney Saturday before hosting Durfee next Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Pee Wee House

Colonial Takes Over First Place After 4-3 Win

Colonial Federal edged Skinner's Winners, 4-3, to capture sole possession of first place in the Pee Wee House League.

Jody Bravo led the winning effort with two goals. Ryan Doyle and Scott MacDonald also scored for Colonial Federal. Assists were made by Mike D. Sullivan, Sean Haidul and Chris Murphy.

Tim O'Connor, Tom Maloney and John Gavin scored for Skinner's. Rene Lumaghini, Paul Zenga, Mike Gavin and Ryan Graeber dished out assists. Mike Carloni chalked up a hat trick to lead Keohane's their first win of the season - a 7-3 victory over Morrissey Club.

Kyle Piazza, Chris Lumaghini, Shane Kabilian and Kris Farr also scored for Keohane's. Lumaghini (2), Carloni, Kabilian, Mike Webber, Mark Fitzpatrick and Eric Abdon handed out assists.

Brian Nolan led Morrissey Club with two goals. Jon Paquette tallied once and assisted on both Nolan goals. John Alves also picked up an assist.

Marina Bay Taxi knocked Neponset Valley Survey out of a tie for first place with a 6-3 victory.

Jim Mateu (2),

Terrence Doherty, Paul Markarian, Kiva Tupe and Sean Fennelly scored for Marina Bay. Two assists each were recorded by Matt O'Malley, Spike Bertucci Doherty. Tupe and Markarian notched single assists.

Martin McGrath, Conrad Leger and Dan Kennedy scored for Neponset. Kennedy, John Kisielius and Ryan Murray chalked up assists.

Pee Wee House League standings: Colonial, 7-2; Skinner's, 6-3; Neponset, 6-3; Marina Bay, 5-3-1; Keohane's, 1-7-1; Morrissey Club, 1-8.

SPORTS SPOTLIGHT

By KERRY BYRNE

Carol Virtue, who provides the Quincy Sun with Quincy Youth Hockey travel team scores, gave birth Sunday to a bouncing baby boy.

What makes the birth noteworthy is the baby's name: Drew. Of course, the first thing I asked was if the name had anything to do with that guy over in Foxboro who has all of New England abuzz. You know, the guy The Patriot Ledger now refers to as (excuse me while I openly mock them) the Walla Walla Wonder?

After all, it's not uncommon for people to name their kids after big-time athletes. Remember all the newborns in Boston named Bobby in the early 70s? Or how about all the Joe Willies born in Alabama in the 1960s? Perhaps you remember better the explosion of babies named Kerry in the mid-80s?

Anyway, Carol and her husband, James, say that this had nothing to do with it. "We just like the name," said Carol, who, like a true hockey mom, called me from her hospital bed less than 24 hours after the birth to report some scores.

Carol expects Drew, her third child, to follow in the footsteps of big brother Jordan, one of the top squirts in Quincy Youth Hockey.

You might call Jordan a goal-scoring Virtue-oso.

First-year Massasoit Community College men's soccer coach John Murphy was named 1994 Northeast Coach of the Year by the National Small College Athletic Association.

Murphy was also a finalist for National Coach of the Year after leading his team to a 18-4-1 record, an unblemished slate in the Colonial States Conference, the school's 13th New England championship, and a National JUCO Final Four appearance.

Murphy was a member of Massasoit's 1986 undefeated national champion squad.

Heather Rendle, of the mighty volleyball Rendles of North Quincy, helped the Bucknell University volleyball team tie a school record with 22 wins in a season.

The sophomore ranked third on the team with a hitting percentage of .281, second on the team with 245 kills and third in total blocks with 100. She also recorded 138 digs and 25 service aces.

This was the first time in 11 years that the Bisons won more than 20 games in a season.

Rendle's former teammate at North Quincy, Wendy Sweetser, saw action in 44 games as a freshman on the Lafayette College volleyball team.

Sweetser ranked third on the team in assist average and made 56 digs.

The Leopards' record of 16-14 was their best since 1986.

By the way, Rendle and Sweetser squared off early in the season with Bucknell eking out a 15-7, 13-15, 16-18, 15-8, 15-12 decision.

Joanna Ruggetta of North Quincy is the captain of the UMass-Boston women's basketball team this season.

Under her leadership the Beacons began the season at 5-0, the best start in school history.

Ruggetta grabbed 20 bounds in a 63-43 win over Rivier College.

Jeff Powers just completed his senior year as a tight end on the Norwich University football team.

Lindsey Langille On Mass. Hockey Team

Nine-year old Lindsey Langille of Edison St. in Quincy Point has been named to the Massachusetts state girls' squirt minor hockey team.

Lindsey's team recently won a relay race at the Dominion Ladies Tournament in Brampton, Ontario.

Lindsey currently skates at Assabet Valley.

She is the daughter of Adin and Maureen Langille. Her brother Matt plays hockey at Quincy High School. He started on the varsity squad last year as a freshman.

Veigh and Cheryl Potter.

In the sprints, sophomores Casey Ngo and Angela Chin head up the 50. Jackson, Pino, Melissa DeBonis and Jen Faye will run the 300. The 600 will feature freshman Jasmine Gonzalez, sophomores Wierzbowski and Hillary O'Donoghue, and junior Joanna Timbone.

In the 1000, veteran captain Ursula Feurtado will be joined by junior newcomer Colleen Cotter. Cotter played basketball the last two winters. Diane Jordan, a promising sophomore whose cross country season was cut short by injury, will also compete in the 1000. Also running will be Meaghan Powers and Diane Yu.

The distances will be headed by senior Laura Blaikie and junior Kelly Duggan. Both have state meet experience. Behind them is an up-and-coming group of sophomores: Vivian Chan, Carrie Jarvie, Rebecca Gordan, Lauren Molloy and Amy Drysdale.

The mile (4x400) relay is 75 percent complete with Jackson, Pino and Gonzalez. Hennessy is looking at several candidates for the fourth leg, including DeBonis, Wierzbowski, Faye and O'Donoghue.

The sprint (4x176) relay is also three-quarters complete with Poon, Ng and Ngo. Others under consideration are Boston, Chin, Garland and Marisa Smith.

Ng, Poon, Ng, Jackson, Feurtado, Jordan, Duggan, Blaikie, Pino and Yuen are all returning state meet qualifiers.

Other Red Raider team members are Chandra

Leister (jr., hurdles), Yun Yu (soph., sprints), Courtney Mitchell (soph., sprints), Mai Truong (soph., mid-distance), Annie Yu (soph., sprints), Kelly Nee (fresh., sprints), Marybeth Feeney (fresh., 1000), Eimear Morris (fresh., mid-distance), Katie Koch (fresh., sprints/hurdles) and Erin Tormey (fresh., sprints).

Maureen Roche returns as Hennessy's assistant for the sixth year.

Hennessy expects Falmouth and Weymouth to be tops in the OCL.

Sacred Heart Basketball

In action from the Sacred Heart Youth Basketball League:

Rookie girls: Katie Lynch scored a basket in double-overtime to give the Pink Panthers an exciting 20-18 win over Manning Club.

Kate McGue and Erin Gavaghan had outstanding performances for the Pink Panthers.

The Jayhawks recorded their first win, 20-4, over the Pink Panthers with a solid team effort.

Outstanding Jayhawks were Julie Cummings (10 points), Lauren McGee (eight points) and Maureen McCarthy (four points). McCarthy also rebounded well.

Cindy Lee, Jessica Smialek and Ashley Dindial were the top Panthers.

Rookie Boys: Tony Martin scored 12 points as the Suns burnt St. Ann's, 26-17.

Sean Drews pitched in with eight points and strong rebounding. Dennis Conway scored two points and played good defense.

David Toner played good defense for St. Ann's.

The Raptors clawed St. Ann's Reilly team, 23-12.

Outstanding Raptors were David Jaehning with 13 points, Chris Dolbear with four points and superb rebounding, and Sean Sullivan with two points and several assists.

The top St. Ann's players were Mark Tobin, Danny Donovan and Nick Pistorino.

The Hornets stung the McHugh Team, 29-8.

Outstanding play was turned in by Hornets Matthew Grazioso, James Ryder and Peter Sakellaris.

Top players on the McHugh team were Matt Bailler, Daryl Zoia and Keith Ma.

College Girls:

The McGraph Club scored six points in the final 30 seconds to beat Shea Club, 20-19.

Christine Plourde scored the winning basket. Casey Ridge led McGraph in scoring. Marcia Hern was strong along the glass.

The top players for Shea Club were Kim Lavery, Kate Lavery and Tammy Shea.

The Wolverines fended off an impressive comeback to beat the Tarheels, 27-25.

Sheila Cannon buried

the game-winner in the final minutes of play. Other superb efforts for the winning club were turned in by Marcia Coughlin and Rachel O'Hara.

Martha Stedman paced the Tarheels with 11 points and several key steals. Kim Dennis scored six points.

Lauren Liuzzo scored 24 points for Georgetown Club as they outgunned Sullivan Club, 37-22.

Teresa Ryan handled the ball well for Georgetown and Jeanne Sheehan played excellent defense.

Rose Zerigan and Kristen Bowes were the top Sullivan players.

College Boys:

Great team defense and rebounding gave the Wolverines a 43-21 win over the Minutemen.

Chris Doherty had a game-high 16 points and 13 rebounds for the Wolverines. Patrick Jaehning dished out six assists and scored 11 points, including a half-court buzzer-beater at the end of the third quarter. Adam O'Mara played well down low.

Outstanding Minutemen were Paul Shah, Greg Shields and Pat Brundage.

The program will be supervised in neighborhood gymnasiums by Recreation leaders. The contest is free and contestants may participate even if not enrolled in the Recreation program.

Contestants may choose to compete at any of the following sites, but may compete in only one Quincy qualifier (All contests are scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 17 at 9 a.m. unless otherwise noted):

Atherton Hough; Atlantic Middle; Bernazzani; Lincoln-Hancock; Merry-mount; Montclair; Daniel Webster; Snug Harbor; Squantum; and Wollaston.

A girls only contest will be held Thursday, Dec. 15 at 3 p.m. at the Parker School. A boys only contest will be held at the Parker School Monday, Dec. 19 at 3 p.m.

Recreation Director Barry Welch said "we are pleased that the Quincy Lodge of Elks has once again provided this program for the benefit of our participants. Many Quincy residents in the past have enjoyed the benefits of this activity at the local, regional and state level. The Elks devote a great deal of attention to youth programs."

The Quincy "Hoop Shoot" chairman is Marshfield High School Athletic Director Ed Miller, a former North Quincy High School basketball player and head coach.

Lawsuit To Follow Closure Of Fatal Crash Investigation

The investigation of a fatal police chase on Sea Street last year has been closed, but a victim of the accident plans to sue the city.

J.W. Carney Jr. of Boston, the attorney for 66-year-old Delores Murray of Quincy, said last week the focus on the woman a police cruiser was following before the accident has been a "smokescreen" by the Quincy police, State Police and Norfolk County District attorney's office to cover up "misconduct" by the police officers involved in the incident.

Police Chief Francis Mullen would not comment on that, but Mayor James Sheets defended the officers, saying they only doing their job, and said there was no cover-up.

The police and district attorney's office have been criticized for delays in the investigation concerning the Oct. 29, 1993 crash that killed 71-year-old Mary O'Leary of Quincy and injured Murray.

In May, District Attorney William Delahunt cleared the officers of wrongdoing in the case, saying the accident would not have happened if Marianne Sullivan of Quincy had not been speeding. Sullivan was being followed by a police cruiser driven by officers Michael Sullivan and John Sullivan.

The cruiser collided with Murray's car on Sea Street while following Sullivan. None of the Sullivans are related.

Marianne Sullivan, 41, whose death Nov. 26 after a brief illness has prompted officials to close the investigation, died without being indicted for motor vehicle homicide. However, Deputy District Attorney Matthew Connolly said his office was about "a week away" from requesting an indictment.

Connolly said his office went over the results of their investigation with the families and news media and nothing was covered up. He added that his office believes that Marianne Sullivan set in motion the chain of events that caused the accident.

Carney, however, was planning to file Murray's lawsuit against the city sometime this week. O'Leary's family is also seeking damages from the city.

Quincy Bay Girls Open Season With Victory

The seventh grade Quincy Bay Bad Girls basketball team won its first game of the season, 18-15, over Bridgewater.

The Quincy girls were led by Ashley Rowerdink (six points) and Caitlyn Powers (five points, 12 rebounds).

The defensive game was a key to the win and strong rebounding by Jill Nichols, Caitlin O'Donnell, Meghan Ginty and Amy Satkevich allowed Quincy to control the boards. The four combined for seven points.

The Bad Girls fell to a tough Easton team, 25-17, in their second outing.

Tough defense by Camila Kidd, Nichols and Rowerdink held Easton to just 10 first-half points.

Powers paced Quincy with six points. Other scorers were Nichols (four), Satkevich (3), and Ginty and Rowerdink with two each.

Inspection Depts. Streamlining Moves Ahead In Legislature

that Building Inspector Matthias Mulvey will have the option of applying for the new position.

City Solicitor Stephen McGrath told the council Oct. 17 that because the state requires all communities to employ a person with the title "inspector of buildings," the home-rule petition was the only way to achieve the goal of the consolidation of city departments.

McGrath also said that while the new system is not designed to save the city money, it may do so in the long run. He said there should be no reason it would cost more money than the current system, adding that the City Council has final say over all city positions when it reviews and passes Quincy's municipal budget.

Mulvey could not be reached for comment at press time.

O'Donnell, Killer Bees Sting Brookline

Jacob O'Donnell's four unassisted goals powered the Quincy Youth Hockey League Mite B (Killer Bees) team to a 6-2 win over Brookline in a game played Sunday at Cleveland Circle.

It was the Killer Bees' first win of the season.

Liam Powers opened the scoring for Quincy with a blistering shot in the first period. O'Donnell netted his first in the opening period.

In the second, the high-scoring O'Donnell buried two more. In the third Powers scored his second thanks to some nice stick-work by Brendan Linnane and Myles Clancy. O'Donnell closed out the Killer Bee scoring.

Strong offensive play by Mark Lewis, Billy Jones and Brianna Nolan had the crowd buzzing like bees.

Brookline was hard pressed to get across the blue line as defenders Taylor Reinhardt, Chris Sheehan and Gene Nazarro had the Brookliners skating in circles. Matt Haskins, Pat Maloney and George Snowling commanded the point.

Bees' goalie Nick Manning was outstanding.

Head coach Kevin Lewis and assistants Rich Reinhardt and Steve Sheehan believe their team was inspired to its first win by a trip to Providence Friday to watch the Baby Bruins battle the Binghamton Rangers. Tom Maloney and Marie Davis made the Bees' trip possible.

Villa Rosa In-Family License Transfer Approved

A request for an in-family transfer of ownership of the Villa-Rosa restaurant at 705 Adams St. to the Cima Corporation was granted by the Quincy License board at its Tuesday meeting.

The land-mark Lakin Square restaurant's new owner will be Nancy E.

Cirillo. Her sister, Dora McDonald is retiring. Both women are daughters of the Marinelli family which has owned the restaurant for 45 years. The establishment will keep the same name.

Board chairman Joseph Shea said the rule of the license board is to have two meetings for the transfer of the Common Victualer-All Alcoholic Beverage License, but since the transfer is an "in family transfer" the board granted the request Tuesday.

Ms. Cirillo told the board everything at the restaurant will remain the same and will keep its reputation of being the same "family run restaurant."

The Hidden Crime Of Domestic Violence*

One out of every four women in this country will suffer some kind of violence at the hands of her husband or boyfriend.

Very few tell anyone--not a friend, a relative, a neighbor, or the police.

Victims of domestic violence come from all walks of life--all cultures, all income groups, all ages, all religions. They share feelings of helplessness, isolation, guilt, fear and shame.

All hope it won't happen again, but often it does.

ARE YOU ABUSED?

Does the person you love...

• "Track" all of your time?

• Constantly accuse you of being unfaithful?

• Discourage your relationships with family and friends?

• Prevent you from working or attending school?

• Criticize you for little things?

• Anger easily when drinking or on drugs?

• Control all finances and force you to account in detail for what you spend?

• Humiliate you in front of others?

• Hit, punch, slap, kick or bite you or the children?

• Use or threaten to use a weapon against you?

• Threaten to hurt you or the children?

• Force you to have sex against your will?

IF YOU FIND YOURSELF SAYING YES, IT'S TIME TO GET HELP.

If you are hurt, what can you do?

There are no easy answers, but there are things you can do to protect yourself.

• Call the police. Assault, even by a family member, is a crime. Your local police can give you information about shelters and other agencies that help victims of domestic violence.

• Leave the home, or have someone come and stay with you. Go to a battered women's shelter--call a crisis hot-line in your community or a health center to locate shelter. If you believe that you, and your children, are in danger, leave immediately.

• Get medical attention from your doctor or a hospital emergency room. Ask the staff to photograph your injuries and keep detailed records in case you decide to take legal action.

• Contact the police or the court for information about a restraining order to keep your abuser away from you.

Squantum Man Killed In Bridge Collision

A Squantum man was killed last week after his pickup truck crashed into another on the ice-covered Fore River Bridge.

William Lawrence, 41, of 89 Huckins Ave. was pronounced dead at Quincy Hospital shortly after the crash, which took place Dec. 7 just after 11 p.m. on the Quincy side of the bridge.

The other driver, 54-year-old Arthur Bleakney of Weymouth, was taken to South Shore Hospital where he was treated until being released Dec. 9.

Police said icy road conditions and speed were probable contributing factors in the accident. Bleakney was wearing a seat belt, but Lawrence was not, they said.

The bridge was closed for about two hours while the pickup trucks were removed and an accident reconstruction specialist worked on the scene.

The incident is not the first time bad weather has been blamed for a fatality on the bridge. In October 1990, 16-year-old Roger Smith of Hingham was killed when his car skidded out of control on the rain-slicked deck and crashed into a steel gate used to block traffic when the bridge is raised.

State officials announced last week that planned renovations to the bridge will not begin until 1996. Officials were unhappy with the original plan to reduce the number of traffic lanes during renovations and have called for a completely new plan, resulting in a year's delay.

Lawrence, who formerly lived in Stoughton, worked for the past 2 1/2 years at Nobler Technologies in Stoughton. The company makes machinery that produces compact discs.

He is survived his wife, three daughters, his mother, two brothers and two sisters.

Victory At City Hall, Question Mark At State House

College Petition's Fate Uncertain

By MICHAEL WHALEN

A home-rule petition to remove elected officials from the Quincy College Board of Governors faces an uncertain future as it moves from the city to Beacon Hill.

The petition, passed by the City Council Monday night and signed by Mayor James Sheets Tuesday, will be opposed by state Rep. Ronald Mariano who serves on the college board. Sen. Michael Morrissey, the ranking member of the city's four-man Legislative delegation said Tuesday he is still undecided whether he will support the petition.

Council President Michael Cheney, who introduced the petition, said he will consider initiating a referendum for next year's city election if the petition does not receive support at the State House.

"That is an option," said Cheney. "But I have every bit of faith in the Quincy delegation."

The council voted 6-3 Monday night to pass the petition. Cheney, Councillors-at-Large Timothy Cahill and Joseph LaRaia, Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro, Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien, and Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan supported the measure. Those opposed were Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio, another member of the college board; Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson and Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers.

Sheets said he supported the petition because he respects the right of councillors to amend his original home-rule petition to establish the new Board of Governors at the college which was passed by the City Council in March.

Mariano, who told The Quincy Sun two weeks ago he would oppose the petition if it were passed, reaffirmed his position

Tuesday, saying that he does not see his position on the college's Board of Governors as a conflict of interest.

The city will be eligible to hire five new police officers due to a federal grant designed to implement community policing strategies to fight crime.

Police Chief Francis Mullen said the city at the present time has 145 police officers. He said the department is budgeted for 150 officers and added as soon as that is "brought up to budget strength, then we will be authorized to hire the others." He said the department has to fill out a COPS-AHEAD application kit by March 3, 1995.

Mayor James Sheets said Tuesday he is "thrilled at the allocation to hire more police officers." He said appropriations will be provided for the addition of a total of 10 more police officers.

Council Meeting Rescheduled Sheets Mid-Term Address Jan. 9

Mayor James Sheets will give his third mid-term address Monday, Jan.

9 at 10 a.m. in the City Council Chambers at Quincy City Hall, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The City Council voted Monday night to suspend its rules and hold a meeting that same day. City Clerk Joseph Shea said during inaugural addresses, the council must meet on the first Monday of the month, but the rules may be suspended for mid-term addresses.

The council opted reschedule its original Jan. 2 meeting because of the New Year's Day holiday.

Deadline Friday For Next Week's Sun

Because of the Christmas Day holiday Sunday, there is an early sports deadline for next week's issue of The Quincy Sun.

All releases and advertising copy should be submitted to the Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Center, by 5 p.m. tomorrow (Friday) to ensure publication in the Dec. 29th edition.

The Sun will be closed Monday, Dec. 26 in observance of Christmas and reopen Tuesday, Dec. 27.

The same early deadline will apply for the New Year's Day holiday. The Sun office will be closed Monday, Jan. 2 and reopen Tuesday, Jan. 3.

Study: Compact Needed To Boost Quincy Tourism

The National Park Service has completed "The Quincy Heritage Agenda", a three-year study of the historic resources of the City of Quincy.

Results of the study were released by Mayor James Sheets and other city officials at a press conference Tuesday. The $250,000, 77-page study concludes that the city has plenty to offer tourists but suggests formation of a non-profit agency known as the Quincy Heritage Compact which would help link historic sites and coordinate tourism efforts. The study also makes several suggestions for attracting more tourists, including the following:

- Construction of a hotel in Quincy Center and a cultural center.
- Expansion of the existing public transit system between historic sites.
- Development of a pier for boats that would take visitors to the Boston Harbor Islands.
- Creation of a Quincy Freedom Trail, or a possible extension of Boston's Trail into the city.
- Sponsorship of internships and promotion of the community as a site for historic research and conferences, which would put Quincy on the academic map.

The Park Service began the study of the 16 historic sites after Sheets' request in 1990 for a $250,000 appropriation to the fund of the Park Service Resources Study.

The money was funded through the U.S. Department of the Interior. Sheets said the appropriation was due to the efforts of Sen. Edward Kennedy, U.S. Rep. Gerry Studds and then-U.S. Rep. Brian Donnelly.

Sheets described Tuesday's press conference" as "historical" and cited the three most important historic resources that Quincy has: the Adams presidents and their families, the granite industry, and maritime-shipbuilding activities.

Sheets spoke about the importance of building a hotel and said he will be "fast tracking" the plans. He said officials are looking for a 175-room hotel with a conference center.

He added that the committee is planning another trip to Washington, D.C. for an additional $150,000 for a granite study.

Marie Rust, regional director of the North Atlantic Region National Park Service presented a framed plaque of the Quincy Heritage to Sheets. She called the study a "labor of love" and said it was a "catalyst study" "only the beginning" of attaining a partnership with all of the historic sites in the city.

Sheets commended Bernice Mader, his administrative assistant for her many hours of work in the study, and Marianne Peak, superintendent of the Adams National Historic Site.

Peak said, "We've only just begun" and added "we know what our resources are, but connecting all of the historic sites from Harbor Islands, Marina Bay to the shipyard will be a visitor's experience."

Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro suggested the committee meet on an "off council" night with the City Council to discuss any future plans.

Evergreen Program To Mulch Christmas Trees For Fifth Year

The Quincy Evergreen Program will once again accept Christmas trees in need of mulching at the Quincy Park and Recreation Facility, 100 Southern Artery.

The program, which is now in its fifth year, is sponsored by Jay Cashman Inc., 77 Federal Ave. Mayor James Sheets' office also assists with the effort.

Program Chairman Leo Kelly said has the program has taken in nearly 9,000 trees in its first four years: 2,600 in 1990, 2,300 in 1991, 2,500 in 1992 and 1,500 last year.

"We hope to go over 10,000 trees this year," said Kelly. "Last year was a horrible winter, and the live trees seem to be selling more this year."

Everyone who brings in a tree to be mulched will receive a coupon for a live 10-inch evergreen plant which will be available in April. Used gift wrapping paper may also be exchanged for an evergreen coupon.

"It's really a tree-planting program more than a recycling program," said Kelly, who has received the Environmental Protection Agency's Region I Award and the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association's "Local Hero" Award for his work in the program. "We hope everyone plants them (evergreens) after they take them home, because anytime you can plant that many trees, it's got to be a great program."

Trees and wrapping paper may be brought to the Park and Recreation Facility weekdays be-

Shop & Shop Permit May Face Court Appeal

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The City Council's decision to grant a permit for construction of a new Stop & Shop supermarket at the Pneumatic Scale site on Newport Avenue in North Quincy may be appealed by Work Inc.

The agency, located at 3 Arlington St., has been outspoken in its opinion that a new area supermarket will endanger its more than 300 clients. Work Inc. is a vocational program that employs the physically and mentally disabled.

Work Inc. President Hank Cheney was uncertain after Monday night's vote what his next move would be.

"There are still unresolved safety issues," said Cheney, who is no relation to City Council President Michael Cheney. "We're responsible for the safety of people who come to us, and Stop & Shop has given us no assurances. We're going to have to check out our legal options."

City Solicitor Stephen McGrath said Work Inc. will have up until 20 days after the council's vote has been officially certified by the city clerk's office to file a permit in Superior Court or Land Court. However, the Planned Unit Development (PUD) permit that the council granted Stop & Shop will likely stand up in either, he added.

"It was well-crafted," McGrath said of the permit. "They would have to demonstrate that it does have an adverse effect on Work Inc., and that would be extremely difficult, if not impossible, in my opinion."

Cheney has also expressed interest in buying 18,000 square feet near the south end of Work Inc.'s building to build a 60-car parking lot which would replace 42 spaces Work Inc. leases from Pneumatic Scale and others they will lose on the street.

Work Inc. officials have said Stop & Shop talked about selling the land and also paying the bill for moving Work Inc.'s entrance off of Arlington Street, but pulled back on both offers once they apparently felt they had a majority of city councilors' support.

Stop & Shop officials, however, have admitted that the matter was discussed but said Cheney was never led to believe it was a final deal. The company has offered to lease 60 spaces to Work Inc. on the same terms as Pneumatic Scale ($40 per space per month) for five years, and also nearly two years of free rent to compensate for $50,000 in renovations Work Inc. will have to make to its loading dock.

In addition, the PUD permit was amended Monday night to require Stop & Shop to post a $500,000 bond in order to ensure that the company will make proposed traffic improvements. Although lower than the Quincy Planning Board's recommendation of $1 million, the bond was increased considerably from the $100,000 Stop & Shop wanted to post.

Asked about the bond, Cheney grinned and said, "it's better than zero," but added that it is not enough to alleviate his safety concerns.

Stop & Shop wants to build a 75,000-square-foot supermarket and another 18,800-square-foot retail building at the site. Pneumatic Scale announced earlier this year that it would be moving, although

Sheets Betting His (Sweat)Shirt On Pats

Mayor James Sheets is willing to bet the shirt off his back that the New England Patriots will defeat the Chicago Bears this Saturday when the two teams play at Soldiers Field.

Or in this case, the sweatshirt.

Sheets and Quincy, Ill. Mayor Chuck Scholz have placed a friendly wager on the game. The winner will receive a sweatshirt bearing the name of the loser's city.

Sheets and Scholz became acquainted last year during the Quincy to Quincy, Ill. relief effort that sent food, money and supplies to the flood-ravaged Midwestern city.

In addition, two fire stations are betting on the game. Engine 4 in Wollaston and Station 4 in Quincy, Ill. are each wagering 12 departmental T-shirts. The two stations had the same bet on the Super Bowl XX in 1986, when Chicago defeated New England, 46-10.

Currently, both teams enjoy a 9-6 record and are fighting for wild-card spots in the playoffs heading into the final week of the NFL season. At press time, the Patriots were listed in another newspaper as one-point underdogs.

Dear Santa

DEAR SANTA:

Here I am again, Santa . . . late as usual.

I keep promising to write sooner and I really keep trying to . . . (honest). But in this business time just zips by. You know what they say about time flying when you're having fun. (Well, most of the time it's fun.)

Santa, most of these gifts this year—as in the past—are being asked for in fun and a few of them in a serious vein.

I really would appreciate it, Santa, if you would do your best to get the following to the following:

Mayor JAMES SHEETS, a calendar for the year 2000 with a circle around the first Monday in January to remind him to be there for his sixth term inaugural. (We'll, at the rate he's going, that could very well be.)

. . . Councillor and Quincy's newest author, TIM CAHILL, a Megabucks offer for the movie or TV rights to his book, Profiles In The American Dream. (Wonder who they would get to play LOUIS GROSSMAN, HOWARD JOHNSON, WILLIAM ROSENBERG and PETER O'CONNELL? Hope whoever they are they'll pronounce it Quin-see and not Quin-see.)

Councillor MIKE CHENEY, a guarantee from Boston TV weather forecasters for a mild, dry New Year's Eve for his First Night Celebration. (And for both Cahill and Cheney a king-sized case of Mayoral Aspiration Patience.)

. . . Quincy 2000 Executive Director CHUCK D'APRIZ, that long, long, long sought hotel for Quincy Center. . . BILL MACMULLEN, at least 10,000 first-year visitors to the USS Salem and the U.S. Naval Shipbuilding Museum at the Fore River Shipyard. . . Former state Senator PAUL HAROLD, a call from BILL CLINTON with a State Department appointment. . . City Clerk JOSEPH SHEA, a set of the most modern voting machines. . . And while you're at it, Santa, how about a new razor and a can of super-duper beard shaving cream. (We'll help hold him down, Josephine).

. . . American Legion State Department Commander HANK BRADLEY, a nomination by acclamation for National Commander. . . FRANK ANSELM, now a young 96, another five gallons from the Fountain of Youth. . . JAY ASHER, JOHN NICOLSON, ROY LIND, JOE CATALANO and the rest of the WJDA gang, a deserving broadcasting award for one of the finest local radio stations anywhere. . . TOM KOCH, MIKE MCFARLAND, MAUREEN HALLSEN and ALFRED GRAZIOSO best wishes and success in their new assignments as executive director of Parks, Forestry and Cemetery Departments; executive secretary to the mayor; assistant city clerk; and purchasing agent. . . Fr. WILLIAM MCCARTHY and Councillor TED DECRISTOFARO, robust health. And for EILEEN COHEN, too. . . Quincy Council on Aging Director BRIAN BUCKLEY, a photo of himself with Queen Elizabeth (or Di) for next year's Christmas card. . . RAY CATTANEO, many years of happy retirement. . . DPW Commissioner DAVE COLTON, a winter without a serious snow storm. (We'll all take that one, Santa.) . . Thomas Crane Library Director ANN MCLAUGHLIN, the go-ahead (and money) for those needed renovations at the library. . . MIKE KENEALY of Key Realty, tenants for the available office space he has listed in downtown. . . CHARLES SIMPSON, who will soon be the former president of the former Quincy Savings Bank, a bushel or two or three of success and happiness in whatever new venture he decides to get into. (Chuck, you're too young for retirement.) . . For Police Chief FRANK MULLEN and Fire Chief TOM GORMAN, the same things I asked for you to give them last year: A year without violence and a year without a fatal fire. . . Former School Committeeman CHARLIE SWEENEY, his own poetic version of "A Rose Is A Rose . . ." . . . His pal, DAVE BECKER, says he'll make sure it rhymes. . . BRUCE AYERS and LARRY CHRETIEN, the lone bachelors in the City Council, an introduction to a dream girl. . . Deputy Director Quincy Emergency Management TONY SICILIANO, a mail bag full of "thank yous" for all the nice things he does for so many people. (He'll tell you to give it to someone more deserving, Santa, but don't listen to him.) . . Councillor PETER KOLSON, the role of Curley in a Broadway revival of "Oklahoma." . . Quincy District Court Clerk ARTHUR TOBIN, a black robe, size large, to hang in the closet for now but for future wearing. . . TOM GALVIN another batch of old Quincy postcard scenes to keep his many Sun fans happy. . . School Supt. GENE CREEDON getting through the winter without using up all his snow days. . . Retiring Quincy High School football Coach JACK RAYMER, a nice testimonial dinner with a full house. . . And, Santa, can I work something in here for myself? How about a Mike Decipher Telephone. So that when I get a call from "Mike's office" I'll know for sure whether it's Senator MIKE MORRISSEY's office or Rep. MIKE BELLOTTI's office. Last week I reported a fundraiser to be held for Mike Bellotti when it was really being held for Mike Morrissey. Sorry. Maybe Mike Morrissey should share a little of the proceeds with Mike Bellotti because Mike Bellotti thinks he helped bring in the crowd for Mike Morrissey. Se how confusing it can get, Santa? . . . And, by the way, Santa, if you're coming over Beacon Hill and happen to have an extra one of those 55 percent pay raises I could afford to buy one of those telephones myself. (Just kidding, guys) . . . And to all on my gift list and to all of you, a very Merry Christmas and a Healthy, Happy New Year with the accent on HEALTHY.

IS FAT THE RAT IN PROSTATE CANCER?

Why is it that many men can live with slow-growing prostate cancer virtually indefinitely and without serious health ramifications, while others quickly find themselves in the advanced stages of the disease? Researchers for the National Cancer Institute are reporting that the answer may lie in that well-known old villain: dietary fat. Among the men studied, those with high-fat diets were more than twice as likely to develop the more virulent form of prostate cancer than those who regularly followed low-fat diets. The news was particularly grim for men who had a fondness for red meat almost tripled the likelihood of experiencing the fast-moving, more deadly type of prostate cancer.

P.S. Every man over the age of 40 should have an annual rectal exam as part of a prostate checkup.

Low fat diets can offer some of the best protection against future illness. For more information, visit COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE, at 700 Congress St., Suite 2C, in Quincy or call myself or Dr. Lisa Antonelli at 472-2550. Office hours by appointment. I am affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospitals. Happy Holidays!

Ayers To Distribute Toys To Needy Children

Ward 6 City Councillor Bruce Ayers is distributing toys collected in his third annual Toy Drive this week.

Ayers said this year's drive has been a great success and extended his gratitude to the Squantum Community Association, Atlantic Neighborhood Center and Squantum School for their assistance in the drive as well as the many residents who have donated toys, clothing and other items.

"The purpose of my Toy Drive is to ensure that every child awakens Christmas morning to the incomparable delight of Santa having come to their home while they were sleeping," he said.

Those who know a child or children in need of items collected in the drive should call Ayers at 472-9877 to arrange for delivery or pick-up.

station and across the tracks on what was Irving Place, the peaked roof building was 'The Coliseum' where roller skating and boxing matches were the regular fare. The Coliseum, originally a furniture store, was destroyed in a spectacular fire. The Hancock House Hotel and all the other buildings to the right of City Hall in this 1915 scene are long gone.

Flu Bug Makes Christmas Not So Merry

By PAUL HAROLD

Flu and virus hit a high percentage of postal employees in Quincy, Braintree and Boston, slowing down the processing of out-of-town mail.

The 25 percent absenteeism in Quincy, however, did not affect home deliveries.

Area schools reported 15 percent absentees with fire and police departments reporting above average numbers calling in sick, but not enough to hinder normal operations.

Even the President was down with the flu. President Lyndon Johnson was at the Bethesda Naval Hospital where he showed continued improvement.

CITY COUNCIL TO MEET NEW YEAR'S EVE

City Council President Vincent Smyth scheduled a meeting of the City Council for Dec. 31 to override Mayor James McIntyre's veto of a pay raise for 500 city employees. The affected employees were not covered by collective bargaining agreements.

Smyth said the Dec. 31 date was the only one available to meet before the end-of-the-year deadline. He stressed the importance of the meeting and urged all councilors to make a special effort to attend, despite personal hardships.

NEWPORT AVE. EXTENSION PLANNED

The City Council held a public hearing this week on plans to extend Newport Ave. north of West Squantum St. and south of Hancock St. Besides the taking of an easement, six buildings would be removed, including four single-family homes in the Walnut St. area.

It was noted that the extension was designed to take advantage of the extensive traffic improvements at Neponset Circle.

Atty. William Linden, representing the Richmond Brothers, owners of radio station WMEX, said he feared the design would interfere with the maintenance of grounding cables for the station's two radio towers.

Quaresimali Cookies

When our group meets at Marge and Paul's house, it is a true experience. Between her lavish Christmas decorations and her exquisite desserts, the whole evening could be printed in a magazine.

And so it was last week, when among her many desserts was an Italian sweet called Quaresimali. This particular cookie was made only during the Lenten season since the name comes from the word for Lent, quaresima, but now they're available in specialty stores, but very expensive. The following recipe makes about 3 1/2 dozen.

MARGE'S QUARESIMALI COOKIES

- 3 cups unblanched whole almonds
- 1/4 cup honey
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 cups flour
- 3/4 cup brown sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves
- 1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 1/4 teaspoons baking powder
- 4 tablespoons butter, softened
- 2 large eggs
- 1 large egg with 1 tablespoon water for egg wash

Preheat oven to 375 degrees and lightly grease 2 cookie sheets

Spread the almonds on a cookie sheet and roast them for about 8 minutes.

Transfer the almonds to a bowl and let cool. Lower the oven temperature to 350 degrees.

Reserve 2 1/4 cups of the almonds. With a sharp knife, chop the remaining 3/4 cup of almonds until fine. Transfer to a bowl, add the honey and blend well.

In a large bowl, combine all the remaining dry ingredients and mix well.

In a small bowl, beat the eggs with the softened butter until well blended. Add to the honey and almond mixture and mix well. Add to the dry ingredients, along with the reserve almonds and mix with your hands until dough is well blended. The dough will be stiff.

Divide the dough in half and, with floured hands, form each piece into a loaf 12 inches long by 3 to 4 inches wide. Place the loaves on the greased cookie sheets and brush the tops of each loaf with the egg wash. Bake for 20 to 25 minutes or until lightly browned.

Transfer the loaves to a cutting board and carefully cut each loaf on the diagonal into slices about 1/2 inch thick. Place the pieces on their sides on the cookie sheets and bake for 7 minutes on each side, or until well toasted and hard.

Transfer to wire racks to cool. Store in an airtight container. It seems like a lot of work, but it is well worth it.

Merry Christmas!

Julie McCloskey Inducted Into Trinity College Honor Society

Julie M. McCloskey, 41 Rockland St., Quincy, was inducted into the Pi Gamma Mu honor society at Trinity College in Hartford, Conn. during recent ceremonies at the school.

Pi Gamma Mu is a national honor society that recognizes outstanding scholarship in the social sciences. Members are elected by unanimous vote from among graduate students and undergraduates of the senior and junior classes whose scholarship qualifies them for the honor.

The society also elects people who have distinguished themselves in public service.

McCloskey, a member of the Class of 1995, is majoring in political science. A graduate of Quincy High School, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. McCloskey.

OUR POLICY ON ENGAGEMENT PHOTOGRAPHS AND WEDDING ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Quincy Sun will continue to publish photographs with engagement announcements as it always has.

The Sun will also continue to use in wedding announcements, the names of all members of the wedding party including maid or matron of honor, best man, parents, bridesmaids, ushers, flower girls and ringbearers, etc.

We invite engaged couples to submit photos with their announcements, and when submitting their wedding photo, to include a complete listing of the wedding party.

Black and white photos are preferred. The Sun can convert most color photos to black and white for publication but the photo loses some clarity in the process.

We suggest that when you have your engagement photo taken, you request the studio to send a copy to The Sun with the reminder that The Sun is continuing its policy of publishing engagement photos.

The Sun also publishes wedding announcements with photos of the bride and groom, bridesmaids, flower girls, ringbearers, ushers, best man, and parents.

Pilgrim Health Care Donates Holiday Packages to Quincy Community Action

Pilgrim Health Care, Inc., employees recently donated goodwill packages to Quincy community Action for delivery to needy families in Quincy as part of its yearly holiday outreach to the less fortunate.

Members of Pilgrim's sales department supplied funds and food for parcels.

Each basket contained a turkey, trimmings and presents for delivery to an underprivileged family. Pilgrim staff contributed their own resources and time to create these goodwill gifts.

Pilgrim Health Care, a not-for-profit health benefits organization, is one of the largest and fastest growing HMOs in the area. With over 11,760 doctors and 74 hospitals, pilgrim provides coverage for more than 322,000 members through thousands of client companies in all of Eastern Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Sheets To Sign Lease For W.Q. Golf Course

Mayor James Sheets plans to sign a lease to begin converting the former West Quincy landfill into a 250-acre golf course/recreation complex.

The mayor said at press time he was unsure exactly when the lease will be signed but he plans to do so as soon as possible.

Sheets' signature will mean that Quarry Hills Associates of Quincy may start negotiating for a share of the fill from Boston's Central Artery ("Big Dig") project.

A key factor in the success of the golf course project is getting the clay and dirt from the Central Artery endeavor. Even if that happens, officials do not expect the golf course to be ready until at least 1999.

Construction of the $10 million complex, which will also include a driving range, baseball and softball fields, skating facilities and hiking trails, is expected to take around four or five years.

The 25-page lease was signed last week by Quarry Hills President Charles Geilich before being sent to Sheets. The document went through more than two dozen drafts over a period of several months.

Under the terms of the 50-year lease, the city will receive 10 percent of the annual profits from the golf course, driving range and rental of function facilities. Through this agreement, Quincy is expected to get to get between $100,000 and $200,000 annually and although Quarry Hills will build and maintain the seven athletic fields and other recreation areas, the city will get use of them for free.

The final version of the lease allows Sheets the opportunity to veto the project after the state Department of Environmental Protection has approved it if he is dissatisfied with any component of the project. In addition, it spells out clearly that the DEP must sign off on the project every step of the way.

The City Council has also viewed the final version, and all members appear to be satisfied, according to officials.

It has not yet been decided whether the Town of Milton will sign on the project. The town has proposed leasing its adjacent landfill, which is slated for closure, and expanding the golf course to 27 holes.

The mayor said he won't mind including Milton, providing that the partnership does not delay construction of the recreation facility.

CHRISTMAS IN CHURCH

lights the way to the spirit and brotherhood of Christmas

The Christmas Story

Luke, 2, 1-14. At that time, there went forth a decree from Caesar Augustus that a census of the whole world should be taken. The first census took place while Cyrenus was governor of Syria.

And all were going each to his own town, to register.

And Joseph also sent from Galilee out of the town of Nazareth into Judea to the town of David, which is called Bethlehem - because he was of the house and family of David - to register, together with Mary his espoused wife, who was with child.

And it came to pass while they were there, that the days for her to be delivered were fulfilled.

And she brought forth her first-born Son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a Manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were shepherds in the same district living in the fields and keeping watch over their flock by night.

And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by them, and the glory of God shone round them, and they feared exceedingly.

And the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good news of great joy which shall be to all the people; for today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you, Who is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign to you; you will find an infant wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger."

And suddenly there was with the angels a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men of good will."

OUTDOOR CRECHE SET was recently dedicated at Union Congregational Church. The set was built in memory of Carl Swanson, father of Rev. Carl Swanson, church pastor.

Creche Set Dedicated At Union Congregational

An outdoor creche set in memory of Carl Swanson set was dedicated Sunday at Union Congregational Church in Wollaston.

Mr. Swanson, a lifelong Quincy resident, was the father of Rev. Carl Swanson, pastor of the church. The creche set was built by Rev. Swanson and Robert Garrett of Quincy Point. It was made of lumber from an actual stable that the late Mr. Swanson built for his daughter-in-law, Rev. Martha Swanson, when the Swansons lived in Middleboro.

The set was dedicated following Sunday's morning worship service.

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

Fifth graders in Quincy Public Schools this year were invited to submit articles for the Christmas, Hanukkah and New Year's holiday season.

The theme for their article is: "If I could have one wish come true this holiday season it would be . . ."

The Sun is happy to share these young thoughts with you this season. Publishing these articles has become a tradition that all of us at The Sun look forward to each year and, we hope, you do, too.

We want to thank Dr. Janet DiTullio, Director of Curriculum in the Quincy Public School System and classroom teachers for their cooperation and assistance.

We were again swamped with entries and because of space limitations we regret we cannot print every article submitted. There were so many others that were worthy of publication, too.

We do hope to publish more next week.

To all who participated we extend season's greetings and wishes for a happy, healthy New Year.

Thank you all, most sincerely.

It would be to have world peace and no violence.

Elizabeth Burke
Squantum

It would be that no one would be hungry or homeless.

Patrick McGillicuddy
Squantum

It would be to have a new brother. His name would be Goofy, and he wouldn't mind if I hit him.

Gregory Sommers
Squantum

It would be that my brother's cat would come back. I really miss him. He has white socks and dark black fur. My dog doesn't have anyone to play with anymore. He ran away a month ago.

Matthew Kobiaka
Squantum

It would be for world peace. I wouldn't have to walk to my bus stop without being afraid that someone might jump out and grab me.

Michelle Mattson
Squantum

It would be to spend more time with my whole family.

Anthony Savage
Snug Harbor

It would be for homeless people to have a house.

Wayne Grant
Snug Harbor

It would be to for my father to be alive again.

Sabrina Wong
Snug Harbor

It would be for less violence in the world.

Cory Bouchard
Snug Harbor

It would be to for me to see my cousins in California, because I've only seen them a couple of times.

Brian Sorensen
Snug Harbor

It would be to have a white Christmas.

Adam Vecchione
Snug Harbor

It would be to for Germantown to be a better town.

Alex McLaughlin
Snug Harbor

It would be to get all the love I could get from my family.

Christina Roosa
Snug Harbor

It would be to have a laptop computer.

Mike Dean
Snug Harbor

It would be that everyone would stop the violence.

Linh Duong
Snug Harbor

It would be to have a Merry Christmas.

Deshauna Johnson
Snug Harbor

It would be to have a white Christmas.

Stephen Florentine
Snug Harbor

It would be to have everybody's wishes come true, including me!

Katrina Shields
Snug Harbor

It would be for a white Christmas.

Alicia Buccini
Snug Harbor

It would be for a white Christmas every year.

Andy Benjamin
Snug Harbor

It would be to have long hair again.

Dianne Morgan
Snug Harbor

It would be that there was a cure for cancer and many people would be saved from death and live longer

Chris Moran
Snug Harbor

It would be that the homeless will have jobs so they could get money for shelter and food, and find a place to live in.

Dick Cheug
Wollaston

It would be to have homeless people get homes, good food and clothing and live normal lives.

Jessica Hogan
Wollaston

It would be that they would find a cure for AIDS so people will stop dying.

Greg Johnson
Wollaston

It would be that my Aunt Rita gets better and that all cures are found for all diseases.

Jessica Knowles
Wollaston

It would be that all homeless people and animals could get a job or find a home for the holidays, or the rest of their lives.

Caitlin Herlihy
Wollaston

It would be to help out with poor people and sick people in the hospital.

Katelyn McKenna
Wollaston

It would be that we could find a cure for AIDS and all types of cancer.

Tom Vinson
Wollaston

It would be that children in other countries would all have nice warm homes.

Clare Hammond
Wollaston

It would be that there would be no wars and all the homeless people had homes.

Sean Golden
Wollaston

It would be for wars to stop and for homeless people to get homes.

Tanya Isaac
Wollaston

It would be that all the battered women and children in the DOVE center are safe.

Katherine Markhard
Wollaston

It would be that my arm gets better and that I have no permanent damage.

Jeffrey Hunt
Wollaston

It would be to go to Vietnam and visit my family. I never went to Vietnam and my grandmother is very sick there. I want to see my cousins and visit my uncles and aunts. If I go to Vietnam I would want my grandmother to feel much better so I can go around with her and meet people.

Ngan Nguyen
Parker

It would be for a big sister because I could share my secrets with her. We could go places together.

Jenny Lo
Squantum

It would be that my cousin Arthur who is in the Marine Corps could come home from Haiti. My family hasn't seen him since last Christmas. I would love to see him for Christmas this year and see how he is doing, what it's like to be there and a whole bunch of more questions. He is always writing us letters saying he misses us.

Sarah Pross
Parker

It would be that my mother would stop smoking so she would have a better chance of a longer and healthier life. My father, my two brothers, my sister and I could be happy. We wouldn't have to worry about her smoking at all. We would save a lot of money if she stopped. She would also feel better about herself and our family would be smoke-free.

Danny Sheehan
Parker

It would be to become a genius. I would solve all global problems like air pollution, nuclear waste, etc. I'd make an engine that would run cars, airplanes, trucks and other things without polluting the air. I'd design better planes and cars so that it would be safer. I'd increase the economy by 50 percent. I would design the first space station. After that I'd build a house and relax forever.

Merela Kabonzo
Parker

It would be to see my Dad.

Sean Fitzgerald
Atherton Hough

It would be for world peace.

Matthew Daylor
Atherton Hough

It would be that I would want to see my Dad.

Crystal Melanson
Atherton Hough

It would be for the homeless people to have homes and family.

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

It would be to let the needy have some food
Andrew McWalter
Atherton Hough

It would be that all the homeless people would have a home and all the food they need.
Kevin Livingston
Atherton Hough

It would be for my papa to feel better.
Pamela Jacobs
Atherton Hough

It would be that homeless people could spend Christmas in a warm place.
Evan Keefe
Atherton Hough

It would be that pollution is stopped forever.
Diana Berberan
Atherton Hough

It would be that everyone can spend time with their families.
Bridget Reaney
Atherton Hough

It would be for peace on Earth.
Richard Stande
Atherton Hough

It would be for lonely people to be able to see their family on Christmas.
Sarah O'Neill
Atherton Hough

It would be to have the needy have homes and food.
Michael Conley
Atherton Hough

It would be for the sick to become well.
Lauren Mullen
Atherton Hough

It would be to get 10 feet of snow so Ryan and I would not have to go to school. Ryan and I would go sledding by ourselves.
Domenic Darling
Bernazzani

It would be to go skiing in Colorado because there is powdered snow there and the mountains are big.
Michael Haines
Bernazzani

It would be for my family to meet more often and to be together for more holidays.
Ryan Hogan
Bernazzani

It would be that prejudice would stop; it's not fair if people make fun of other people's customs, culture or religion.
Stacey Smith
Merrymount

It would be to be like Cam Neely because he is very good at hockey.
Paul Flynn
Merrymount

It would be to get at least 100 Sega tapes so I would never get bored and a pair of roller blades because I lost mine.
Jessica Loud
Merrymount

It would be for my family to have a great life and live a long time.
Peter Abruzzese
Merrymount

It would be for a computer and that I could get my Sega CD fixed.
Danny Forest
Merrymount

It would be to have a puppy because I have always wanted one.
Migdalia Tracy
Merrymount

It would be to be like my brother Manny because he is nice to me.
William Costa
Merrymount

It would be that I could play Doom, a computer game; I'd be so happy.
John Carson
Merrymount

It would be for peace all over the world and that people would not judge other people by their skin color.
Robert Hennessy
Merrymount

It would be to stop the killing and violence in the world; hurting other people is wrong.
Katie Rose
Merrymount

It would be to have peace and no war and that people were not poor.
Mark Tetreault
Merrymount

It would be for all mankind to get along; there's too much violence and drugs in the world.
Aaron Echelle
Merrymount

It would be to have my cousins come up from Florida and once they come here they get snowed in and stay the rest of the winter so they can play with me.
Marianne Donovan
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be to have my great-grandfather back so I could meet him for the first time and so that he could spend Christmas with me.
Michael Tupe
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be to have one hundred million dollars so I could buy a mansion in every state and tickets to every New England Patriots game.
Adam Camerlin
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be to have my grandpa and my cat because my grandpa died and my cat is in the hospital and the doctor said he might die.
Shannon Smith
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be for my dad and Uncle John to come to life and have Christmas with me.
Kenny Kelly
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be for all the homeless people who are out on the street to be with their family on Christmas with presents and a nice Christmas dinner.
Chimtu Ononiwa
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be for people to realize what they're doing to the Earth and how they can prevent it from happening.
Matthew Tupe
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be not to have a lot of snow because then we wouldn't be able to go to school. I would not want to miss school because it is fun.
Christina DeJesus
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be to see my father for Christmas.
Amy Ricard
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be a new bike, and a lot of other things that I don't want to tell.
Dale Hayden
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be for my brother to get well. He had mastoid surgery. He is only one and a half.
Michael Boyle
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be to live with my Dad. It would also like to see my stepbrother more.
Stephen Ferguson
Lincoln-Hancock

To help whales by taking them off the endangered species list.
Michael Tsang
Lincoln-Hancock

To have Santa Claus come to my house and have a present and play with my Mom and Father.
Tuan Vo
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be to get along with my family, open my presents and have a great Christmas Day.
Corey Fitzgerald
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be to have all the friends in the world, and to help the homeless.
Brook Hopkins
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be a lot of snow because I could play in the snow.
Blake Stefaneli
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be to get accepted on the Boston Celtics because I really like basketball. I want to meet all the players, become real rich, and be the first four-foot three-inch tall girl in the NBA.
Carolyn King
Squantum

It would be to be rich so that I could live in a mansion, have a 75-inch TV set, a pool, two more dogs, a Mercedes Benz convertible, a hot tub, and lots of money.
Jeffrey Atkins
Squantum

It would be to see my godparents Robbie and Loretta, Margie and Bob. Robbie and Loretta live in Florida. Margie and Bob live far away from me, so my parents don't let me see them. I miss them alot.
Allison Downs
Squantum

I wish to become a successful criminal lawyer and a great writer. When I get rich, I'm going to help the poor and homeless.
Kayla Belmont
Squantum

I'd wish to play linebacker for the New England Patriots. As a rookie, I'd try to win a Super Bowl for the Patriots.
Keith Dykens
Squantum

It would be no more car accidents. The most dangerous is when the car or truck hits a gas station. The cars and the store would simply blow up, and some cars nearby might be in danger too.
Ha Thai Vu
Squantum

May Peace and Happiness Be Yours This Holiday Season.

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

(Cont'd from Page 13)

It would be that the hungry and poor will have a Merry Christmas.

Amy Orlando
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be for all the drive-by shootings to stop because innocent people are getting killed.

Erica Morton
Lincoln-Hancock

That we could all be together and even though we won't get a lot of presents, we'll be happy!

Aline Venturin
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be peace. It will be nice if there was no killing murder and beating.

John Nguyen
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be that my whole family is healthy for this holiday season and especially my father and grandmother because my Dad pulled the tendon in his arm and my grandmother broke her knee cap.

Kristyn Shea
Bernazzani

It would be my grandmother will come from Hong Kong to Massachusetts. I haven't seen her for four years.

Gloria Ngan
Bernazzani

It would be shelter, food and medication to give to homeless if they need it, because those people are weak and cold.

Tiffany Wan
Bernazzani

It would be to know a lot of things, then I could get better grades and still I could help other people. I would be able to help other people.

Eric Liu
Bernazzani

It would be for the Bernazzani School to get new books for the media center. It would help other children do reports, and they wouldn't have to go to the Thomas Crane Library for a good, up-to-date book.

Shauna White
Bernazzani

It would be that my mother and father stop smoking, and cigarettes would be off the market by this New Year's Eve. I hope it is a New Year's resolution.

Matthew Tierney
Bernazzani

It would be for my brother to have a safe trip with his baseball team from around the country. They're going to California, Hawaii and Australia.

Pat Bregoli
Bernazzani

It would be to do a two-foot figure skating spin because I usually can't go all the way around three times. I can only go around twice at my lessons.

Kristen Trainor
Bernazzani

It would be to have my grandparents come back to life. My father said, "They would really like to see you now." My brother and sister never got to meet them.

Caitlin Munkley
Bernazzani

It would be that all my aunts and uncles could come for Christmas.

Jerry Mui
Bernazzani

It would be a Christmas party that all of my relatives would be invited.

Michael Ryan
Bernazzani

It would be a baby sister. Because it would be fun, when my sister would be big as I am we can help my mom.

Tina Tam
Bernazzani

It would be for my grandmother to get well.

Tiffany Lapham
Bernazzani

It would be for the homeless to have a warm place to live, food and some presents.

Theresa Maloney
Bernazzani

It would be for the homeless to have a home and a job. I also wish my mother and father would stop smoking!

Erik Stenstrom
Bernazzani

It would be that my dad would not have to work Christmas Day, but at least we have Christmas Eve together.

Danny Duggan
Bernazzani

It would be that my soon-to-be cousin Haley Sharon Cahill will be a healthy, and not premature baby when she is born.

Makana Cahill
Bernazzani

It would be that the homeless get homes to live in and that we get cars that cause less pollution.

Stephanie Whalen
Wollaston

It would be that people who don't have many things get the things they need for the holidays.

Meaghan MacJaggert
Wollaston

It would be that there will be enough food, clothing and shelter open for homeless people.

Andrew Smith
Wollaston

It would be that there is no more murder, fires, and things like that.

Koya Frye
Wollaston

It would be for people without families to find someone to spend Christmas with.

Charlie Vidoli
Wollaston

It would be that everybody in the hospital can be home for the holidays.

Joseph Kindregan
Wollaston

It would be for a computer.

Kerianne Green
Wollaston

It would be for my wish to appear in The Quincy Sun newspaper so I can show my brother that not only he can be in the newspaper. He always brags about it and says, "I was in the newspaper, not you." I hated it when he said that. If my wish is granted, I will be the one laughing. So someone please grant my wish this holiday season.

Victor Siu
Parker

It would be to have my male dog come back to life. His name was Rip Van Winkle and he was loved by everyone in my family.

Marianne Chimi
Atherton Hough

It would be that all the people living in shelters would have a happy Christmas. I hope that the kids get at least three or four presents.

Kristin Grady
Atherton Hough

It would be for three wishes: one to have no school for the winter; two to stay at Waterville Valley for the winter; and three for it to snow everyday of the winter.

Christopher Smeiglin
Atherton Hough

It would be to have all the homeless, poor, and needy families have a little feast. If we just give change to the Salvation Army and Fr. Bill's Place, it will make a difference.

Billy McKeon
Atherton Hough

It would be that my room would clean itself and stay cleaned.

Lucy Ross
Atherton Hough

It would be for my parents to make a lot of money in their new deli that they just opened and for my Uncle David to get out of the nursing home.

Danny Galligan
Atherton Hough

It would be to get everything on my list for Christmas and a peaceful dinner with my family.

Sara Little
Atherton Hough

It would be to have the most money possible to buy a castle, the Alps, 1/100 of Australia, a few acres of vineyard in Spain, Nasa, and of course a few hundred airports; I'd also give a lot to the poor and homeless.

Patrick Renzi
Atherton Hough

It would be that my brother could get in Pace. Pace is a college that he wants to go to and I hope he can get into it. He is smart, nice and I think he deserves it. I wish I could give that for Christmas, but I can't so I'm just going to hope that Pace likes him and that he can get in. If he got into Pace, it would make him, his girlfriend, my Mom and Dad and me very happy.

Linda Sinclair
Parker

It would be to have a dog. My father, my brother and I have been waiting for one for so long, but my mom says "no." If we did get a dog it would have to be a small one. My mom says we have to wait till my aunt's dog has puppies. I want a puppy because they are cute and cuddly and they keep you safe at night. Dogs are also fun to play with when your friends dump you or don't want to play with you. Your dog is always there for you.

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

It would be for peace and that all gun stores would be closed and all guns should be buried.

Billy Estwick
Merrymount

It would be to get a CD player because I like to listen to CD's.

Sara Gordon
Merrymount

It would be for a BB gun; I would go hunting with my dad in Maine and we'd have fun.

Sean Curran
Merrymount

It would be a home for every one and stay like that, and that firefighters, nurses, doctors, policemen to have some time off for Christmas.

Diana Brennan
Merrymount

It would be to find the cure for the AIDS virus.

Doni Brooks
Merrymount

It would be to stop the killing and drug abuse.

Shawn Richardson
Merrymount

It would be that homeless people find nice and warm shelters.

Elizabeth Lo
Merrymount

It would be to have all of my friends over and we would make two snow forts far, far apart and have a big snowball fight; I'm very close to some of my friends.

Timothy Curran
Merrymount

It would be a snow blizzard that did not end until June and the snow was way higher than me but people could drive.

Lindsay Lesser
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be to have the poor people in shelters so that they will have homes. They can get food for free and pay back later when they get back on their feet.

Katrina Nurmennieni
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be that Boston College wins the Aloha Bowl. They are my favorite sports team. They always play hard and when they win, they never show off.

Alex Gray
Squantum

It would be a dog because they're soft, cuddly and active. I would like a Saint Bernard and I would take it for walks.

Jessica Connolly
Squantum

If I could I would want a mom who makes me feel good about myself at all times. I have no mom in my house to love me. I know it will not come true, but I still think of her sometime.

Nikki Houlihan
Squantum

It would be a special kind of medicine that can get rid of AIDS, cancer, and other things because they are deadly.

Richard Chan
Squantum

It would be to help the homeless. I feel that all people should be treated all the same. The government should supply homes for the homeless.

Corinne Curran
Squantum

It would be for 10 billion dollars because I would like to be rich, and my family and I would have whatever we want.

Paul Adams
Squantum

It would be to make medicine for all diseases.

Jennifer Hanlon
Squantum

I wish there's a D.A.R.E. program in every school to keep kids off drugs, and not to be friends with kids that do drugs. The officer can teach the kids what drugs can do to you. When you do drugs or drink alcohol you can get sick and drunk. If no one does drugs, no one can get sick or drunk.

Qi Tian Li
Parker

It would be for a white Christmas because I love playing in snow.

Timothy Renzi
Atherton Hough

It would be to get a Ricochet which is a remote control car.

Billy Reid
Atherton Hough

It would be for other families to have a nice Christmas and their wishes come true.

David Grogan
Atherton Hough

It would be to help the homeless and give all the things they need.

Brian Chenette
Atherton Hough

It would be to help the homeless by giving them money to buy new clothes, food, to rent a hotel room and get a job.

Sue Kiny
Atherton Hough

It would be that there was a cure for every disease even the common cold. It would be a world where nobody could die from being sick ever again.

James Hawco
Squantum

It would be to have my Uncle Dom get better. My Uncle Dom is special to me because he loves me, he cares for me, and he cares for me if I am sick.

Stephanie Imbomone
Bernazzani

It would be a brand new GT Dyno Air Bike because I've never had one, but I have ridden one before.

Jonathan Kou
Squantum

It would be to have my cousins not to move to another part of Quincy.

Pauline Mah
Bernazzani

It would be that this world could be a better place, and that everybody could be friendlier, because there is a lot of harm in the world and nobody cares.

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

(Cont'd from Page 15)

It would be that on February vacation there would not be a lot of snow so I can go to Chicago to visit my aunt and uncle. I've never been to their house, and I haven't seen my uncle in a while.

Dana Hamilton
Squantum

It would be that in the future there will be a machine that cures serious diseases like AIDS, cancer, heart disease, mental illness, lung cancer, malaria, and breast cancer because it's really sad.

Joseph Burke
Squantum

It would be for all the Goosebump books R.L. Stine has published because I enjoy reading his books. I just started collecting them, and I can't stop reading.

Andrew Johnston
Squantum

It would be to spend a day with one of my favorite players, Larry Bird. Even though he's retired, he still is one of my favorites.

Kathryn MacRitchie
Squantum

My wish would be the baseball players and hockey players would start playing.

Dennis Mackey
Squantum

It would be to have a four-wheel motorcycle. It would be fun to ride and I could use it deliver newspapers and clear the snow.

Michael Hayhurst
Squantum

It would be that I could be smarter.

Judy Lee
Wollaston

It would be to have a ticket to the Super Bowl.

Jonathan Buckley
Wollaston

It would be to go to California and spend Christmas with my grandparents.

Janine Erickson
Wollaston

It would be to have my own room.

Samantha Chaisson
Wollaston

It would be to let all of the homeless people join a family and have a Merry Christmas.

Lauren Magaldi
Wollaston

It would be to be on the Dallas Cowboys; I would win the Super Bowl.

Stephen Yee
Wollaston

It would be to have the whole Space Lego System.

Taylor Wheaton
Wollaston

It would be a street hockey chest protector and blocker, goalie glove and hard goalie pads.

Corey Piazza
Wollaston

It would be for all the cruelty to animals to stop.

Pauline Shaffer
Wollaston

It would be a B.B. gun.

David Rochon
Wollaston

It would be to win the state ice hockey championship.

Joseph Fitzpatrick
Wollaston

It would be for me to win a million dollars.

Keith Delambr
Wollaston

It would be to have my own goalie ice hockey equipment and to be the best goalie in the world.

Thomas Shruhan
Wollaston

It would be to have the whole Lego set and a happy and joyful family for the future.

Albert Chow
Wollaston

It would be that my father would stop smoking. It would be better for his lungs.

Amy Hsu
Bernazzani

It would be to go skiing in Denver with my uncle.

Patrick Duff
Bernazzani

It would be to have my Dad come home for Christmas from Saudi Arabia.

Phillip Abou-Zaki
Bernazzani

It would be world peace and homeless people to have a home and food.

Colman McCormack
Bernazzani

It would be that all my brothers and sisters come to my house for Christmas.

Daniel DiNardo
Bernazzani

It would be to have a brand new Army hummer or humvee, because my Dad always wanted one.

Justin Lally
Bernazzani

It would be that every person will be full of love and joy.

Stephanie Raymond
Merrymount

It would be for peace on Earth, and a cure for AIDS.

Julia Wilkinson
Merrymount

It would be to help the homeless and give them food.

Noel Vickery
Merrymount

It would be to go back to China because my aunts, uncles and other relatives are there.

Annie Li
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be to be with my dad's mother, my grandmother.

Glen Liberatore
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be for no more world hunger.

Billy Lee
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be to make my cousin very smart because she is a little mentally retarded. I want her to get smart because people might make fun of her. When she grows up people might get her into drugs, I feel really sad for her because she was born that way.

Jeffrey Louie
Parker

It would be to go to Greece this summer. I haven't seen my grandparents for five years. It would be nice to see all my relatives. The most important reason I want to go to Greece is because my grandfather is very sick and I want to help him get better.

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

It would be for all the homeless people to have a nice warm place to sleep every night, and that they have a warm dinner.

Danielle Picarski
Atherton Hough

It would be to help the homeless; every time I see a homeless person begging for money or trying to wash your window I have to turn away because it hurts me.

Christina Murphy
Atherton Hough

It would be to go to Florida so I would not have to be cold in the winter.

Glenn Picot
Atherton Hough

It would be to clean up the environment because the environment is very dirty; you should at least recycle.

Jill Halvorson
Atherton Hough

It would be to give money to the homeless and to the elders so they could have Christmas for themselves.

Wesley Franklin
Atherton Hough

It would be to bring together my whole family, being happy and having fun.

Lisa Lam
Atherton Hough

It would be to make world peace; we must stop the killing because people are getting killed everyday.

Jonathan Terlaji
Atherton Hough

It would be to have my Mom not to be sad because of my cousin's death. She was really special because she was the only niece my mom had. She was the only girl in the family. She was even my closest cousin I had. Her name was Jennifer Jones. The cause of her death was asthma. Everyone is sad still to this day. Jen was 17 years old when she died.

Mark Tucker
Parker

It would be that my family are the smartest people who ever lived on the Earth. But I am the smartest out of my family and the brightest. The people whom I like, like my teachers, friends and relatives are smart too, just like my family. I wish for that because I don't want the people to look down on me.

Emily Mui
Parker

It would be for peace on Earth.

Jennifer Dymonds
Merrymount

It would be to have a computer.

Kerri Caldwell
Wollaston

It would be for the New England Patriots to win the Super Bowl, and have Drew Bledsoe be the MVP for the season and Super Bowl.

Charlie Sorrento
Wollaston

It would be for a white Christmas.

Gedgia Quinn
Wollaston

It would be for my grandmother to be okay when she comes out of her operation.

Laura Harrigan
Wollaston

It would be to get rid of my allergies because I have allergies to every animal with fur.

Erin Downey
Wollaston

It would be to have my grandmother live a good life for the rest of her life.

Brian Lee
Wollaston

It would be no more guns, weapons or wars; just peace.

Kara Nichols
Wollaston

It would be for a million dollars so that I can buy Super Bowl tickets for all my friends.

Matthew Lochetti
Wollaston

I wish everyone in the world would have a home with everyone in their family. I would like everyone to gather people to share the winter holidays.

Meghan McLean
Squantum

It would be that everyone on the Earth had a warm home with food in it so no one would die from the cold or no one would die from lack of food.

Mike Maguire
Squantum

I wish there was a cure for all diseases, especially for AIDS and cancer.

Vidya Mahadeo
Squantum

It would be to have all the little crippled and disabled children to be able to run and play in the snow and get the fun life they deserve.

Caitlin Doughty
Bernazzani

It would be that everyone has a safe holiday season. That there would be fewer accidents at home and on the road.

Daniel Spillane
Bernazzani

I wish for all the homeless families to get permanent shelter and their children get presents.

Mike Mornino
Bernazzani

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

(Cont'd from Page 17)

It would be to visit the poor. I would give food and clothes to them. I would try to make their lives happy. I would try my best to get them warm home to live in. I would be their friends and I would help with their needs.

Michael Doherty
Parker

It would be to see my grandfather for at least one day. I don't know much about him, but my mother tells me stories about how kind he was. About 24 years ago he died. He knew he was going to die and all he wanted was to see my Uncle Jim turn 16. At Christmas, he used to buy everybody the gifts they wanted no matter how much they cost. I really wish I could have met him. I really wish he didn't die.

Shaun Flaherty
Parker

It would be that the whole world would live in peace.

John Hussey
Wollaston

It would be to have a very white Christmas because I have really never had a very snowy Christmas.

Joey Panzer
Wollaston

It would be for my Dad and my Aunt Mary to stop smoking.

Christina Dolan
Wollaston

It would be that everyone had a great Christmas and people at places like the DOVE center were happy and got many donations.

Erica Johnson
Wollaston

It would be to spend Christmas with my whole family.

Angelina Moscatto
Wollaston

It would be for all the people to get enough money to afford apartments, food, and clothes. It makes me sad to hear about, or see, a poor person on the streets.

Rachel Silverman
Squantum

It would be for everyone to stop abusing animals. I feel that animals should be treated like any human being, especially animals at pet stores and pounds.

Lisa Limoncelli
Squantum

It would be money to help feed and shelter the homeless and people in need. If I start helping, now maybe everyone else will, too!

Crystal Smith
Squantum

It would be for people to stop fighting around the world. War is an example of not caring for anyone around the world and not caring if anyone dies.

Jillian Mullen
Squantum

It would be to be an excellent figure skater because I love to watch them on T.V. I'm also good at skating.

Meghan Driscoll
Squantum

It would be that my mom and step dad would come and have Christmas with me. I would want my sisters to come too.

Scott Storm
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be for Addy clothes. I got an Addy doll for Christmas last year and I never got any clothes.

Nicole Morrissey
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be for my family to be together and open presents together.

Kimberly Zanoni
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be to have Santa Claus come and have a Christmas tree.

Nhi Tran Duc
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be for my sister to grow up strong and healthy because I don't want an unhealthy sister.

Nancy An
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be for my Dad to stop smoking, now that I'm older I'm more attached to him. I would be heart broken forever if he died.

Courtney Ryan
Atherton Hough

It would be to get a wish anytime I wanted, and it would come true, because my mother is sick and I'd wish for her to get better.

Rebecca Strauchon
Atherton Hough

It would be a vacation to Hong Kong because there is a very fun park that you could go to, and there are stores with lots of games and school things that you would like.

Diana Lei
Squantum

It would be for people to care for the Earth. They shouldn't litter. People should ride a bike instead of a car. Please don't cut down so many trees. If people recycle paper, companies can make new paper you can use. People plant flowers to make the world pretty. You can help save the Earth by picking up trash on the floor. If you litter you're hurting the Earth.

Lily Tam
Parker

It would be for all the thieves, kidnappers and murderers to be stopped. I don't like to be afraid to get something out of the car in the middle of the night. I don't think anyone else does either. Those poor people that go to night school have to carry around mace. The mothers of the children that get taken right out of their own backyards. The people who commit these crimes should go to jail.

Kelly Rice
Parker

It would be to stop the violence because too many people are dead or wounded by guns; guns and weapons are dangerous.

Stephen Mandeville
Atherton Hough

It would be to help the homeless and provide food and clothing for them; they don't have anything except what's in their shopping cars.

Shawn Morin
Atherton Hough

It would be that every needy child get at least one toy from Santa. You could give a toy too to Toys for Tots. Cheer up those little kids and donate a toy.

Erik Borgendale
Squantum

It would be to have lots of Christmas presents, especially video games.

Robert Lam
Bernazzani

It would be that my aunt, uncle, and my two cousins fly here from Florida. I usually only see them once a year.

Christopher Kerr
Bernazzani

It would be six feet of snow. I could go sledding and skiing in the back of the school.

Ryan Lynch
Bernazzani

It would be no starvation in the world.

Daniel Wooster
Wollaston

It would be for all the homeless people to have a safe and Merry Christmas.

It would be lots of snow. I wish we got eight feet of snow everywhere in Massachusetts. If we got eight feet of snow it would be a real pain to shovel, but you wouldn't need to shovel it because you couldn't go to work anyway! I would make my whole yard into a snow fort. It would have lots of tunnels and secret doors leading in and out.
Patrick Ryder

Robert McCafferty Returns From Amphibious Deployment

Navy Airmen Robert G. from a six-month McCafferty, a 1992 deployment to the graduate of Quincy High Mediterranean Sea and School, recently returned Indian Ocean with the amphibious assault ship USS Guam, the lead ship of the USS Guam Amphibious Ready Group (ARG.)

McCafferty was one of 4,000 Marines and Sailors who completed the 30,000 mile voyage which included duty off Bosnia-Herzegovina in the Adriatic sea, and being on stand-by off the eastern tip of Africa. After traveling from the Mediterranean Sea through the Suez Canal and Red Sea into the Indian Ocean, McCafferty spent more than a month off the coast of Somalia, where the Navy-marine Corps team stood ready to protect and relocate American citizens if necessary.

The Virginia-based USS Guam traveled with USS

Tortuga, USS Austin, USS Harlan County and the 26th Marine Expeditionary Unit.

McCafferty began the deployment by participating in the 50th anniversary of D-Day with visits to England and France. During the D-Day commemoration, USS Guam helped support the visit of President Clinton and numerous other government and military officials as well as thousands of World War II veterans.

Spending 120 days at sea during the six-month deployment and participating in both real world operations and amphibious landing exercises with other nations, McCafferty also visited Greece, Israel, Italy, Kenya, Spain and Turkey.

He joined the Navy in July, 1992.

Crime Watch

By ROBERT HANNA
Crime Prevention Officer
Quincy Police Department

Hidden Crime Of Domestic Violence

Don't Ignore The Problem:

•Talk to someone. Part of the abuser's power comes from secrecy. Victims are often ashamed to let anyone know about intimate family problems. Go to a friend or neighbor, or call a domestic violence hotline to talk to a counselor.

•Plan ahead and know what you will do if you are attacked again. If you decide to leave, choose a place to go; set aside some money. Put important papers together--marriage license, birth certificates, check books--in a place where you can get them quickly.

•Learn to think independently. Try to plan for the future and set goals for yourself.

Have You Hurt Someone In Your Family?

•Accept the fact that your violent behavior will destroy your family. Be aware that you break the law when you physically hurt someone.

•Take responsibilities for your actions and get help.

•When you feel tension building, get away. Work off the angry energy through a walk, a project, a sport.

•Call a domestic violence hotline or health center and ask about counseling and support groups for people who batter.

The High Cost Of Domestic Violence

•Men and women who follow their parent's example and use violence to solve conflicts are teaching the same destructive behavior to their children.

•Jobs can be lost or careers stalled because of injuries, arrests, or harassments.

•Lives are lost when violence results in death.

Take A Stand!

•Reach out to someone you believe is a victim of family violence, or to someone you think is abusive. Don't give up easily--change takes time. Ending the family's isolation is a critical first step.

•Urge organizations and businesses to raise community awareness by hosting speakers on domestic violence, launching public education campaigns, and raising funds for shelters and hotlines.

•Ask the local newspaper, radio station, or television station to examine the problem and publicize resources in the community through special features and forums.

Don't be a victim of domestic violence, call one of the numbers for more information. You need not identify yourself.

At Presidents Place

Guess How Many Snowballs, Win $1,000 Or Trip To Bermuda

The Presidents Place Merchants Association is hosting a holiday contest at Presidents Place, 1250 Hancock St., Quincy Center through Jan. 5.

The contest will allow shoppers from Quincy and the South Shore the chance to win $1,000 in cash or a trip for two to Bermuda.

A 25-square-foot clear plastic star in a 250-foot tube circulating Styrofoam snowballs within it is on display through Jan. 5. Entry forms are available at all merchant locations. The shopper who guesses closest to the exact number of snowballs circulating in the star will have a choice of the two main prizes, as well as other prizes from the merchants.

"The star is an attraction in itself," said Andy Ravech, property manager for Presidents Place. "But the contest is meant to add fun and excitement to holiday shopping which can, for many, be a tiresome experience."

The snowball drawing will be held Friday, Jan. 6 and prize winners will be notified by telephone.

The Presidents Place Merchant Association includes: ATS Mobile Electronics, Buck-A-Book, Cafe Lazzarino's, G.J. Codington's Restaurant, Dunkin' Donuts, Harvard Community Health Optical Shop, Presidential Dry Cleaners, Presidents Place Dental, Tedeschi Food

JOHN SIMBOLI of Quincy, a victim of throat cancer, uses a special device to speak to seventh graders during Smoke Free Challenge 2000 Program at North Quincy High School. Simboli blames many years of smoking as the cause of the disease and the loss of his voice box.

JOE CAMEL, longtime tobacco industry character, gets a lesson on the dangers of smoking during a dance number presented by Sterling Middle School students during the Smoke Free Challenge 2000 Program at North Quincy High School sponsored by Impact Quincy and the Quincy Health Department.

700 Seventh Graders Participate In Smoke Free Challenge 2000

By RHETT HOLDEN-DODGE

About 700 Quincy seventh graders recently took part in The Smoke Free Challenge 2000, a two-hour education event sponsored by Impact Quincy's Tobacco Task Force.

The event was part of the Great American Smokeout, a national effort to reduce tobacco use conducted each November.

The students comprise the Smoke Free Class 2000, and have been part of a national goal of eliminating tobacco use by youth by the year 2000.

The two-day event was a fast-paced, interactive, educational program which included student performances, speakers from government, health agencies and advocacy groups and featured the band Eye to Eye.

City Council President

Michael Cheney started the program with a plea to the students not to fall prey to the tobacco industry. Cheney recalled that his toughest obstacle in adult life was trying to quit smoking and told the students that not starting to smoke is the most effective, positive step they could take toward good health.

Massachusetts Department of Public Health David Mulligan spoke of the effort to reduce the incidence of smoking in the Commonwealth and gave a positive overview of the advertising and education campaign designed to encourage youth to remain smoke free.

Each of the four Quincy middle schools presented short plays about tobacco ads and promoted alternatives to smoking. Sterling Middle School performed both days and was a memorable highlight of the event.

A slide presentation illustrating the tactics used by the tobacco industry to attract youth was presented by Heidi Holland of Massachusetts Prevention Center #9.

Joe Molchan, a Quincy resident and member of the Tobacco Task Force, hosted a talk show for the students that focused on tobacco education and prevention. The fast-paced segment featured student participation and prizes for students who could correctly answer questions about the dangers of tobacco use.

A North Quincy High

School senior also spoke of her tobacco addiction. Jill Poulvere explained how she began smoking, the impact that smoking has had in her life and the difficulty of quitting despite the availability of a stop smoking program offered at the school by the Manet Community Health Center. She echoed Cheney's advice: "Don't ever start smoking."

The program was done in a television show format and used the Massachusetts Tobacco Control Program advertising campaign as the commercial breaks between segments of the show. Two sets of Boston

Celtic tickets were awarded each day.

Impact Quincy, with a donation from the Quincy Board of Health, also provided Smoke Free Class 2000 shirts to every student and teacher in attendance, as well as the other program participants.

The project was the result of collaborative effort by Impact Quincy, the Board of Health and Manet Community Health Center with assistance from the principals of the four middle schools: Rick Hutchinson, Lou DiMartinez, Laura Bogan and James McGuire.

Quincy AARP Chapter Holds Christmas Party

The Quincy City of Presidents Chapter #4097 of AARP held its annual Christmas Party recently at the Neighborhood Club in Quincy.

President Eleanor Reidy presided. Invited guests included Mayor James Sheets, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Comer, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Buckley.

Reidy presented a check from AARP to Barbara Johnson of the Protestant Social Services Bureau for its Pantry Shop for its Food Pantry. Treasurer Carl Johnson presented a check to Audrey Wilcox of DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended).

The president spoke of AARP's motto, "To Serve and Not To Be Served," and introduced Kay Bamford who received a check from AARP last month. Each year, Bamford, a member of AARP, organizes a group of senior organizations in Quincy to collaborate in giving a party for residents of local nursing homes at the Bryan Post in Quincy. Members of the Quincy chapter assisted her in entertaining and feeding the guests at the party last year.

The chapter has members led by Eleanor Serafini, membership chairman, who ring bells for The Salvation Army each Christmas season at the South Shore Plaza. It has also adopted an island at the corner of Furnace Brook Parkway and Adams Street which was painted and is taken care of by Arloa Webber, former president; Joan and John O'Neill and Carl Johnson.

Reidy said the main focus of the chapter has been its Scholarship Fund co-chaired by Tom and Trudy Buckley. Each year a student at Quincy College enrolled in the registered nurse's program is given a $500 scholarship. The needy student is chosen by Quincy College.

Reidy invited all non-members in attendance interested in joining the chapter to see Eleanor Serafini after the luncheon. She also congratulated Co-Chairpersons Francis Adams and Eleanor Burrell on a successful party.

Entertainment was provided by The Pro Dixie Jazz Band, a group of retired and semi-retired professional men who live in the area.

Weymouth Sharpshooters Too Much For Quincy

By DAVE SOUTHWICK

When you have a young team, you are bound to have some rough nights. One of those nights occurred Friday as the Quincy High boys' basketball team dropped an 83-48 decision to Weymouth High School.

"They shot almost 60 percent from the floor," said Quincy head coach John Franceschini. "Our sophomores made a lot of mistakes, mistakes that are expected from first-year players at this level. They will get better as the season goes along."

Leading scorers for the Presidents (0-2) were senior Tom Clark with 14 points, senior Dave Sawan with eight, sophomore Bob Walsh with seven, and sophomore Geoff King and junior Dave Gunther with four each. Also seeing action were Chris DeLisle, Jed Donnelly, Jason Downey, Chris McPartlin, Jeff Russell and Todd Sullivan.

Quincy found the going rough early on as the Wildcats jumped to a big lead. Poor ball handling and turnovers allowed Weymouth to keep the lead throughout the game. Weymouth (1-1) was led by Matt Morse (18 points) and Ken Ronig (17 points).

The Presidents came to life with five minutes to go in the first half. A three-point basket by Clark and three consecutive layups off offensive rebounds by Sawan brought Quincy to within 42-26 at the half.

"I was hoping to get our team to within 10 points at that point," said Franceschini. "But they made more easy baskets in the second half."

Weymouth used those baskets to stretch the lead to 33 points with six minutes left. Quincy made a valiant effort near the end of the game, with Clark, Sawan and Sullivan leading the way, but the Wildcats matched Quincy basket-for-basket.

The Presidents were scheduled to play at Bridgewater-Raynham Tuesday, Dec. 20. They take part in a tournament at Nauset during Christmas break.

THE NORTH QUINCY basketball team is off to a 1-1 start in the young season. They beat Plymouth South impressively and were edged by Falmouth. Front, from left, tri-captains William Ngutter, Brad Gray and Jerry Fernandez and manager Joe Ruscio. Back row, Mike Doyle, J.R. Rendle, Toby Odom, Matt Beston, Tom Coughlin, Dave Scott, Eric Zimmerman, Jesse Casler, Brendan Welch and Steve MacDougall.

Hockey

Hard-Hitting Raiders Punish Taunton, 4-2

By KERRY BYRNE

Aggressive checking and three third-period goals lifted the North Quincy High School hockey team to a 4-2 win over Taunton Saturday at the Quincy Youth Arena.

The win marked a strong return to the ice for the Red Raiders (1-1) following their 8-3 opening-day loss to Milton. North was peppered by 47 shots in that contest.

"I'm happy with the improvements from Wednesday through Saturday," said North head coach Tom Benson. "We didn't have a good game against Milton but Taunton put hardly any pressure on us."

The Raiders and Tigers

(0-2) were tied 1-1 after two periods, and 2-2 midway through the third, before goals by senior A.J. Carthas and sophomore Eric Wood just 12 seconds apart put the game out of reach. Red Raider Brendan O'Brien also scored in the third period.

North controlled the flow of play throughout the game, hammering the Tigers along the boards and in the open ice. Carthas, who recorded a goal and an assist, also chalked up a number of bone-rattling hits.

Wood, Ralph DiMattia and Dan Stone also made their presences felt. The game's most intense hit was dished out by DiMattia who crushed Taunton's senior captain, Kurt Lovell, as he tried to cross the North Quincy blue line. Lovell had to be helped off the ice.

"We have to play physical hockey because we don't have the talent we've had in past years. We have to be tough, especially on defense," said Benson.

The aggressive action led to 12 penalties between the two clubs. Taunton's Ryan Freedman committed the game's worst infraction - one that proved a decisive moment in the game. After O'Brien and Carthas raced down ice on a scoring bid that

Wrestling

Quincy Off To An Impressive Start

Coach Lou Venturelli expected his Quincy High School wrestling team to be strong this season, but did not count on them to look so impressive in the early going.

The Quincy mat men opened the season Wednesday with a 51-18 victory over Marshfield and followed that with a first-place finish in the nine-team Wayland Holiday Tournament Saturday.

"I knew we had talent going in, but to beat the likes of Wayland, Billerica and Chelmsford is quite impressive," said Venturelli of Saturday's performance. "It was a great team effort and every kid contributed."

The Presidents placed all 13 wrestlers in the top four of their weight class. Heavyweight Mike Feeley and 189-pounder Matt Strauchon grabbed first place finishes.

John Richards, Matt Miller and John Cheverie placed second. In third place were Billy Mitchell, Bryan Gallahue and Rich Bergeron. John Leonard, Rich Testa, Mark Froehlich, Brian Woodberry and Greg Santoro placed fourth.

The Marshfield meet featured pins by Richards, Testa, Mitchell, Miller, Gallahue and Santoro. Decisions were won by Leonard, Froehlich, Feeley and Sev Tan.

Quincy was scheduled to battle Durfee last night (Wednesday). The meet could prove to be their toughest of the season.

The Presidents wrestle Waltham and BC High Friday night in Framingham.

was stopped by goalie B.J. Bailey. Freedman took a run at Carthas who stood still behind the net after the whistle had been blown to stop play. Freedman was sent of the ice for roughing and 32 second later O'Brien fed the puck to Carthas who fired a low, hard slapper that was to be the winning goal.

The Red Raiders played well early but were unable to penetrate Bailey until Josh Wingate tipped in a Rick Perona rocket at 1:39 of the second period. The outstanding sophomore goalie's quick glove hand robbed NQ of several goal-scoring opportunities.

"He did not play that well against Quincy the other day so I figured he'd have a strong game against us," said Benson.

Red Raider netminder Mike Manganaro was also sharp when he had to be. Having not faced a shot for the first eight minutes of the second period, he stonewalled back-to-back bullets from point-blank range to keep the score knotted at 1-1.

Taunton's Chad Soderberg scored the game's first goal at 6:26 of the first period.

Bennett, Keeley, Daley, Burke, Jonathan Brillo and Larry Antonellis were named to the Quincy Youth Football League all-star team.

Junior varsity award winners were Mark Robertson, Steve Avalon, Josh

Nye and Joe Thorley.

The Panthers' varsity cheerleaders were also honored for their first-place finish in the QYFL cheering competition. The group includes captains Bonnie Ford and Jana Bagen, Valerie Doherty, Kristin Brogna, Jamie McCarthy, Kristen Perry, Elizabeth Dunlea, Sara McGuinn, Tiffany McAdam, Lisa Califano, Maeve Glynn and JoAnna Ford.

Individual award winners were Bonnie Ford (Most Spirited), McCarthy (Most Dedicated) and Brogna (Most Improved).

Bonnie Ford, McCarthy, Bagen and Doherty were named to the all-star cheerleading squad.

Mite A's Knock Off Pembroke

The Quincy Mite A team scored four goals in the second period to overcome a 2-1 deficit and post a 5-3 win against Pembroke.

Pat Maxey sparked the second-period surge with an unassisted tally. Kevin Richardson, Josh Giordani and Brendan Craig also lit the lamp. Tim Duggan assisted the Richardson goal and Matt Grazioso aided the final two.

Richardson scored Quincy's lone first-period goal off a pass from Duggan.

The Quincy boys held Pembroke scoreless in the final period with solid defensive play by Pat Casper and superb goaltending by Andy (Stonewall) Patten.

The entire team played well and showed tremendous hustle as they prepare for the Santa Claus Tournament in Hingham.

O'Hanley, Squirt A's Top South Boston

The Quincy Squirt A club overcame an early 3-1 deficit to post a 6-5 win over South Boston in a battle for first place.

The Quincy team improved to 9-1-1. South Boston fell to 8-2.

The Flying Irishman, Brian O'Hanley, led the Quincy attack with three goals. Jim Cashins, Joe Fitzpatrick and Andy Ross also lit the lamp.

Dave Germain showed great skill in the offensive zone as he dished out a game-high three assists. Slashin' Cashins notched two and Ryan Donahue picked up one.

Netminder Shaun Flaherty came up big late in the game. He was fronted well by blueliners Brian Stock, Dan Sheehan, Jill McInnis and Matthew Conso.

Killer Bees Buzz South Boston

The Quincy Youth Hockey Killer Bees battled a tough South Boston squad.

Goalie Nick Manning stung the Southie forwards no less than 40 times.

Killer Bee Jacob O'Donnell buzzed the South Boston net with the first goal of the game on a nice looking shot in the second period.

The Shamrock Line, Liam Powers, Myles Clancy and Brendan Linnane, fought hard in the South Boston zone but were turned back by the goaltender and his best friend, the goal post. Forwards Jonathon O'Connor, Danny Sullivan, Brianna Nolan, Billy Jones and Mark Lewis also pressed hard.

Killer Bee defenders Taylor Reinhardt, George Snowling and Pat Maloney stung the Southie forwards. Also patrolling the blue line well were Matt Haskins, Eugene Nazzaro and Chris Sheehan.

The Bees will lace 'em up in the Coca Cola Tournament Monday, Dec. 26 at 9:10 a.m. at the Quincy Youth Arena.

MDC Holding Ice Skating Classes

The Metropolitan District Commission (MDC) is holding ice skating classes at 16 MDC rinks throughout the Greater Boston area including

Slashin' Cashins' Four Goals Power Doran & Horrigan

Doran & Horrigan's Jimmy (Slashin') Cashins wound his way through the Quincy Sun defense for four goals during a 6-1 win in Squirt House League action.

Mike Donelin and Ryan Tobin aided the winning effort with one goal apiece. Chris Anderson was the top playmaker with three assists. Single assists were made by C.J. Stivala, John Ryan and Shawn Richardson.

Matthew Conso netted the Quincy Sun goal off a feed from David Germain.

Jeff Atkins buried four as he sparked Granite Auto Electric to a 5-1 victory over Granite Auto Electric.

Brian Stock netted the other Granite goal. Ryan Rogers (3), Mike Conley (2), Dan Coughlin and Jim Devlin handed out assists.

Lindsey Langille cashed in for Green Environmental. Mike Cox assisted.

Johnson Motor Parts and Burgin Platter battled to a 5-5 draw.

Colin Potter and Brian O'Hanley knocked home two goals each for Johnson. Scott Markarian notched the other tally. Assists were made by O'Hanley, Markarian, Jimmy Kuhn and Shaun Flaherty.

Peter Turowski and John Chevalier paced the Burgin effort with two goals each. Billy McKeon scored one and handed out two assists. Frank Guest and Glenn Liberatore also made assists.

Squirt House League standings: Doran, 8-1-1; Quincy Sun, 7-3; Johnson, 5-2-3; Burgin, 2-6-2; Granite Auto, 2-6-2; Green, 1-7-2.

Mite House

Linnane's Four Goals The Difference For Lydon Russell

Brendan Linnane's four goals proved the difference for Lydon Russell, as they edged Purdy's Ice Cream, 7-6, in the Quincy Mite House League.

Pat Maxey, Mike Nord and Dan Durocher also lit the lamp for the winning club. Brendan Oliverio was the top playmaker with three assists. Nord and Matt O'Leary recorded two assists each. Single assists were dished out by Justin Thorley, Joey Norris, Matt Tobin, Kristen DiMatteo and Durocher.

Matt Grazioso was strong in defeat with four goals. Rob Richards and Pat Kelley also netted goals. Nick Leger and Tim Duggan handed out two assists each while single assists were made by Joe Sweeney, John O'Connor and Kelley.

Brian Lynch's four goals and Ryan Feldhoff's six points (one goal, five assists) powered Paul Harold Club to a 12-3 win over Samoset Pharmacy.

Richard (Rolling) Stone and Mike Lohnes each notched two goals for Harold Club. Single tallies were picked up by Steve McGrath, Mike Tetreault and Andy Pangraze. Dishing out assists were Keith Flaherty (2), Tetreault (2), Lynch, Phil Bjorkman, Jim Burke, Andy McDonough and Tony Benigni.

Steve Kelley scored all three Samoset goals. Matt Lavery assisted on each goal and Matt Haskins had a hand in two.

Dan Reggiani's two goals were the difference for M. Sugarman Co. as they edged Granite Rail Pizza, 5-3.

Jarrold Abbot, Chris Sheehan and Billy Barter also scored for the winning club. Reggiani added two assists to his tally sheet. Joey McManus, Brendan Conley and Barter dished out single assists.

Josh Giordani (two goals) and Kevin Richardson (one goal, one assist) paced Granite Rail. Gene Nazzaro chalked up two assists.

Mark DeCoste and Ben Metcalfe lit the lamp two times each as Doherty & White sided up Barry's Deli, 8-3.

Rick Cullen, Jake O'Donnell, Tim Watson and Taylor Reinhardt also registered goals for the winning squad. Assists were made by Bill Jones (3), Reinhardt (2), Brianna Nolan, Nick Manning, Brendan Craig, Metcalfe and Cullen.

Justin Swierk, Kyle Carmody and James Dunn tallied for Barry's Deli. Andrew Donovan and Frank Sorrento assisted.

Pee Wee House

Markarian Chalks Up Eight Points In 15-3 Win

Paul Markarian lit the lamp five times and handed out three assists as Marina Bay Taxi cruised to a 15-3 win over Mike Morrissey Club in Pee Wee House League play.

James Mateu recorded a hat trick in the winning effort. Two goals each were netted by Mark Giese and Pat O'Donnell and single goals were scored by Joe Callahan, Sean Fennelly and Kiva Tupe. Giese (3), Tupe (2), O'Donnell (2) and Terrence Doherty led the playmakers. Single assists were made by Fennelly, Mark Dailey and Chris Pettit.

Jon Paquette netted two goals for Morrissey Club. Derek Whitman notched one goal. John Alves made an assist.

Colonial Federal skated to a 7-4 win over Keohane's.

Mike D. Sullivan led the winning effort with two goals. Single tallies were netted by Matt DeLorey, Tom Gouthro, Ryan Doyle, Rich Bonnie and Sean Haidul. Doyle, Haidul, Jody Bravo and Andrew Nestor assisted.

Chris Lumaghini notched two goals and an assist for Keohane's. Kevin Mason and Mark Fitzpatrick also scored. Shane Kabilian was the top playmaker with two assists. Kevin Lynch, Matt Reggiani and Mike Carloni aided on single goals.

Skinner's Winners topped Neponset Valley Survey, 5-2.

Paul Zenga netted two goals for the Skinner's squad. Mark Gibbons, Steve McGonagle and Adam Smith recorded single tallies. Paul Campbell and Graham McShane dished out two assists each. Jay Grazioso and Rene Lumaghini also made assists.

Dan Kennedy and Matt O'Connell lit the lamp for Neponset. They were assisted by Steve Wilkie and Rob Rice.

Pee Wee House League standings: Colonial, 8-2; Skinner's, 7-3; Marina Bay, 6-3-1; Neponset, 6-4; Keohane's, 1-8-1; Morrissey Club, 1-9.

Four New Directors Elected To South Shore YMCA Board

The South Shore YMCA Board of Directors has elected four new directors to the 39-member board.

They are: John F. Boc, president, Meriden Investments, Inc., Quincy; Richard Carey, president, Consolidated Brick, Avon; David Chew, owner, The Dairy Queen, Quincy; and Paul Mollica, senior vice president in charge of commercial lending for Eastern Massachusetts, Fleet Bank, Braintree.

"It is a pleasure for the South Shore YMCA to welcome these members to its already prestigious board of directors," said Board President Alex Clark, president, The Vulcan Co., Inc., Hingham.

"We feel the knowledge and experience from the various sectors of the community that these new members bring to the board will have a direct and positive influence as we continue to develop the South Shore YMCA as one of the strongest and most important community resources on the South Shore."

Pee Wee B's On A Roll

The Quincy Youth Hockey Pee Wee B team is on a roll, having won their last four games.

The Pee Wees manhandled Framingham, 6-2.

outgunned Waltham, 6-5, pounded Charlestown, 9-2, and blanked Somerville, 2-0.

The team includes goaltenders Matt Gregory and Pat O'Donnell; defensemen Mike Cuniff,

Expanded Swimming Program During School Vacation

The Quincy Recreation Department will supervise an expanded schedule during the school vacation at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School pool.

Additional swims have been added Tuesday, Dec. 27 and Thursday, Dec. 29. Six-year-old through high school-aged participants can swim from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. They may use their regular pool participation card or pay a guest fee at the door.

Adults who accompany youngsters may also take part.

All swims will be supervised the Quincy Recreation Department Aquatic Staff.

The regular schedule of supervised swimming will be held evenings from Dec. 26-29. The pool will be closed Dec. 30 and Jan. 1 and 2.

Regular scheduling will resume Tuesday, Jan. 3.

HEADED FOR A BREAKDOWN?

Each year, four motorists in ten are left stranded by the roadside when their cars break down. What are the most common culprits behind these failures? According to a nationwide survey of 6,400 households with motor vehicles by a nationally known antifreeze maker, flat tires account for 32 percent of all roadside breakdowns. Next on the list are problems with cooling systems (25 percent) such as leaks, water pump failure and overheating. Battery failure occurs nearly as often (24 percent), and ten percent of those left standing by the sides of their cars have merely run out of gas. By paying attention to the condition of their tires, cooling systems and batteries, car owners can prevent themselves from becoming the objects of passing drivers' pity.

HINT: Know your car's mileage range on a full tank of gas and keep track of your mileage with the trip odometer.

Come in and get acquainted with our technicians at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO, located at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (843-1550). Personalized service and attention is given to each customer whether they simply want us to check their tires, cooling system or battery or to do some extensive repairs. "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Hours: Mon.-Fri. 8am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm.

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

It would be for all the important people in my life that died to come alive again. I would want this to happen because they made an impact on my life that I will never forget. One of them was my third grade teacher that helped me be as good in math as I am. She died when I was in fourth grade. I'm in fifth grade now and what she taught me still helps me a whole lot.

Adams O'Hara
Parker

It would be to live in California with my relatives and cousins. I would also like to see my father.

Genesis
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be to have no snow, because then we would have school.

John Chevalier
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be having a good time, seeing my family.

Mark Chella
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be peace on Earth because there's a lot of crime going on and I want it to stop.

Leanne Coletta
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be for my mother to get better from a car accident.

Natalie Caron
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be to be a professional hockey player at the age of 10. I would play for the fun of it, not for the money.

David Germain
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be to be a real baseball player.

Andrew Cantelli
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be for my grandpa to come from Ireland and be with my family for Christmas.

Joseph O'Connor
Wollaston

It would be snow for Christmas Eve and because it would help bring Christmas spirit to everyone.

Katlyne Finn
Wollaston

It would be to get three Celtics tickets, one for my father, one for my brother, and one for me. Then we would go to the Boston Garden and watch the game. Most important, I'd ask my father if he's enjoying the game. I want this wish because I want to spend more time with my father and brother. My mother won't go because she doesn't like basketball.

Bruce Ngo
Parker

It would be for all the homeless to have huge, gigantic houses and for all pollution to disappear.

Jeremiah Kunze
Atherton Hough

It would be to have all needy families have a home or find a shelter.

Michael Nelson
Atherton Hough

It would be for my stepfather to quit smoking. I really don't like to see him coughing the way he does. It's not good for him. We've tried to get him to stop, but he just can't. If he would quit it would be great. I know how hard it is to stop smoking, but I want him to try harder. If I could have this one wish it would be wonderful.

Valerie Cooney
Parker

It would be that everyone has a nice Christmas and Hanukkah.

Kylie Mansfield
Wollaston

It would be that the homeless got their jobs back and there would be peace and harmony.

Stacy Queripel
Merrymount

It would be that every family in the world would be reunited.

Kathryn Grogan
Merrymount

It would be peace on Earth, and that everyone can spend Christmas with their family and have food and shelter.

Kelly Coleman
Atherton Hough

It would be a store with everything.

Michael McLaughlin
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be that everyone gets to be their family and/or friends.

Sarah Adukonis
Wollaston

It would be that all the starving people and sick people in the world could be better. I wish they could get lots of food just like here. I want them to be healthy and strong. I don't want them to drink rusty and dirty water so they'll get sick. I want them to drink the clean water.

Lauren Sleeth
Parker

It would be to stop the killing and violence in the world because people don't deserve to die and get injured they way they do.

Michelle Pilalas
Merrymount

It would be to go visit my family in Florida. My mom and I want to go.

Amy Stephens
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be that families can be together for the holidays.

Matthew Conso
Merrymount

It would be for people to have food and have a house.

Michael Doyle
Merrymount

It would be for world peace. A lot of people are dying in many countries. I don't want anyone to die because it is very sad to see this happen. Lots of wars are happening in the world. People are killing each other. People are enemies to each other. Why can't they be friends?

Tammy Tan
Parker

It would be to get one million dollars. With that kind of money I could buy tons of stuff. The one thing I would buy first in Super Nintendo.

Tom Cheng Hoang
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be to try to help my father with his problems.

Shawn Bowles
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be to get all the toys made in the USA so I could give some away to people who can't afford them for Christmas.

Senh Burdick
Lincoln-Hancock

It would be peace on Earth and good will toward men and women.

Michael Doucette

Shop & Shop Permit May Face Court Appeal

officials have not specified when. The company may remain there for up to two years if it chooses.

The current Stop & Shop store further south on Newport Avenue will be closed after the new store opens. The Pneumatic Scale plant will be demolished to make way for the new store.

The City Council voted 8-0-1 Monday night to support the project. Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan, who has a brother-in-law employed by Stop & Shop, abstained from the vote because of conflict of interest reasons.

Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien, whose district includes the site, said he decided to support the project after studying Stop & Shop's proposal in depth. Plans call for, among other things, $1.2 million in traffic improvements to the area including Arlington, Fayette and West Squantum streets which would be high-lighted by new signals and added turning lanes.

Stop & Shop has also cited the approximately 450 retail jobs and 200 construction jobs, $230,000 in tax revenue and aesthetic improvements to the area as among the positives of the project.

Chretien, noting that the project has been approved by the Quincy Planning Board, supported by more than 800 residents who have signed a petition, and deemed safe by former Quincy Traffic Engineer Jack Gillon, said he is convinced the new store will best improve the quality of life in the neighborhood.

"I'm comfortable with this project," he said. "This is the best use I can see (for the site)."

Chretien said he wants Stop & Shop and Work Inc. to continue negotiations regarding parking and other issues, offering to act as mediator if necessary. He added that he feels the parking issue is a financial debate, not a safety issue.

Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro also voiced his support for the project.

"I will be upset if Work Inc.'s concerns aren't met," said DeCristofaro, "(but) I think in the long run, we'll be fine."

No tenant has been announced for the 18,800-square-foot retail building or the current Stop & Shop site, although Chretien said the PUD permit will not allow what he termed "obnoxious" or high-traffic uses such as adult entertainment stores or fast-food restaurants.

Two weeks ago, a majority of area residents voiced support of the project at a public hearing, with almost all of the opposition coming from those affiliated with Work Inc.

City To Hire Five New Police Officers

entied Policing Service Program (COPS), includes two grants among 19 cities and towns statewide. Recently, President Clinton stated that the funding is part of the second round of funding under the recently enacted Crime Bill.

The program will provide $225 million to communities with populations over 50,000 to enable them to begin recruiting and hiring and training new officers now in anticipation of later COPS grant funding. Each community will receive the money after submitting a satisfactory community policing plan.

U.S. Rep. Gerry Studds

said, "This is great news for Quincy," adding that the grants provide up to 75 percent of the salary and benefits of the new officers over three years, up to a cap of $75,000 per officer.

Smaller communities may also apply for funding under a similar program called COPS-FAST (Funding Accelerated for Smaller Towns). It will provide $165 million to communities with populations less than 50,000 to enable them to obtain, expedite approval under a greatly simplified "fast track" procedure.

In response to questions raised about the Crime Bill during his meeting with police chiefs, Studds has sent a series of updates to all 42 police departments in the 10th Congressional District, giving details about the COPS grants and other Crime Bill programs.

In addition, The Justice Department awarded a $760,766 grant to Brockton to hire nine officers. Two other 10th District towns, Mashpee and Sandwich also received funding.

"I'm thrilled with these awards," said Studds. "It's been just three months since the Crime Bill was enacted, and already five communities in our area - both large and small - have received substantial grants. I anticipate that many more will receive funding in the next few months."

College Petition's Fate Uncertain

"Absolutely not," said Mariano. "There is no conflict with me being on the board, or defending myself or the rights of others to be on the board."

Mariano, who spent more than 12 years as an educator in Quincy Public Schools, added that he is upset that his background has not been considered by the City Council.

"I've been an educator much longer than I've been a politician, and it offends me that they don't consider the qualifications of the people they're after."

Morrissey, who has said in the past he has concerns about completely eliminating anyone's right to serve on the board, said Tuesday his position has not changed. He added, however, that he filed the petition when he received it and the Legislature has placed it on next year's agenda as a "late file."

Reps. Stephen Tobin and Michael Bellotti could not be reached for comment.

Cheney has repeatedly stated that his reason for introducing the petition is that removing elected officials from the board is in the college's best interest, and he reiterated that statement Monday night, saying the council's decision earlier this year to put elected officials on the board was a mistake.

"Sometimes in government you make mistakes," said Cheney. "What you have to do is take responsibility for them. No one foresaw another politician becoming chairman of the board."

Cheney was referring to School Committee Vice Chairman Daniel Raymond, who was one of 11 people elected to the 13-member college board as private citizens and who was selected as its chairman. Fabrizio was chosen to represent the City Council and Mariano was selected as School Committee representative.

Raymond said members of the college board should have been allowed to speak on their behalf, saying that the City Council has no right to "tinker with the day-to-day operations of the college."

"I think the process (by which the petition was passed) was very hasty, and I think the City Council has made a grave mistake," he said.

Raymond also criticized Cheney for the makeup of the appointing council that would select the replacements for the three politicians on the current college board. Under Cheney's proposal, two members would be selected by the mayor, two by the Board of Governors and one by College Courses Inc., a non-profit private group affiliated with Quincy College.

However, since Sheets is currently on a leave of absence from a teaching position at the college, he will likely will not vote for conflict of interest reasons, meaning that the City Council president would make the selection, a situation that Raymond said is politically motivated.

Cheney, who was heavily involved in the selection process of the current college board, pointed out that he could have had himself named to the board and said his intentions are simply geared to the interests of the college, adding that he feels his proposal creates the fairest balance possible for the appointing board.

Although the majority of councillors supported the petition, there was still some division and lengthy discussion.

Fabrizio said he does not know what the council is trying to accomplish by changing the makeup of the board. He and other opponents of the petition have suggested that it has more to do with some councillors' disapproval of the board's decision to replace former interim Quincy College President Donald Young with a new interim president, Linda Wilson, instead of a permanent college head.

Fabrizio said the decision to search for another interim president was a unanimous board decision and one supported by Young.

"You may not agree with it, but I don't see how you can find fault with the process," he said. Fabrizio also suggested that the council's new petition to alter the original home-rule petition to establish the Board of Governors less than a year after it was passed will make the councillors look like "fools" on Beacon Hill.

Cahill disagreed, saying city boards such as the Planning Board, License Board and Zoning Board of Appeals function better without political interference.

"I'm not embarrassed to change a home-rule petition," he said. "I'm not embarrassed to say a mistake was made. The Legislature is now taking a second look at pay raises they, recently approved for themselves, so I don't think we're going to look like 'fools' at all."

"We're just trying to make the process and the system work better. We're just trying to make the board function like every other board in the city. Whatever happens at the State House will happen; I think it's the right thing to do."

Quincy College had been governed by the School Committee until the New England Association of Schools and Colleges (NEASC) ruled last year that the college had to establish a new independent board of governors or risk losing its accreditation. NEASC officials felt the college had outgrown its governance by the committee.

Joseph R. Harold Sr., 77

DAV State Adjutant Officer For 40 Years

Battle Of The Bulge Veteran

JOSEPH HAROLD SR.

A funeral Mass for Joseph R. Harold Sr., 77, State Adjutant Officer for the DAV for 40 years, will be celebrated today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. in Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, 227 Sea St., Merrymount.

Mr. Harold died Sunday following an accident Saturday on Sea St.

Born in Boston, Mr. Harold lived in Quincy for 40 years.

He was a graduate of English High School, Boston, and a World War II veteran. He served in the U.S. Army Infantry with General George Patton's 3rd Army. He was in the Battle of the Bulge and received the Bronze Star as well as three Battle Stars.

Mr. Harold was one of a very few to receive a Battlefield Commission during the war where he was promoted from a Sergeant to a 2nd Lieutenant. According to his son, former state Sen. Paul D. Harold of Quincy, it was a very rare thing during World War II to receive such a commission.

He was appointed by nine Massachusetts Governors to the commission to hire the handicapped beginning with the late Gov. Paul Dever and concluding with Gov. William Weld.

Robert Noble, past Department of Massachusetts Commander American POW and member of the Cavanaugh Post, 79, DAV said upon hearing of Mr. Harold's death, "the veterans of our city and state have lost a hard worker for the veterans." He added, "He still spent considerable time at the State House working for the veterans." Noble said

Harold was always an "active citizen of Quincy and truly a veteran's advocate."

Art Wilson, National DAV Adjutant, expressed similar sentiments.

"He was 'Mr. DAV' in Massachusetts," said Wilson. "He dedicated his whole adult life to improving the services and lives of disabled veterans and their families. He was a very widely respected national leader of our organization, and it's a great, great loss."

Former American Legion National Commander John "Jake" Comer described Harold as "Mr. Veteran in the true sense of the word in this area."

"Above all veterans in this Commonwealth, no man had a higher honesty, integrity and willingness to help than Joe Harold," said Comer. "I'm going to miss him terribly. He was a great American."

Comer added that he always turned to Harold whenever he needed a piece of veterans' legislation analyzed.

"He was a very knowledgeable man," he said. "In the State House, he was the most respected ad-

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

The American Christmas is a pageant of something old, something new, a great deal borrowed and all of it blended into the happiest holiday of the year. No other day combines such a harmonious pattern of religious, pagan, seasonal and national traditions from so many corners of civilization.

Three favorite symbols of Christmas are fairly new; the glittering, gift laden Christmas tree, the greeting card and Santa Claus as he is known today. However, let us not forget the Christ Child, born in a lowly manger, God's gift to man. It must not be forgotten that the first Christmas song was sung in the night. When the world is dark, the light shines, not from among men, but from heaven - what a comforting fact.

As the strains of the old familiar, well-loved Christmas hymns and carols usher in another holiday season, may we at Dewares extend to each of you, our sincerest wishes for a Merry Christmas.

Quincy Firm Finalist For Library Addition

A Quincy firm has been added to the list of finalists interested in building an addition onto the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Center.

John M. Sheskey and Associates was added last week, bringing the total number of companies on the list to six. The other finalists for the $9 million project, which would include a 40,000-square-foot building and 100 parking spaces, are: Shepley, Bulfinch, Richardson and Abbott, Childs, Bertman, Tseckares (CBT) and Anthony Tappe Associates, all of Boston; Graham Gund Architects of Cambridge and Loehd Design Partnership of Somerville.

Library officials said Shepley is considered the top-ranked finalist for the job at this point. The architect for the project, which is expected to be paid for primarily by a state bond issue for library reconstruction, will be chosen by the end of the month.

The original five finalists were chosen two weeks ago from an overall field of 22 companies.

Arthur Ciampa, chairman of the library's board of trustees, said last week Sheskey was added to the list because it ranked sixth out of the original 22 proposals. Sheskey has designed additions for Eastern Nazarene College and the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

WOLLASTON SEWER LINES WILL BE TESTED FOR LEAKS

Wollaston—The municipal sewer system will be tested for leaks during the month of January. The location of the work is in the Wollaston area of the city of Quincy, located between Appleton and Vassal Street between Faxon Road and Quincy Shore Drive. Smoke will be released into the system through manholes and service connections so that leaks or cracks in the lines can be located.

Should smoke be detected within your building, do not be alarmed. The smoke is non-toxic, non-staining and dissipates quickly through open windows. If you have a lung ailment or respiratory conditions such as asthma or emphysema, stay away from the smoke. Any smoke within a building should be immediately reported to the persons conducting the tests.

Prior to smoke testing, the city of Quincy must identify locations of persons with poor health conditions. Although the smoke is non-toxic and non-staining, it is capable of causing irritation, especially to those with lung ailments such as asthma or emphysema. Please contact the DPW at 376-1910 if you have a related health condition so that appropriate precautions can be taken.

Any smoke within a building should be immediately reported to persons conducting the tests or by calling Frank Occhipinti at Weston & Sampson Engineers at (508) 532-1900 or Quincy DPW at 376-1910. After 5:00 p.m., please leave a message at (508) 977-0110 Ext. 444#.

Boston Firm Selected
Over 5 Other Finalists

Designer Contract Awarded For $9M Library Addition

By MICHAEL WHALEN

A Boston architectural firm has been chosen as the designer of the planned 40,000-square-foot addition to the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Center, a project that will cost an estimated $9 million in city and state monies.

Childs, Bertman, Tseckares Inc. (CBT) was chosen by the library's selection committee Tuesday from a group of six finalists which also included the successor company of the library's original designer. The six had been chosen from an overall field of 22 applicants for the project.

Library Director, Ann McLaughlin said she is happy with the selection.

"I'm very pleased with this choice," she said. "I think we'll be able to work together very well with these people."

Former Library Director Warren Watson, another selection committee member, agreed.

"I think it's an outstanding firm," said Watson. "I was very impressed with their presentation."

Watson added that no contract has been awarded as yet because under state guidelines, contracts for architects are negotiated following their selection for such projects.

Department of Public Works Commissioner David Colton, chairman of the selection committee, said he expects the contract will range between $30,000 and $40,000.

Originally, library officials considered the front-runner for the project to be Shepley, Bulfinch, Richardson and Abbott of Boston, the successor firm of Henry Hobson Richardson who designed the original Crane building. CBT was ranked second among the six finalists, McLaughlin said.

The final decision was made after all finalists were interviewed by the selection committee. McLaughlin said CBT took a more creative approach about how the addition could be designed than Shepley, which was "more traditional" in its thinking.

"They (CBT) had some very interesting ideas about how the building could be configured," she said.

McLaughlin stressed that while the selection committee members were searching for creativity, they also wanted to find a firm that was willing to enhance some of the traditional highlights of the building, including an arched doorway and a fireplace. She noted that

At Quincy First Night Celebration 25,000-30,000 Expected To Ring In New Year

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The city's third annual First Night celebration is expected to attract an estimated crowd of between 25,000 and 30,000 people to Quincy Center Saturday night.

First Night Committee Chairman Michael Cheney said he and others involved with the project anticipate this year's event to be the best and the biggest the city has ever seen.

"I think it's going to be a great night," said Cheney. "First Night has established itself in Quincy, and it promises to grow."

The event drew between 10,000 and 15,000 people two years ago and about 20,000 last year, Cheney said. He noted that 423 volunteers have worked "literally thousands of hours" to help organize this year's festivities, and between 200 and 275 will volunteer at the event itself.

Officials are basing their crowd estimate on First Night button sales, which are up 20 percent from last year.

First Night '95 will include a wide variety of musical, theatrical and performance festivities offered as a safe, inexpensive and alcohol and drug-free celebration for the whole family. Among the highlights will be live music, ice sculptures, a Parade of Lights and fireworks.

Activities will begin at 4:30 p.m. and will conclude with a midnight fire-

Deadline Friday For Next Week's Sun

Because of the New Year's Day holiday Sunday, there is an early deadline for next week's issue of The Quincy Sun.

All press releases and advertising copy should be submitted to the Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Center, by 5 p.m. tomorrow (Friday) to ensure publication in the Jan. 5 edition.

The Sun will be closed Monday, Jan. 2 in observance of New Year's.

The office will reopen Tuesday, Jan. 3.

works display over Quincy Center. A First Night Store, which will offer First Night buttons, mugs, T-shirts, sweatshirts, noise-makers, hats and other souvenirs and gifts, will open at 3 p.m. at Presidents Place.

Cheney said the reason for the store is not to make a profit on the event.

"The purpose is not to make money, but to cover our costs and to provide people with souvenirs and memorabilia without charging them exorbitant prices," he said. "Our costs this year are running in excess of $100,000, which is mainly due to our commitment to the artists and entertainers who will be performing."

No vendors will be allowed at the event.

First Night '95 will be spread out over 18 indoor locations and one outdoor tent, Cheney said. Among those hosting indoor events will be Adams Academy, Bethany Congregational Church, United First Parish Church, City Hall (old and new buildings), Presidents Place, Quincy High School, Quincy Center for Technical Education (Vo-Tech School), Thomas Crane Public Library, Woodward School, South Shore YMCA and Bank of Boston, South Shore.

A complete schedule of events, including times and locations, is available at City Hall.

Listing some of the highlights of the celebration, Cheney noted that this year's parade will begin at 7 p.m. at Whitney Road and will travel down Hancock, Temple and Coddington streets, Woodward Avenue and Russell Park. Those in attendance are encouraged to join in the procession, he added.

This year's ice sculptures will be particularly impressive, Cheney said. Among them will be a sculpture of Cinderella in her horse carriage measuring 16 feet long, 8 feet tall and a replica of the Quincy-built heavy cruiser U.S.S. Salem that measures 12 feet long and will be accented by an ocean scene background painted by local artist Ruth Hardiski.

"The U.S. Naval and Shipbuilding Museum will have men dressed in uniform at the sculpture," said Cheney. "It will be a great photo opportunity."

The midnight fireworks display will last about seven minutes and will include about the same amount of fireworks last year, although bigger rockets are being used to create a greater effect. Cheney noted that while the fireworks will be visible throughout downtown Quincy, the best viewing area will be in the vicinity of the Quincy Center for Technical Education and the South Shore YMCA on Coddington Street.

The International Food Festival, a favorite during the city's previous two First Night events, will be held throughout the night at the Center for Technical Education and will feature a variety of delicacies as well as several performers.

A new event this year will be a Pickup Truck Float Contest that will offer first, second and third prizes of $500, $250 and $100 respectively for those who most creatively decorate their trucks.

Cheney said the truck contest should not cost participants any money to speak of because they can simply use their holiday ornaments and lights to decorate the vehicles.

"It might be a good way for them to dismantle some of their Christmas decorations early," he said with a laugh.

Those wishing to participate in the contest should call Bill Morrill at 773-1439 or the First Night Office at 376-1071.

Entertainment will be provided by a number of musical and theatrical groups at the various sites. Eleven "roving entertainers" including clowns and jugglers will be outdoors throughout the night, while other activities will include face painting, hat making, karaoke and more.

All events are handicapped accessible. Free parking will be available at Presidents Place, Ross Parking Garage, Hancock Parking Lot and other designated lots. Restrooms will be open at a number of the event sites.

Cheney said he does not anticipate weather to be a factor since the great majority of activities are happening inside, and others can be moved inside in case of rain.

"The event will go on rain or shine," he said. "The only thing that would prevent it would be a major blizzard."

Neither smoking nor drinking is permitted at any of the First Night locations.

Major corporate First Night sponsors include the City of Quincy, Stop & Shop Companies, Modern Continental-Sae American, Pilgrim Healthcare, Quirk Ford of Quincy, Shaw's Supermarket's, Atlantic Development Corp., Graham Communications and Impact Quincy.

Individual First Night site sponsors include South Boston Savings Bank, International House of Pancakes, Parks Transportation Co., Twin Rivers Technologies, The Co-Operative Bank, South Shore Plaza, Dickinson Development Corp., South Shore Building Trades Council, Fiesta Shows, Quincy 2000, Quincy Savings Bank, Quincy Hospital, Fleet Bank, Massachusetts Electric, State Street Bank, Dependable Cleaners, Arbella Mutual Insurance Co., Clean Harbors and Roche Bros. Supermarkets.

Sponsors of the 13 ice sculptures made by Atlantic Ice Sculpture Co. of Weymouth are New England Fertilizer, Browning-Ferris Industries, Dunkin' Donuts, Cashman Companies and Citizens Bank. The parade is sponsored by International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers 103-National Electrical Contractors' Association and the fireworks by Cashman Companies.

In all, nearly 100 individuals and organizations sponsored the event, according to Cheney. Donations ranged from $25 to $5,000, he said.

"What's really nice is the overwhelming support the business community gives First Night Quincy," he said.

Cheney added that the First Night Committee will also recognize other city organizations for the work they do in the community by having their names placed on the various ice sculptures. Among them will be the Quincy Ve-

First Night '95 is funded in part by a grant from the New England Foundation for the Arts with additional support from the Massachusetts Cultural Council and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Other agencies that provided in-kind services for the event include The Quincy Sun, WJDA Radio, Continental Cablevision, The Patriot Ledger, Creative Fairs, South Shore Building Trade Council, Quincy Emergency Services Management, Quincy Arts Council and Home Depot in Quincy.

Admission buttons are $10 and offer access to all First Night events. Buttons may be purchased at the First Night Store, First Night Information Booth at

"Button Island" (the island between Presidents Place and City Hall), Osco Drug, Stop & Shop Supermarkets, Shaw's Supermarkets, South Shore Plaza, Tedeschi Food Stores, City Hall, Dunkin' Donuts, Barry's Deli, Bank of Boston South Shore, The Co-Operative Bank, Family Thrift Center, and Aicardi's Lunch.

Cheney said the main reason he enjoys being First Night chairman is because it brings virtually countless numbers of people together. So many individuals get involved, he noted, that suggestions are already coming in for next year's celebration.

"Bringing the whole community together under one roof is what has brought me the greatest amount of personal satisfaction," he said. "It takes a tremendous amount of teamwork and cooperation between the volunteers, contributing companies and corporations and the city, particularly the mayor's office. Even though it hasn't been held yet, the event is already a success because of the people it has brought together."

"I'd just like thank all of the people who have contributed to First Night in any way. Without them, it wouldn't be possible."

Cheney said volunteers are still needed to help out at the event, particularly during the second half of the night. A volunteers' meeting was scheduled for last night (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. in the City Council Chambers at City Hall.

1994 In Review

It Was A Year Of Steady Progress

By MICHAEL WHALEN
Nineteen ninety-four: it was a year of progress that saw a number of the city's plans take a giant step forward or come to fruition.

The year was highlighted by, among other things, the stabilization of Quincy's finances, news of a major retail store's plans to settle in the city's downtown business section, and the long-awaited arrival of the centerpiece of the U.S. Naval and Shipbuilding Museum at the Fore River shipyard.

The reality of the city's fiscal strength was made evident as early as May when Mayor James Sheets announced that Quincy's economy had stabilized to the point that no raise in property taxes was necessary, something that had not happened since the administration of Mayor Francis McCauley in the early 1980s.

At the end of the year, Sheets essentially kept his "no new taxes" pledge by proposing no increase in the commercial, industrial and personal property (CIPP) tax rate and only a one cent increase in the residential rate.

The City Council also apparently believed in the city's economic strength, passing Sheets' bond package of nearly $11 million for city improvements. Only Councillor Timothy Cahill, considered by some to be the council's fiscal conservative, voted against the package, which included $2.9 million for the city's parks and playgrounds and $5.1 million for school construction and renovations. Cahill said he did not feel bonding was necessary to fund many of the projects in the package.

Quincy Center's downtown business section also began moving forward. Blockbuster Video opened a new location at the site of the former Colman's

"OUR MISSION REMAINS abidingly clear—to create in this city a quality of life for our citizens that is unequalled in this Commonwealth or anywhere else in this country," Mayor James Sheets declared in January during his third Inaugural Address at North Quincy High School.

Sporting Goods store, which had been left vacant in 1993. More importantly, officials announced in September that Decelle, a Braintree-based retailer owned by Burlington Coat Factory, had signed a letter of intent to move into the site of the former Child World and Cummings stores on Hancock Street.

Wal-Mart, the national retail chain, was granted a permit by the City Council in September to build a new store in Quincy Point despite opposition from a handful of business owners and residents of The Falls, a neighboring condominium complex.

Quincy breathed a sigh of relief as two long-awaited events finally took place in 1994: the establishment of a new Board of Governors at Quincy College and the arrival of the U.S.S. Salem as the centerpiece of the shipyard that the college had outgrown its governance by the Quincy School Committee and risked losing its accreditation if a new board of governors was not established. Sheets' home-rule petition, passed by the City Council and state Legislature, made it possible.

By the end of the year, however, the question of whether elected officials should be allowed to serve on the Board of Governors would again plunge the college into controversy.

The museum, which had welcomed its first ship, the U.S.S. Southern Cross earlier in the year, finally saw the arrival of the 718-foot, Quincy-built Salem in October after months of negotiations with the U.S. Navy.

Two other major announcements were made concerning the city's future.

Quincy developer Peter O'Connell announced in September he was purchasing the Quincy Bay Inn in North Quincy for the purpose of turning it into a first-class hotel. Meanwhile, Sheets continued to search for a hotel for the downtown, and Quincy 2000 officials said in December that they were negotiating with a developer interested in build-

Saturday Last Day For Sun Citizen Of Year Nominations

There are only a few days remaining to submit nominations for The Quincy Sun's 10th annual "Citizen of the Year" award.

Saturday is the final day Sun readers may nominate the person they feel is the most deserving of the award.

Established in 1985, the award recognizes an individual for outstanding community service or a special achievement.

Last year, Mary Vallier, a founder of Domestic Violence Ended and a longtime aide to battered women and abused children, was honored. She was selected from 41 nominations submitted by Sun readers.

After nominations close Saturday, a judging panel will be selected to make the final choice from the nominations submitted.

A nomination ballot to help the selection process appears on Page 5 in this week's issue of The Sun.

If you know of someone you would like to see recognized with this award, fill out the ballot and mail it to:

The Quincy Sun
Attn: Citizen of the Year

1372 Hancock St.
Quincy, MA 02169
Nominations should be postmarked no later than Dec. 31.

Ballots can also be dropped off at The Sun office at the above address by noon time Saturday.

Those submitting nominations should identify themselves. They can also attach to the ballot a letter detailing the reason for the nomination.

Nominees can be someone in elective office, a member of an appointed board, a clergy member, a teacher or school administrator, a police officer or firefighter, someone in the business community, a sports figure or an "unsung" neighbor or friend who has given freely of his or her time time to a worthy project or cause.

Past recipients of the award, and the year of their selection, are:

Tony Siciliano, deputy director of Quincy Emergency Management (formerly Civil Defense, 1985).

Ruth Wainwright of Houghs Neck, a long-time community volunteer, 1986.

The late Richard J. Koch Sr., for his work with charitable and community causes over four decades, posthumously in 1987.

Martin Finnegan, retired Quincy high school athletic director, for coordinating the drug and alcohol program Project Impact, 1988.

Clara Yeomans, a long-time environmentalist and charter member of the Quincy Conservation Commission, 1989.

Gerald Gherardi, for his contributions to charities and service organizations over a half century, 1990.

Frank Kearns, for his innumerable volunteer contributions as a community activist and advocate for the city's elderly, homeless, needy and poor, 1991.

Stephen Cantelli, an innovative Quincy public school teacher and advocate of community education, 1992.

Those nominated the past nine years are eligible to be nominated again this year. Since this is not a popularity contest, a person receiving the most nominations will not necessarily be the final winner.

Anyone nominated just once has an equal chance of being the award recipient.

Again, the deadline for nominations is Saturday, Dec. 31.

The name of the winner will be announced in The Quincy Sun in January.

Joe Harold: 'Mr. Veteran'

The death of Joseph Harold and the tragic way it happened leaves those who knew him asking ourselves: why?

It is hard for us to comprehend why a man who loved his family, community and country, who believed in right over wrong, who would do anything to help you at anytime and was as honest as Abe Lincoln is struck and fatally injured by a car while crossing the street to go to church.

In his pocket were two envelopes—one for his weekly support of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church and one a donation for Christmas flowers to be placed at the altar in memory of his wife, Peggy, son, Joseph, Jr. and daughter, Betsy. He was identified at Quincy Hospital through a check in one of those envelopes.

You find yourself thinking of men stumbling out of a bar room and making it safely across the street. Or men sneaking into some place they shouldn't be and getting there and back without incident.

It just doesn't seem fair to have this happen to Joe Harold as it did.

He couldn't have had an enemy in the world. A veteran of the famed Battle of the Bulge and state adjutant of the Disabled American Veterans for 40 years, he had the respect and admiration of all veterans groups—American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American POW, Jewish War Veterans and others.

Your peers know you well. They knew Joe well and they were there to pay final tribute at his funeral last week. Our Lady of Good Counsel Church was filled with mourners, including Mayor James Sheets and city, county and state officials, with many standing in the side aisles.

Among those attending were past American Legion National Commander John (Jake) Comer and State Department Commander Hank Bradley, who is also Quincy Veterans Services Director. Both noted that Joe Harold was the one they turned to on Beacon Hill when they needed help and guidance with proposed legislation benefiting veterans.

U.S. Secretary of Veterans Affairs Jesse Brown came on from Washington to speak at the Mass. He carried with him a letter from President Bill Clinton to former state Senator Paul Harold which read:

"Hillary and I extend our deepest sympathy to the death of your father. We hope that the love and support of your family and friends will sustain and comfort you during this difficult time. You are in our thoughts and prayers."

Fr. James Curtin, pastor of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, in a homily tribute said in part:

"...Joe Harold was a quiet, unobtrusive gentleman who never called attention to himself. He was dedicated and committed to his family, his church and his country."

"The outpouring of respect and affection he has been receiving in these past few days would probably leave Joe a bit overwhelmed, but it is well deserved."

"Joe's love for his family is without question. He was a faithful husband and devoted father. He had the joy of knowing his grandchildren and loved them dearly."

"The joys were mixed with sadness over the years as Joe went through the sorrow of losing his wife, Peggy, a son, Joe Jr. and a daughter, Betsy."

"Joe served his country during World War II and fought among other places in the Battle of the Bulge. He served in the cannon company of the 310th Infantry Regiment in Germany and France."

"He was awarded the Bronze Star for bravery and was one of the few Americans ever to receive a battlefield commission, earning the rank of second lieutenant."

"Joe's interest in veteran causes and his labors over 40 years on behalf of Disabled American Veterans earned him the title, 'Mr. Veteran.'"

A touching moment during the Mass was his other son, Bill Harold, asking God to "release the driver of the car from the pain she has suffered since the accident."

Those of us lucky enough to have known Joe Harold will miss him and for a long time, we will go on wondering why it ever happened. We probably will never know the answer.

March Of Dimes Says 'Thank You' To Bradlee's

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The March of Dimes would like to express its sincere and heartfelt thanks to the staff and patrons of the Quincy Bradlee's store who supported our recent Pick a Pumpkin for Healthier Babies Campaign.

The Quincy Bradlee's raised $672 by selling paper pumpkins for a small donation to the March of Dimes. Across the Commonwealth, 32 Bradlee's stores raised over $17,000 for the March of Dimes—monies which will benefit medical research, community services and education programs throughout the state. These pumpkins, with the name of the patron or a special baby in their life, were then displayed on the wall of the store, symbolizing the community's support for the March of Dimes Campaign for Healthier Babies.

The March of Dimes is a national voluntary health agency whose mission is to improve the health of babies by preventing birth defects and infant mortality. The March of Dimes funds programs of research, community services, education and advocacy.

Once again, our thanks to the citizens of Quincy for their generosity, and most especially to the Quincy Bradlee's store for implementing the campaign.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS 1910 POSTCARD was mailed back home by a young Quincy stone cutter to his father in Barre, Vermont. In only the second day on his new job at one of the dozens of stone cutting sheds in South Quincy, he must have been impressed by his new surroundings. His message begins: "To My Dear Papa: - See how they load granite here." This 40-ton crane was erected in 1907 by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad to service the granite finishing industry in the area. The crane was located near the old Quincy Adams depot which was on Liberty Street near what is now the Water Street bridge.

Thurs: boneless teriyaki strips, rice pilaf, mixed vegetables, roll, fruit juice, milk.

Fri: "make your own" beef tacos with lettuce, tomato, grated cheese and salsa; milk.

Correction

The name of Rev. John Swanson was mistakenly written as Rev. Carl Swanson in a story and photo caption in last week's issue.

The Sun regrets the error.

A few years ago when Home Depot proposed to build a store on the vacant Antonelli Iron Works location near my local West Quincy hardware store, I became very upset. I felt my business would be threatened by competition from a major superstore. It took a while for me to realize that it was up to us as a company to roll up our sleeves and compete successfully with the big store down the street. Today, we're proud of the fact that we've done just that. We have more customers than any other time in the 30-year history of Curry Ace Hardware.

I am also the owner of a local hardware store on Billings Road in North Quincy and am concerned about an empty building in the ward. I want to see Shaw's Supermarkets come to the old Boston Gear location. I feel Shaw's will bring new vitality and increased trade to an important area of the city.

But as much as I want to see Boston Gear become a focal point for shopping, I fully understand how Frank Miller, the owner of the Wollaston Market, must feel with the coming of a major competitor to his area.

All I can say is that Curry Ace Hardware is living proof that increased competition can help a business do a better job and grow. I fully expect this to be the case with Shaw's locating to the old Boston Gear site.

Quincy's Yesterdays

McIntyre First New Mayor In 12 Years

By PAUL HAROLD

James McIntyre, who also serves as a state senator, was sworn in as Quincy's first new Mayor in 12 years, in ceremonies at City Hall.

In his inaugural speech, he stressed the need for "programs to keep our city young." He called for a new board to oversee the Department of Public Works, closer planning with the MBTA in the construction of the new rapid transit line, the construction of a new north-south artery, a new branch library to serve Houghs Neck and Adams Shore and the establishment of the position of city planner.

BURKE ELECTED COUNCIL PRESIDENT

George Burke was elected Council President by a 6-3 vote over Francis McCauley. After the vote, McCauley moved to make the vote unanimous.

Voting for Burke were Burke, two newly elected councillors Clifford Marshall and Vincent Smyth, and Richard Barry, George McDonald and John Quinn.

Walter Hannon and John Kogler voted for McCauley. Percy Lane was re-elected clerk of committees, a position he has held since 1937.

NEW YEAR'S BABIES

Quincy City Hospital reported four New Year's babies, all from Quincy families:

For Mr. and Mrs. Irving Coughlin of Faxon Park Rd., a son; for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chittick of Captain's Walk, a son; for Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Olsson of Remington Ct., a son; and for Mr. and Mrs. David Sinclair of Willow Ave., a daughter.

BELLOTTI FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL

Francis Bellotti of Quincy, former lieutenant governor and candidate for governor, became the first Democrat to formally announce his candidacy for the post of Attorney General that will be vacated by Edward Brooke. Brooke was leaving to run for Leverett Saltonstall's seat in the U.S. Senate.

It was expected that former Governor Foster Furcolo and Rep. Michael Dukakis would also be candidates.

New Year's Eve Cream Puffs

By Christmas Eve, I had made a couple of pies for dinner the next day, but I wanted something different for the night before. I used a recipe for cream puffs from my niece Ann, which I have made several times and are a family favorite (mine especially).

They are actually easier to make than a pie or a cake and look quite festive when all filled. I filled the ones I made for Christmas Eve with fresh heavy cream that I whipped. My grandson Matthew marvels at the use of real cream as opposed to the other stuff...They can also be filled with a vanilla custard, or ice cream with chocolate topping.

Today's recipe makes either 8 large ones or 16 small ones. I chose the small ones because by that time, I didn't want to make two batches.

NEW YEAR'S CREAM PUFFS
 1 stick of either butter or margarine
 1 cup water
 1 cup flour
 4 eggs
 heavy cream for filling sugar for filling vanilla for filling

In a sauce pan, bring margerine and water to a rolling boil. Lower heat and add the cup of flour stirring until mixture forms a ball. turn off the heat and then add the eggs unbeaten, one at a time each time stirring until very smooth. (The trick to a good cream puff according to Ann is to stir, stir and stir.) And she is right, they do come out much fluffier.

Drop by spoonfuls (a small spoon for the small ones) on an ungreased cookie sheet and bake for 40 to 45 minutes on the middle rack of the oven. Let cool before filling. Then place the heavy cream in a deep bowl and add two tablespoons of sugar and a teaspoon of vanilla. If it isn't sweet enough for your taste, then add a little more sugar. Because the cream puffs have no sugar sweeter. Sprinkle the top with powdered sugar. They are light and delicious. Happy New Year!

Our Policy On ENGAGEMENT PHOTOGRAPHS And Wedding ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Quincy Sun will continue to publish photographs with engagement announcements as it always has.

The Sun will also continue to use wedding announcements, the names of all members of the wedding party including maid or best man, parents, bridesmaids, flower girls and ringbearers, etc.

We invite engaged couples to submit photos with their announcements, and when submitting their wedding photo, to include a complete listing of the wedding party.

Black and white photos are preferred. The Sun can convert most color photos in black and white for publication but the photo loses some clarity in the process.

We suggest that when you have your engagement photo taken, you request the studio to send a copy to The Sun with the remainder. The Sun is confirming its policy of publishing engagement photos.

The Sun also publishes wedding announcements and wedding photos. For more information, call 376-1322.

Over 250 Attend Cerebral Palsy Christmas Party

More than 250 children and adults with disabilities and their families associated with Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore attended the sixth annual Christmas Party sponsored by the Massachusetts State Lottery Employees held recently at the George F. Bryan VFW Post in Quincy.

The South Shore Joeys, an independent volunteer association, and Bingo the Clown, sent by The Ground Round, greeted the guests.

Entertainment was provided by the Sacred Heart Church Children's choir of North Quincy with Ms. Zoa O'Hearn, director and James Connors, pianist.

The Mass State Lottery employees held several fundraisers for Santa to give gifts to all the children and adults with disabilities who attended.

Among those contributing were, Gary Frizzell, Bay Sign Co., E.L. Cooney Food Brokers, Gentile Piano Service, Nissen Baking Co., Balboni's Subs & Bakery, K.B.L. Vending Co., Service Employees Union-Local 254, Back Bay Restaurant Group and Pizzeria Uno Restaurant.

Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore runs the Children's Developmental Disabilities Center at 105 Adams St., Quincy. The center serves children up to age 7 with development and physical disabilities. It also offers personal care attendant services through its Options Program throughout Southeastern Massachusetts.

Tympanette Micro-Canal Hearing Instrument Now Available

ASK ABOUT OUR 60 DAY TRIAL

Our office is happy to announce that we are now fitting a completely In-The-Canal hearing instrument. This remarkable new hearing aid is not only more discreet and comfortable to wear, it may also provide important hearing benefits because of its deep placement in the ear canal.

The Tympanette is the smallest hearing aid ever manufactured by Starkey Laboratories, the world's leading manufacturer of custom hearing instruments. Its extremely small size will be very popular, so call now for your hearing assessment and consultation.

Call today to schedule your appointment.

With The Tympanette micro-canal hearing aid, a breakthrough in hearing aid design, fits deep in the ear canal and is barely noticeable.

It Was A Year Of Steady Progress

ing a Quincy Center hotel.

In October, officials announced that Regency Holdings Inc., a Greek shipbuilding firm had agreed to a long-term lease at the shipyard to build cruise ships at the site.

Plans for yet another major project got underway in December when Sheets signed a lease to begin converting the former West Quincy landfill into a golf course/recreation area. The project had been announced in late 1993.

Other events kept citizens smiling as well. South Quincy rejoiced when the Early Childhood Center in its neighborhood was named after former Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa in March. West Quincy residents thrilled to the unveiling of a new statue in honor of the city's granite workers in October, and Quincy Point named a park after longtime Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro in November.

The entire city celebrated when it was thrown into the national spotlight by its burial of the remains of a Civil War soldier in

May.

The year was not without its losses. Officials announced in January that Procter & Gamble would close its Quincy Point soap plant as part of a major consolidation, and Quincy Savings Bank announced in June it was ending its nearly 150 years of independence because of a takeover by Citizens Bank.

Still, officials remained upbeat because of Citizens Bank's promise to be a good neighbor to the city and news in November that Haverhill-based Twin Rivers Technologies had bought the P&G facilities for the purpose of producing biodiesel fuel from soybeans there.

Likewise, news of Pneumatic Scale's plans to leave its longtime North Quincy site was not as bad as it may have been after the City Council in December granted a permit to Stop & Shop to build a supermarket there.

However, the city lost for good a beloved landmark when Kent's Carpet Outlet on Quincy Shore Drive was destroyed by fire in June.

Politically, the city welcomed Sean Barry to the School Committee after committee and City Council members named him to the seat. Barry was chosen over Christine Cedrone following their deadlock in the November 1993 city election.

The retirement of longtime Parks, Forestry and Cemetery Department Executive Director Raymond Cattaneo was announced in November. Cattaneo would be replaced by Thomas Koch, Sheets' executive secretary, while Purchasing Agent Michael McFarland replaced Koch. The purchasing position would be taken over by Alfred Grazioso, former owner of Grazioso's Deli Shoppe in Squantum.

One of Quincy's favorite daughters, Assistant City Clerk Patricia "Pat" Toland, died in September at the age of 62. Toland, a former School Committee and City Council member, had fought a long battle with cancer.

Joseph O'Reilly, 33, was gunned down outside his Quincy Shore Drive home that same month in what appeared to be a professional killing. The city had seen two murders in 1993.

Other deaths included Joseph R. Harold Sr., father of former state Sen. Paul Harold and DAV state adjutant officer for 40 years; Nora Gillis, mother of former City Clerk John Gillis; former Massachusetts state treasurer John F. Kennedy, two-time City Council candidate Walter J. Hickey, former Norfolk County deputy sheriff John H. Brownell and Muriel SEAN BARRY shook hands with Christine Cedrone after he was named to the School Committee in January. Barry was named to the seat after he Cedrone were deadlocked in votes after the November 1993 city election. Looking on was Cedrone's campaign manager, Vinny Scarnici.

Here's a look back at the 1994 major news stories in Quincy:

January

The new year was rung in with the city's second annual First Night celebration which drew an estimated 20,000 people.

During his third inaugural address, Mayor James Sheets unveiled plans for, among other things, reorganization of city government, expansion of Quincy's war against crime including a new special police drug unit, and strengthening of the city's economy.

The mayor also said that he planned to restore manpower to the fire department, introduce a long-range master plan for education in the city, and bring more retail stores to Quincy. Sheets dubbed 1994 "the Year of the Family" and added that Quincy would see an increase in family-oriented celebrations and activities.

Councillor Michael Cheney was elected the new City Council president and Daniel Raymond was elected new vice chairman of the School Committee.

Among the councillors who Cheney appointed to top committee posts were Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson, who became chairman of the Ordinance Committee; Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio, who assumed chairmanship of the Finance Committee and Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers, who became chairman of the Public Safety Committee.

U.S. Rep Gerry Studds disputed an Environmental Protection Study of Massachusetts Water Resources Authority water and sewer rates that suggested MWRA ratepayers' bills were not that high when compared to the rest of the country. Studds said the rates are among the highest in the United States.

Quincy Savings Bank President Charles Simpson was elected chairman of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors.

Denis Tardo a member of the Quincy Board of Registrars, announced he would seek the Republican nomination for secretary of state.

Less than two weeks into the new year, the city's FY94 snow and ice removal budget of $300,000 had been spent after consistently stormy winter weather.

The Quincy Police Department began a new Crime Fighters Hot Line (328-4527) to allow residents to report suspected criminal activity in the city.

The Quincy city clerk's office mailed out approximately 40,000 annual forms.

Blockbuster Video announced it would open a new store at the site of the former Colman's Sporting Goods in Quincy Center.

Developers of a Home Quarters home improvement store on the Braintree-West Quincy line withdrew their plans from the city, but said they planned to resubmit them in the future.

Cheney appointed a special task force to increase the efficiency of the city's snow plowing operations, as well as public safety, during the winter months.

Plans were unveiled for a 60,000 square foot retail shopping center at the site of the former Grossman's

Sheets Signs Lease For W.Q. Golf Course

Mayor James Sheets has signed a lease to begin converting the former West Quincy landfill into a 250-acre golf course and recreation complex.

The mayor signed the lease at a press conference last Thursday.

Sheets' signature means that Quarry Hills Associates of Quincy may start negotiating for a share of the fill from Boston's Central Artery ("Big Dig") project.

A key factor in the success of the golf course project is getting the clay and dirt from the Central Artery endeavor. Even if that happens, officials do not expect the golf course to be ready until at least 1999.

Sheets said he feels confident the city will be able to secure the fill.

"I think the chances (of securing the fill) are good," he said. "I think there's enough fill out there, and we're close enough to the Big Dig that we should be able to help cut down on transportation costs."

Construction of the $10 million complex, which will also include a driving range, baseball and softball fields, skating facilities and hiking trails, is expected to take around four or five years.

The 25-page lease was signed two weeks ago by Quarry Hills President Charles Geilich before being sent to Sheets. The document went through more than two dozen drafts over a period of several months.

Under the terms of the 50-year lease, the city will receive 10 percent of the annual profits from the golf course, driving range and rental of function facilities. Through this agreement, Quincy is expected to get to get between $100,000 and $200,000 annually and although Quarry Hills will build and maintain the seven athletic fields and other recreation areas, the city will get use of them for free.

The final version of the lease allows Sheets the opportunity to veto the project after the state Department of Environmental Protection has approved it if he is dissatisfied with any component of the project. In addition, it spells out clearly that the DEP must sign off on the project every step of the way.

The City Council has also viewed the final version, and all members appear to be satisfied, according to officials.

It has not yet been decided whether the Town of Milton will sign on the project. The town has proposed leasing its adjacent landfill, which is slated for closure, and expanding the golf course to 27 holes.

The mayor said he won't mind including Milton, providing that the partnership does not delay construction of the recreation facility.

"Obviously our responsibilities are to Quincy, but I'm not against including Milton," he said.

MAYOR JAMES SHEETS signed the lease to begin the conversion of the former West Quincy landfill into a new golf course/recreation area at a press conference last Thursday. Looking on from left are Ward 4 City Councillor Thomas Fabrizio, developer Bill O'Connell of Quarry Hills Associates of Quincy, Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien, state Rep. Michael Bellotti and Sen. Michael Morrissey.

Central Senate Campaign Aids Nine Families

The Student Senate at Central Middle School recently spearheaded a drive which has become an annual activity.

Each Senate representative chaired an activity to raise enough money to clothe nine families.

Bake sales, a silent auction, candy cane sale, a dance, a fair, a shoot-out, hat day, teddy bear and a football (signed by Todd Rucci of the New England Patriots) raffle, and a popcorn sale were among the fund-raisers.

The goal was to raise $1,500 and the various activities allowed the students to go over the top.

The project has been labeled Care and Share. Students knew in advance the sizes of the people to be clothed and whether the items for which they shopped were for boys, girls or adults. Each team of students and teachers elected the shoppers. From the experience they learned to purchase slacks, a top and a jacket within a stipulated budget.

Senate officers this year are Brendan Griffin, mayor; Betsy Stone, deputy mayor; Elizabeth Ashworth, secretary and Joseph Watson, treasurer.

The Senate meets regularly Monday mornings before school. Senate advisor is Mary Catherine Iannoni, head guidance counselor.

Mary Vallier, a 79-year-old great-grandmother who has devoted her life to aiding battered women and abused children, was named The Quincy Sun's 1993 "Citizen of the Year."

The Quincy City Store, which raises funds for the city through the sale of surplus items from various city departments, opened at the Fore River Shipyard.

Procter & Gamble announced it would close its Quincy Point soap plant as part of its plan to consolidate its manufacturing operations around the world. City officials vowed to find a new owner for the site as well as to aid the 330 laid-off plant employees in any way possible.

Mike McFarland, owner of Barry's Deli in Wollaston, was appointed by Sheets to serve as Quincy's new purchasing agent-parking clerk. McFarland replaced Robert Denver Jr., who retired after 12 years with the city. (The retirement, however, would not be official until Feb. 4.)

City and Quincy 2000 officials announced plans to construct the Quincy Center Concourse, an east-west roadway in Quincy Center that would connect Burgin Parkway with Hancock Street.

A Constitutional Convention of City Council and School Committee members appointed Quincy College Director of Public Affairs Sean Barry to the lone remaining School Committee seat left over from the November 1993 election. The convention had to fill the seat after Barry and office manager Christine Cedrone tied after a four-day recount that followed the election.

February

Eight of nine city councillors expressed at least tentative support of the proposed Quincy Center Concourse project that would link Burgin Parkway with Hancock Street in Quincy Center. Councillor Timothy Cahill said he would prefer to see construction of a smaller roadway connecting Burgin Parkway to the Parkingway.

U.S. Rep. Gerry Studds and a contingent of Massachusetts water and sewer ratepayers went to Washington, D.C. to press their case for more federal money for the Boston Harbor cleanup. With Clinton administration officials.

Gov. William Weld came to Quincy to officially announce his plans for serious punishment for a number of criminal offenses, including the reinstatement of the death penalty for those who commit first-degree murder.

In a separate trip to Quincy, Weld expressed support of the Quincy Center Concourse and other planned projects in the city.

Nineteen-year-old Sean Hynes of Quincy pleaded innocent in the shooting death of his best friend, 18-year-old John Auger of Weymouth. Hynes claimed the shooting was an accident.

Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson reintroduced his proposal for a new ordinance that would require all city employees to be residents of Quincy.

Quincy police investigated a possible link between two people arrested on arson and related charges in Whitman with a rash of garage fires in South Quincy.

The Quincy License Board granted McDonald's Restaurant at 473 Southern Artery permission to operate a 24-hour drive-through window seven days a week.

Mayor James Sheets announced that the city could exceed its FY94 snow and ice removal budget by as much as $1 million because of the extremely snowy winter of 1993-94.

Dr. Robert Fogel, winner of the 1993 Nobel Prize in Economics and father of Steve Fogel, owner of Steve's Beale Street Diner in Wollaston, was a guest speaker during Central Middle School's "Step Into Society Week."

Quincy's Karen Cashman won a bronze medal as part of the U.S. short-track speedskating relay team during the Winter Olympics in Lillehammer, Norway.

Sheets proposed a 50-year lease for a planned recreation complex-golf course that had first been announced in late 1993.

Sheets announced he would send an ordinance to the City Council for the establishment of a Quincy Family Commission. The commission would provide a database of information at the touch of a button for needy Quincy families.

"Clausius Burrows Day" was celebrated in honor of a 9-year-old burn victim from the Bahamas whose life had been saved with the help of a number of Quincy officials.

City and library officials announced that the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Center had agreed to buy a nearby parcel of land from a local businessman for the purpose of eventually building an addition to the library.

The city made plans to conduct an investigation into whether it could revoke federal firearms licenses issued to gun dealers who operated out of residential neighborhoods.

State Rep. Ronald Mariano said he and Rep. Michael Morrissey would lead the fight on the Studds, along with Sens. Edward Kennedy and John Kerry, wrote to Procter & Gamble officials asking that P & G workers left unemployed by the closing of the company's Quincy plant be given some assistance in getting back on their feet.

The city rejected the state's choice plan after School Supt. Eugene Creedon said Quincy should not participate because current and projected enrollments showed overcrowded conditions in the city's elementary and middle schools. The plan allows students from one community to attend schools in another without paying tuition if space is available.

Johnson Files Suit For Reinstatement

(Cont'd From Page 13)

March

A major portion of the vacant Jordan Marsh Warehouse in North

Quincy was leased to Reebok International of Stoughton for storage use.

Attorneys for Dr. O. Clayton Johnson announced that the former Quincy College president had filed a lawsuit in Superior Court in an attempt to be reinstated as president of the college. Johnson had been fired by School Supt. Eugene Creedon in September 1993 after accusations of insubordination and mismanagement.

After reviewing a series of statements by 19-year-old Sean Hynes of Quincy and two friends, a prosecutor ruled that Hynes' shooting of his best friend, 18-year-old John Auger of Weymouth, was not accidental. Hynes would possibly face second-degree murder rather than manslaughter charges.

U.S. Rep. Gerry Studds asked the Coast Guard to conduct a study of CITGO's openings of the Fore River drawbridge and their effect on traffic on Route 3A.

The 465-foot USNS Southern Cross arrived at the Fore River shipyard. The ship was to be the first placed at the planned U.S. Naval and Shipbuilding Museum at the site.

The City Council unanimously voted to support Mayor James Sheets' home-rule petition to establish an independent board of trustees as the new governing body over Quincy College. The college traditionally had been governed by the School Committee.

Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro was taken to Quincy Hospital after suffering a heart attack. After suffering a stroke three days later, he was transferred first to South Shore Hospital in Weymouth and subsequently to Braintree Hospital.

The City Council agreed to allow the Home Depot store in West Quincy to build a 5,200 square foot addition as well as a 5,000 square foot greenhouse inside its existing garden center.

Pilgrim Health Care announced it would move its headquarters from Norwell to the Crown Colony Office Park in West Quincy. City officials said the move would reap economic benefits for the city through property taxes and other revenues.

In order to make up for missed snow days, Creedon recommended extended closing dates of June 27 for secondary schools and June 30 for elementary schools. Originally, all schools were to close June 24.

City Council President Michael Cheney introduced an aggressive program to collect back property taxes owed to the city.

The School Committee voted unanimously to name the new Early Childhood Center in South Quincy after former Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa.

The Massachusetts Highway Department introduced plans to implement a six-mile high occupancy vehicle lane on the Southeast Expressway between Furnace Brook Parkway and Freeport Street beginning in October.

State Environmental Affairs Secretary Trudy Cox ruled the City of Boston must prepare an Environmental Impact Report detailing its use of a gun range site at Moon Island. The city had earlier clashed with Quincy over the island, which is owned by Boston but falls within Quincy city limits.

Sheets attended a week-long international conference of mayors in Jerusalem.

Quincy Sun 1993 Citizen of the Year Mary Vallier was honored at a reception at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center.

A Hingham developer proposed building a $20 million shopping mall in Quincy Point. Sources at City Hall said the anchor store for the mall would be Wal-Mart. Sheets said he would only support such a project if there were evidence it would not adversely affect downtown merchants.

The City Council unanimously voted to support a home-rule petition allowing Sheets to enter into a lease agreement for a proposed golf course and recreation complex at the former landfill site in West Quincy.

A Conference Committee consisting of City Council and School Committee members was established for the purpose of drafting a home-rule petition regarding the funding of school programs in the city.

Gov. William Weld, during a trip to Quincy, pledged $22.3 million to help combat the problem of domestic violence in Massachusetts.

Sheets said the city's parking system would undergo some changes after the beginning of FY95 in July, one of which would be the implementation of free parking on the ground level of the Ross Parking Garage in Quincy Center.

During a trip to Quincy, Sen Edward Kennedy expressed confidence that President Clinton's universal health care bill would soon be passed into law.

West Quincy residents vowed to challenge a Federal Aviation Administration ruling that a 700-foot communications tower in their neighborhood would not be harmful to air traffic.

William Barry, 48, of Houghs Neck was killed in a hit-and-run accident in front of the American Legion Post on Sea Street.

Other deaths in March included: Nora M. Gillette, 94, retired Quincy City Hospital nurse's aide and mother of former Quincy City Clerk John Gillis; Paul O. Pietila, 66, retired Fore River shipyard welder; Everett A. Tautau, 71, former Patriot Ledger chief photographer; Bernard F. Carroll, 51, retired Quincy police officer; Virginia L. MacLeod, 74, former Quincy Police Department clerk; Robert M. Pearson, 57, Quincy Water and Sewer Department foreman; John A. Evans, 83, founding principal of Atlantic Junior High School in North Quincy; Daniel DiBona Sr., retired Quincy stone cutter; Charles D. Polli, 91, manager of the first Howard Johnson ice cream stand in Wollaston.

April

Mayor James Sheets' home-rule petition to establish an independent board of trustees as the new governing body over Quincy College received a favorable recommendation from the state Joint Committee on Local Affairs.

Sheets expressed an interest in the city taking over the Hancock Parking Lot and Ross Parking Garage in Quincy Center.

Officials announced that Quincy's Olympic bronze medalist, Karen Cashman, would be grand marshal of the city's annual Flag Day Parade in June.

Seven new police officers were sworn in as members of the Quincy Police Department at a City Hall ceremony.

The Quincy Health Department began an extensive anti-smoking program in the city.

A Buddhist group that had been holding services in a residential home in Wollaston announced it would purchase the former Montello's function hall in Quincy Point for the site of its new temple.

Building Inspector Matthias Mulvey said his undermanned department could use as many as four new employees. Sheets said the city did not have the money for such requests.

WJDA, the Quincy radio station that first went on the air in 1947, began broadcasting 24 hours a day.

At a City Hall ceremony,

Summer Crime Crackdown Planned

for a gun buyback program in Quincy similar to one run earlier in Boston.

Peter Kelly, owner of Kelly's in the Square in Quincy Center, unofficially vacated his premises without notifying the city. Officials said a search would begin immediately for a new tenant for the site.

Quincy Hospital Director Ellen Zane announced she would leave the hospital in May to join a new Boston health care network. Officials said Hospital Chief Operating Officer Neil Stroman would be in charge of the hospital until a new director was found.

City officials announced that the skeletal remains of an unidentified Civil War soldier found in Quincy would be given a proper burial at Mount Wollaston Cemetery during Memorial Day weekend in May.

A new teen center known as "The Teen Getaway" opened at two sites in Quincy: the South Shore YMCA in Quincy Center and Quincy Community United Methodist Church.

Sheets and Police Chief Francis Mullen announced plans for a serious crackdown in crime during the upcoming summer months. Increased police manpower, as well as the additions of 10 new motorcycles, two mountain bicycles and a K-9 unit would help lead the cause, they said.

Gov. William Weld, during his fourth trip to Quincy in as many months, suggested that the City of Boston consider moving a police gun range at Moon Island to another site. Boston officials, however, quickly responded by saying that would be impossible. Boston had earlier clashed with Quincy over the site, which is owned by Boston but falls within Quincy city limits.

United First Parish Church in Quincy Center held a memorial service for the late U.S. President Richard M. Nixon.

Twelve tons of concrete fell from the top of Wollaston Chambers on Newport Avenue. Officials said the accident was caused by a combination of the apartment building's age and an especially icy winter. No one was hurt in the incident.

The city celebrated

"Karen Cashman Day" in honor of the city's Olympic bronze medalist. Ceremonies were held at North Quincy High School and the Quincy Neighborhood Club, and Cashman and her family were treated to a trolley tour of Quincy's historic sites.

Central Middle School, part of the Quincy school system for many years, and The Woodward School, a private school for girls, both celebrated their 100th anniversaries.

The city began making long-awaited improvements to the sea wall in Houghs Neck.

For environmental reasons, the City Council passed an ordinance banning the feeding of ducks and other waterfowl at Sailors Home Pond in Wollaston.

Deaths in April included: Carolyn R. Keenan, 44, longtime Quincy Civil Defense volunteer; Rocco J. Della Barba, 78, retired plumber; Alice F. Mochen, 70, veteran of the Coast Guard Spars; Lisa M. McNulty, 27, former homemaker; Marianna Marinelli, 91, owner of the Villa Rosa Restaurant in Quincy; Edward F. Gallagher, 75, retired Quincy fire lieutenant; Paul R. O'Leary, 73, retired Quincy police officer; Eileen H. Rugg, 44, Quincy school teacher for 22 years.

Sheets Proposes Budget With No New Taxes

May

Mayor James Sheets' proposed FY94 municipal budget of $133,652,802 called for no new property taxes, something Sheets said had not happened since former Mayor Francis McCauley's administration in the early 1980s.

However, Ward 4 City Councillor Thomas Fabrizio, chairman of the council's Finance Committee, said the no-tax budget was still subject to the committee's scrutiny and might be trimmed during budget sessions.

For the first time since suffering a heart attack and stroke in March, Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro returned to City Hall for a City Council meeting. However, DeCristofaro only made an appearance at the meeting to present a special commendation to outgoing Quincy Hospital Director Ellen Zane.

Braintree Democrat Bernard Walsh announced he would challenge Sen. Michael Morrissey for his state Senate seat in the September primary election.

Republican Steven Williams of Quincy announced he would challenge Rep. Stephen Tobin for his seat in the final election in November.

The Quincy License Board revoked all licenses owned by Peter Kelly, former proprietor of Kelly's in the Square, following his disappearance from the city a month earlier.

The City Council voted to support an Early Retirement Plan for teachers. Officials said under provisions of the state Education Reform Act, the plan would save the school system $28,141 for each employee over a 15-year period. The School Committee had voted to support the plan in April.

By the end of May, however, city officials were hoping to withdraw from the Early Retirement Plan following reports that the state's revised formula for the plan would cost, rather than save, money for participating communities.

A new Ward 4 Community Center opened at the site of the recently-built Early Childhood Center in South Quincy.

Hingham developer Donald MacKinnon said his proposed Wal-Mart store near The Falls condominium complex in Quincy Point would benefit Quincy Center by creating business that would spill over into the city's downtown shopping area. Downtown merchants, however, said Quincy Center businesses would be hurt by the store.

Officials announced they would seek a vehicular homicide charge against 41-year-old Marianne Sullivan of Germantown. A 71-year-old Quincy woman was killed in October 1993 by a police cruiser that was pursuing Sullivan's car.

The City Council voted to rezone the Pneumatic Scale site in North Quincy from Industrial "B" zoning to Planned Unit Development (PUD).

Home Quarters withdrew plans for a new store on the Braintree-West

Quincy line from the city. Officials, however, said they still planned to build the store, and all construction would take place in Braintree.

The Merrymount School PTO received top honors in the Quincy Department of Public Works' third annual Community Service Contest.

City Council President Michael Cheney was criticized by three colleagues—Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien, Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan and Councillor Timothy Cahill—for allowing a carnival to be moved to site in Ward 3 without notifying other councillors. Cheney apologized, saying the first site chosen could not be used and the carnival had to be relocated at the last minute.

The remains of a Civil War soldier were given a final, fitting burial at Mount Wollaston Cemetery. The remains had been found in Natick and subsequently obtained by officials at the U.S. Naval and Shipbuilding Museum in Quincy. The burial and procession were covered by both local and national media sources.

Former School Committee candidate Christine Cedrone was named by Gov. William Weld to succeed Rosemary Wahlberg on the Quincy Housing Authority Board of Commissioners.

Ex-POW Robert Noble of Quincy was guest speaker at the city's Memorial Day exercises at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

A "Quincy Peace Festival" was held at Pageant Field and the Ruth Gordon Amphitheater to mark the beginning of Violence Prevention Awareness Week in the city.

A "Houghs Neck History Day" was held at the (Cont'd On Page 18)

after the late mayor. City officials said the name would be more prominently displayed on the school building itself.

Adams National Historic Site officials announced they expected a 20 percent increase in tourist attendance over its previous season.

The Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Center closed a $625,000 deal to purchase a building and property on Washington Street next to the library. Library officials had announced earlier in the year they planned to buy the property.

The City Council approved FY94 pay raises for themselves, Sheets and other non-union city employees.

Officials searched Granite Quarry for a missing Irish student who reportedly was drinking with a friend in Boston before going to the quarry, but found nothing.

Deaths in June included: Phyllis E. Cassidy, 97, retired Quincy school teacher; Florence M. Ranieri, 74, supervisor at the former Sear's in Quincy Center; William J. Doyle, 36, owned and operated Total Home Care in Quincy; Patricia A. Tehan, 56, retired Quincy Hospital nurse; Joseph Schepmoes, 87, worked at Fore River shipyard; Richard J. Brennan, 60, retired Quincy Police officer; Timothy P. MacNaught, 34, case manager for South Shore Mental Health; Corrine E. Pavidis, 72, former Bargain Center saleswoman; Leanne Neenan, 9, third grade pupil at Sacred Heart School in North Quincy, of a brain tumor.

July

Gov. William Weld signed into law home-rule petitions that would pave the way for a new system of governance at Quincy College and construction of a golf course/recreation facility in West Quincy.

Quincy Animal League President John McDuff said he would appear before the City Council in September to lobby for a law which would prohibit the use of animals in any circus or carnival permitted to appear in Quincy.

A carnival scheduled to be held as a fund-raiser for the city's First Night event was postponed to avoid competition with the Quincy Center Sidewalk Festival.

The U.S. House of Representatives and Senate approved a $230,000 request from U.S. Rep. Gerry Studds for United First Parish Church in Quincy Center and the Adams National Historic Site.

Officials at United First Parish announced that the church needed nearly $5 million in major renovations.

Astro, the 9-year-old schnauzer owned Mayor James Sheets and his family, died of prostate cancer.

Quincy's population grew from 86,343 in 1993 to 87,171. The new figure included 15.04 percent minority residents, of which more than 12 percent were Asians.

Weld was among the just under 2,000 people who attended the second annual City of Presidents Blues Festival at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Ward 2 City Councilor Ted DeCristofaro urged Weld to deprivatize the operation of the Fore River bridge after two passengers on an MBTA bus were injured after a bridge operator accidentally opened the gate of the bridge at the wrong time. State Rep. Ronald Mariano, expressing similar concerns, had earlier called for an investigation of the accident.

U.S. Transportation Secretary Federico Pena toured the inactive Fore River shipyard along with Studds, who expressed optimism about the shipyard's future.

State Police officials agreed to reinstate foot patrols at Wollaston Beach to control rowdy activity by local teenagers. Previously, Mayor James Sheets had indicated interest in a curfew for teens at the beach.

The firm of Byrne McKinney and Associates was hired to complete a real estate appraisals report regarding the condominiums at The Falls complex in Quincy Point. The report was supposed to determine what, if any, economic impact a proposed Wal-Mart store would have if it were built at a site close to the condos.

T.J. Maxx announced it would move from its location on the Parking-way to a shopping complex being built at the former Grossman's site on Granite Street.

Oppressive heat and humidity caused a low customer turnout at the 24th annual Quincy Center Sidewalk Festival sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

City Council President Michael Cheney, in his capacity as acting mayor, gave Building Inspector Matthias Mulvey a one-day suspension for allegedly defying an executive order and opening a building department employee's mail. Mulvey denied the charge, and Sheets subsequently said the suspension never took place because an acting mayor does not have that authority.

Former School Committee candidate Christine Cedrone officially took her position on the Quincy Housing Authority Board of Commissioners. Cedrone was chosen by Weld in May to fill the seat.

Sheets announced Wollaston Beach would receive $4 million for various improvements as part of a $30 million bond issue approved by the Massachusetts House of Representatives and Senate.

Officials at the U.S. Naval Shipbuilding Museum at Quincy Point secured a buyer for $6.6 million that would finance the museum's opening, although the name of the buyer was not disclosed.

PRETTY PATRIOTISM—Courtney Snyder, 5, and Brittany Concannon, 3 1/2, participated in the doll carriage-decorating contest at the Fore River Clubhouse Field Day. Brittany was chosen "Miss Fourth of July" at the event.

Bank of Boston officials subsequently announced they would supply $1.1 million to help shipbuilding museum officials bring the USS Salem, which would be the centerpiece of the museum, to Quincy.

Ralph DiPisa, chief operating officer at Brockton Hospital, was chosen to become Quincy Hospital's new director beginning in September.

Officials announced member of Quincy College's new governing board of trustees would be chosen Aug. 30.

A playground at the Germantown Neighborhood Center was dedicated in honor of Charlene McDonald, former director of the center and a longtime community volunteer.

For the first time in its history, the Quincy Housing Authority hired a full-time legal counselor. The attorney chosen was Patricia Hunt of Quincy.

Deaths in July included:

William F. McEachern, 73, retired Quincy fire lieutenant; Edward J. Ferrigno, former welding supervisor at the Fore River shipyard; Karen E. Manna, 17; Esther Hadley, 80, longtime Wollaston School vice president and teacher; Elizabeth T. Patterson, 89, former Quincy Hospital bookkeeper; James P. Donovan, 70, former Quincy Water Department superintendent; Joseph Serafini, 87, former Quincy Savings Bank director; William F. Greene, 62, retired Quincy Water Department foreman; Dr. Donald C. MacLeod, 67, Quincy dentist for 38 years; Muriel Lyon Woelfel, 83, The Quincy Sun's first typesetter.

mandated cab medallions. Citing personal reasons, City Councillor Timothy Cahill again sold his Quincy Center business, Handshakes Cafe. Cahill had sold the cafe in early 1993 but bought it back later in the year after business started going down.

Despite a state decision allowing the City of Boston to bring explosive devices to Moon Island in Squantum for detonation, Mayor James Sheets said Quincy would continue to fight Boston's use of the island for such purposes.

Gov. William Weld, Lt. Gov. Paul Cellucci and members of Weld's cabinet visited a number of Quincy sites as part of the administration's Cabinet Day. It was Weld's fifth trip to Quincy this year.

Officials from Shaw's Supermarkets announced they were still interested in building a store at the site of the former Boston Gear Works. Shaw's had withdrawn a request to do so in 1993 after city councillors said they would opposed the project.

Quincy lost a legal suit that had been started as an attempt to change the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority's methodology of charging water and sewer rates, but city officials said they hoped to appeal the decision.

The second phase of the "Walk of Names" brick project in front of City Hall began, as personalized bricks were made available to the public for purchase.

Four city councillors publicly stated their plans to back the proposed Granite Crossing shopping center project—which would include a Wal-Mart store—near The Falls condominium complex in Quincy Point. They were: Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro, whose ward would be home to the site as well as Councillor Timothy Cahill, Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien and Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio.

Heron Road Park in Adams Shore was renamed after the late Arthur Boyson, former president of the Adams Shore Association, at a special ceremony. Boyson had helped establish the site.

William J. Cullinane Jr., a Boston Police officer and North Quincy resident, was shot by a prisoner in the Roxbury Area B Station. Cullinane, who had been trying to help the man by loosening his handcuffs, eventually recovered.

Sen. Michael Morrissey urged MDC Commissioner Ilyas Bhatti to purchase the former site of Kena's Carpetland and make it open space. The store had been destroyed by a fire in June.

City officials announced that Kinney Systems Inc. of Boston would become the new manager of Quincy's parking system. The deal meant a possible annual profit of $185,000 for the city.

Weld, making his sixth appearance in Quincy this year, announced the state would give Quincy a $2 million grant for repairs to Newport Avenue.

A five-man appointing council chose 11 people out of a field of 87 candidates to sit on Quincy College's new 13-member governing board of trustees. The other two board members would be Fabrizio and School Committee member Ronald Mariano.

Sheets announced that planned improvements to the Ross Parkway should be completed by next spring.

Quincy High School began a new ban on students' wearing hats and coats in school during school hours. Officials said they were concerned about safety in the schools because of the possibility of students carrying weapons in long coats and other reasons.

The Seaside Advocacy Group in Germantown opened a food pantry for low-income families in Quincy's Ward 1.

Deaths in August included: Laurie A. Goguen, 38, former South Shore Bank employee; Pauline E. Tyler, former office clerk and Quincy Senior Olympian; Eugene L. Ronayne, 67, retired Quincy elementary school assistant principal; Sister Agnes Hynes, director of religious education at St. Ann's School in Wollaston; Karin A. Murphy, 20, student, in a car accident; William F. Lomanno, 77, worked at Fore River shipyard; John G. Butts, 65, retired Boston Police officer; Fanie Marinilli, 50, electrical engineer and founder of the Italian International Sports Club in Quincy; Rosemary A. Hitchcock, 60, owned Mr. Kelly's Restaurant in Quincy Point for 25 years; Robert D. Hosmer, 66, owner of Murphy's Liquor Store in North Quincy.

September

Patricia "Pat" Toland, Quincy's assistant city clerk and former member of the School Committee and City Council, died at New England Deaconess Hospital in Boston after a long battle with cancer.

Mayor James Sheets voiced support of construction of the Granite Crossing shopping center, which would include a Wal-Mart store, near The Falls condominium complex in Quincy Point. The project, which was approved by a number of governmental bodies, would receive final approval from the City Council at the end of the month.

A special Mass was held at St. John's Church in memory of Mark Charbonnier, a 31-year-old state trooper from Norwell who sometimes served as a state police prosecutor at Quincy District Court. Charbonnier was gunned down during a routine traffic stop.

Quincy developer Peter O'Connell purchased the Quincy Bay Inn in North Quincy. Officials said the

"AFTER YOU'VE BEEN in one aspect of government for a while, you become interested in the entire picture," said Patricia "Pat" Toland after being elected to the City Council in 1981. building would be turned into a first-class hotel.

City Councillor Joseph LaRaia and Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio called for the removal of all graffiti in the city.

A dedication ceremony was held to mark the completion of the first phase of the "Walk of Names" project in front of City Hall.

Officials announced that Decelle, a Braintree-based retailer owned by Burlington Coat Factory, had signed a letter of intent to move into the site of the former Child World and Cummings stores in Quincy Center.

The state Legislature enacted a $300 million funding package for local roadway construction, including $2,933,156 for Quincy.

A memorial was dedicated at Avalon and Baker Avenues in honor of Tom Murray, a lifelong resident of Quincy Point.

State Sen. Michael Morrissey announced that Gov. William Weld had designated the Fore River shipyard an Economic Target Area under the provisions of the Economic Development Law which passed the Legislature last year. The designation made the shipyard eligible for tax incentives and development help in revitalizing the site.

Quincy's Uncle Sam Rounseville stood in the waters at Wollaston Beach for his "Sink or Swim" drive to boost voter registration. The effort helped achieve a 29.2 percent voter turnout in the September primary election, which was a little higher than predicted.

In the primary election, Quincy was in step with most state communities by giving Mitt Romney the Republican nomination for U.S. Senate, Mark Roosevelt the Democratic nomination for the governor's race, and incumbent Gerry Studds the Democratic nomination for U.S. Representative.

On the local front, incumbent Democrat Morrissey easily rolled by his challenger, Bernard Walsh of Braintree. The victory ensured his re-election, since Morrissey would be unchallenged in the final election in November. Other members of Quincy's Legislative delegation were unopposed in the primary.

The Quincy Police Department announced the start of two new programs—year. The designation made the shipyard eligible Officials announced the launching of the Quincy 2000 Loan Pool, designed to help existing businesses expand and to bring new businesses to the city.

Rosemary Wahlberg was honored at a special farewell dinner in honor of her 15 years of service on the Quincy Housing Authority Board of Commissioners.

The new 13-member Quincy College Board of Governors was officially installed at a ceremony at the Common Market Restaurant. School Committee Vice Chairman Daniel Raymond was chosen as the board's chairman.

A new four classroom addition was officially dedicated at the Bernazzani Elementary School in West Quincy.

Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers established a school zone task force in North Quincy to help make safer traffic conditions around the city's school buildings.

More than 250 volunteers worked on a number of improvement projects, including the painting and refurbishing of fences and buildings, cleaning of parks and other endeavors, during an event called the Quincy Serve-A-Thon.

Joseph G. O'Reilly, 33, was shot to death outside his home on Quincy Shore Drive.

Other deaths in September included: Theresa M. Cerilli, 61, former Fleet Bank employee; Alfred I. Elkhill, 82, retired Pneumatic Scale pattern maker; William M. Donovan, 39, former Quincy school teacher; Edna J. MacIntyre, 82, deaconess at First Church of Squantum; M. Ena Fredette, retired Quincy school teacher; Ruth I. MacDougall, 75, former Granite Bank assistant treasurer; Richard

A. Hendry, 77, yacht rigger for many years; Mildred E. Connick, 61, Quincy Nursing Home housing supervisor; Joseph J. Petitti Sr., 85, retired head carpenter for the City of Quincy.

October

Officials announced that Regency Holdings Inc., a Greek shipbuilding company had agreed to a long-term lease at the Fore River shipyard to build cruise ships at the site.

Raiders Cruise Past Seekonk, 10-0

By KERRY BYRNE

The North Quincy High School hockey team cruised to an easy 10-0 win over Seekonk Monday night at the Quincy Youth Arena.

The Red Raiders (3-1) sandwiched two five-goal bursts around a scoreless and lackluster second period.

"This was a good win for us," said North Quincy head coach Tom Benson. "It gives us two points towards the state tournament and a lot of our young guys scored their first goal, so they're pretty excited right now."

Red Raiders winger A.J. Carthas opened the scoring just 30 seconds into the contest when linemates Brendan O'Brien and Jim Kelley fed him the puck which he whistled past Seekonk's (0-5) freshman netminder Jared Dziedzic. Kelley, O'Brien, Rob Callow and Jim Coleman also scored in the first period as North Quincy put massive pressure on the young Warriors. North peppered the Seekonk goaltender with 11 shots in the first period without giving up one. Seekonk did not get their first shot on goal until the 4:56 mark of the second period. In all, the Raiders outshot the Warriors 39-5.

"They were a bit of a small and young team," said Benson. "They just couldn't keep up."

When Seekonk, which had just two seniors on the squad, did get hold of the puck they tended to dump it into the North zone which resulted in a slew of icing calls against the Warriors.

Goals were netted in the third period by Carthas, Kelley, Tim Zaniboni, Matt Jarnis and sophomore Bill Barron. The Barron tally came with just seven seconds left in the contest as he hit a wobbly floater that went over the goalies head and into the net.

First-liners Kelley (two goals, two assists), O'Brien (one goal, three assists) and Carthas (two goals) combined for ten points in the contest.

Dan Stone, Josh Wingate and Chris Geary each chalked up two assists. Callow and Rich Perona notched single assists.

Coach Benson had words of praise for sophomores Barron, Dan Stock and Brian Beaton. Beaton recorded the shutout in goal.

North Quincy was scheduled to travel to Taunton last night (Wednesday) for a 6 p.m. game. They play against Westwood Friday afternoon at 2:30 in Canton.

Nolan Drafted By Toronto Maple Leafs

Doug Nolan, son of Paul and Louise Nolan of Houghs Neck, was drafted by the Toronto Maple Leafs earlier this year.

Last season he was an ace left winger for Division 1 state champion Catholic Memorial, widely regarded as the best high school hockey team in the United States.

Nolan is currently playing junior hockey for the Springfield Olympics and studying at Springfield Technical Community College. He hopes to attend a Division 1 Hockey East school next season.

Nolan began his hockey career as an "ankle bender" in the Quincy Youth Hockey mite program.

His sisters, Jenna and Brianna, and brother, Brian, are involved in the Quincy Youth Hockey program.

Jaehnig Baseball Club In Indoor League Finals

A 9-0 win over Walpole put the Jaehnig Chiropractic Club 10-year-old baseball team into the finals of the Bridgewater Dome Fall Indoor Baseball League.

Left-handed slugger Keith Doherty powered the win with two three-run homers to deep right field.

Chris Lockhead pitched five innings of shutout ball. Doherty's first shot knocked John Fidalgo, who had singled, and Pat Jaehnig, who had walked. The low line drive nearly punctured a hole in the dome wall.

In the third inning, two walks preceded Doherty's second blast.

The Jaehnig Club put the game away with three runs in the sixth inning.

Jackie Liuzzo, Phil McGillicuddy and Chris Ham cracked RBIs.

Lockhead gave up just three hits and no walks while striking out four.

Justin Hall mopped up in the last inning by fanning two of the three batters he faced.

Fidalgo clubbed two base hits and Hall hit a double. Mark Maher walked three times.

Pat Bregoli saved the shutout with a running catch in the right field. Ham, Liuzzo, Jaehnig and McGillicuddy also played well defensively.

Basketball

North Freshmen Girls Off To Hot Start

The North Quincy High School girls' freshmen basketball team has opened the season with a 2-1 record, including impressive wins over Plymouth South and Notre Dame.

Ten different Red Raiders scored as they blasted Plymouth South, 72-17, in the first game of the year. The North girls shot 75 percent from the foul line.

Their most recent game was a 39-20 win over

Notre Dame.

North was shaky in the first half before increased intensity on defense helped them break the game open. Jocelyn West grabbed 18 steals. Eight different players scored due to a defense that led to 80 percent of the Red Raider offense.

Sandwiched between the two wins was a 40-33 loss to Brockton. Again, eight players registered in the scoring column.

The North frosh team includes West, Aimee Groleau, Kris Keohane, Kerry Skehan, Laurie Flynn, Meg O'Donnell, Erin Rooney, Kate Johnson, Alanna McDonough, Sharon Lee, Amanda McClory, Kelly Fernandez, Maura O'Brien, Francesca Lorenzano and Mary Travers. The team administrators are Kelly McVeigh and Sue Ellen Wong.

Rec. Dept. Exercise Classes

The Quincy Recreation Department will conduct women's fitness classes at the Fore River Clubhouse Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings beginning Jan. 4.

Classes will be held at 8:45 and 9:45. They will include exercises to improve flexibility, endurance and overall fitness. Participants will be able to work out at their own pace.

The cost is $25 for 30 classes and registration is on a first-come, first-serve basis weekdays at the Recreation Dept. from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Registration will also be taken at the class site on the first day.

By KERRY BYRNE

With the year coming to a close it's time to take a look back at some of the more memorable events in local sports.

Here is a collection of the best and worst of 1994 with a smattering of holiday cheer:

Best Individual Performance (tie): North Quincy hooper Sara Stanton, who broke her own all-time Red Raider scoring record with 41 points in a 73-50 loss to Barnstable. Morrisette Legion baseball player Dave Reinhardt who, in three consecutive at-bats, knocked balls out of big league-sized Adams Field.

Most Inspired Team Performance: The North Quincy High Girls' Volleyball team. Coach Jim Rendle expected a "rebuilding" year, but his team battled all the way to the Division I state finals before bowing to powerful New Bedford.

Best Ending: Quincy High football coach Jack Raymer going out with a bang - a 21-14 win over North on Thanksgiving Day.

Best Reason To Root For Boston College: Quincy High offensive lineman Butch Palaza, who will suit up for the Maroon & Gold next year.

Worst Mistake By A Local Sportswriter: Assuming that my girlfriend Becky didn't want anything for Christmas when she said that capitalism had taken all the joy out of the holiday season. Big no-no.

Most Well-Rounded Quincy Athlete: Quincy High Senior Mike Feeley, a three-year starter in football, a top-notch heavyweight wrestler, and the co-captain and co-founder of the Quincy sailing team.

Most Exciting Local Sports Team: Last season's North Quincy high hockey team boasted a first time in Jim Sapienza, Brendan O'Brien and A.J. Carthas. At one point they ranked 1-2-3 in scoring in the Old Colony League. Sapienza now plays for Merrimack College. O'Brien and Carthas still wear the Red & Black.

Most Annoying Dick Vitale Saying That Rhymes With Christmas Tree: "That's a three, ba-by."

Best Professional Sports Name That Rhymes With Mistletoe: Drew Bledsoe.

Worst Nickname For A Quarterback Whose Name Rhymes With Mistletoe: The Walla Walla Wonder.

Most Vicious Beating: Media All-Stars 7, City Officials 3. Our elected leaders were barely able to muster a hit in the annual charity softball game.

Worst Ted Williams Imitation: State Rep. Mike Bellotti striking out during the City Officials-Media All-Stars slo-pitch softball game. A local sports scribe called Bellotti "an embarrassment to the community."

Worst Mistake By A Local Sportswriter (Part II): Leaving the Patriots-Vikings game at halftime. You know the game, the one in which Drew Bledsoe broke two all-time passing records; the one that the Pats trailed at halftime, 20-3, only to win in overtime; the one that may have marked a turning point for the franchise after 35 years of futility; the one that began their current seven-game win streak, the longest in the NFL. Yeah, that one.

Best Nicknames For Quincy Youth Hockey Players: Andy (Stonewall) Patten, Richard (Rolling) Stone, Jimmy (Slashin') Cashins, Brian (The Flying Irishman) O'Hanley, Brian (Blue Chip) Stock, Adam (Wealth of Goals) Smith, John (Hidden) Tallent.

Top Reason Why Amateur Sports Are Better Than Professional Sports (tie): You won't lose a week's pay taking your family to an amateur sporting event. Amateur athletes don't go on strike.

Best Sports Book: Friday Night Lights, a shocking portrayal of high school football run amok in West Texas. It wasn't written this year, but I just read it this year. Excellent.

Worst Sports Book: Mindless Ramblings, a collection of short works by Kerry Byrne.

Best Answer To A Stupid Question Posed By A Local Sportswriter: Question: "You haven't scored many points the past few Turkey Days against North Quincy, do you hope to change that?" Answer, Quincy High football coach Jack Raymer: "No, we don't want to score any points this year either."

Best Answer To A Stupid Question Posed By Any Sportswriter: No contest, it came from Bill Parcells: "That's a dumb--question. You're a jerk."

Worst Politically Correct Sports Term: Offensive lineperson.

Best Synonym For Political Correctness: Censorship.

Best Motivational Tool Before A Big Football Game (tie): Ripping locker room doors off steel-reinforced hinges. Mike Falco.

Worst Place To Take A Date On New Year's Eve: Al's Sub Shack and Oil Lube. Becky didn't like that place as much as I thought she would.

Best Place To Watch Monday Night Football: Cronin's Publix House.

Squirt B's Pound South Boston

An inspired Quincy Youth Hockey Squirt B team shocked South Boston, 8-1.

Mark Tetreault scored four goals to power the Quincy squad. Brian Cooper lit the lamp three times.

John Chevalier netted the other Quincy goal.

Ryan McFarland handed out two assists and Jim Chiochio dished out one.

Goalender Bruce Maggio played superb hockey as he frustrated the Southie boys throughout the contest.

Blue liners Pam Sullivan, Scott Markarian, Jim

Devlin, Sean Moriarty and Chevalier were outstanding.

Matt Alleva, who has been sidelined with a broken ankle, helped rally the Quincy troops from the bench.

Women's Fitness Classes Begin Jan. 4

The Quincy Recreation Department will conduct exercise classes Monday and Wednesday evenings at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School gymnasium.

The classes begin Jan. 4. The 6 p.m. class will include high- and low-impact aerobics. The 7 p.m. class will feature exercises designed to improve tone, flexibility and endurance of specific body areas.

Both classes will be taught by Debbie Vacca.

Registration can be done at the classes and participants can choose from two options for payment. A $30 one-time fee will cover all classes from Jan. 4 through April 26. A $3 charge for an individual class can be paid at the time of the class.

Participants in the 7 o'clock program may also take part in the adult swim at 8 o'clock.

A towel or exercise mat and proper gym attire are recommended.

Storm Hits Hard, But It Could Have Been Worse

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

City officials are saying Quincy is fortunate that the storm that blasted the region with heavy winds and rain this past weekend did not cause more damage than it did.

Public Works Commissioner David Colton said he breathed a sigh of relief after the storm because new sea walls had just been completed two weeks before.

Colton said it was because of the sea walls, especially those along Post Island, Heron Beach and Adams Shore, that "we didn't get the flooding we most definitely would have had." He added that construction of the sea walls throughout the city began two years ago and had just been completed recently, saying, "damage was much less because of it."

Mayor James Sheets, who had declared a local state of emergency as early as 6 a.m. Saturday, said, "the real problem was the downed power lines and trees caused by the high winds. We wanted to make sure there were no children playing in those areas."

Sheets said at least 500 homes on about 40 city streets were affected by the downed lines, with the worst damage apparently taking place in the Squantum area.

The mayor toured part of the city with Quincy Emergency Management Deputy Director Tony Siciliano. Two telephone poles were downed at Paperama on the Parkway, while the Woolworth's store in Quincy Center lost two glass plate windows that were blown off, he noted.

Sheets said "I think Tony's people did a great job, as they usually do." He also praised the police and fire departments for the work they did during the storm.

Siciliano had praise for 10 high school students from Quincy High School whose homes he called early Saturday morning and who worked from 3 a.m. until 7 p.m. Christmas Eve. The students have formed a new team called the "Incident Command System Emergency Management Team" according to Siciliano, who said he "gives them a lot of credit for helping us out" and noted that the group assisted in the blocking of some 40 streets that had power lines downed, as well as assisting the traffic and parking personnel.

Siciliano said there were nearly 250 phone calls to the police during the storm reporting loss of power or flooding.

Parks, Forestry and Cemetery Executive Director Tom Koch said about 150 locations throughout the city had large limbs or trees scattered all over the streets. A number of streets were closed because of power lines. He said they had to wait for Mass Electric before his department could repair any damage.

Koch to his knowledge, parts of Merrymount and Wollaston were the hardest hit areas he saw. He said the department worked all day Saturday to make sure there were "no safety hazards". The men began again Tuesday morning and will "work until the job is finished." Koch said.

Police Chief Francis Mullen said a team effort between Quincy Emergency Management and the city's police, fire, parks and public works departments helped resolve problems caused by the storm very quickly.

"Everyone worked together as a team, and that's so important because we all need each other," he said.

Mullen also commended the American Red Cross and Salvation Army who provided food and supplies and other assistance to those who needed it during the storm.

Meteorologist Rob Gilman called the storm a "severe Northeast" and said a total of 2.35 inches of rain fell in Quincy. He said winds were from the Northeast and by late Friday and early Saturday, winds ranged from 35 to gusts up to 80 miles per hour.

A TREE ON Roberts Lane in Wollaston fell across the street during Saturday's storm, blocking the roadway to traffic and nearly damaging this automobile. (Tony Siciliano photo)

Public Hearing On Proposed Shaw's Supermarket Jan. 11

The Quincy Planning Board will hold a public hearing on a proposed Shaw's Supermarket on the North Quincy-Wollaston line Wednesday, Jan. 11 at 7 p.m. in the second floor Conference Room at City Hall Annex, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Shaw's has proposed building a single-story structure comprised of a 56,200-square-foot grocery supermarket with a 2,000-square-foot mezzanine, and an attached 27,925-square-foot retail store currently planned to house two tenants. The project would be constructed at the site of the former Boston Gear Works at 10 Hayward St. and 477-479 Hancock St.

The company withdrew a proposal to build a store at the site last year after members of the City Council, notably Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan and Ward 6 Councillor Bruce Ayers, voiced opposition to the project because of neighborhood concerns about traffic and other issues. The site straddles the line between the two wards.

Phelan said earlier this year the council has agreed to give Shaw's a second chance to make a presentation because the company has made significant changes to its original plan.

Mariano Hails Rejection Of Proposed 20.3 Percent Health Insurance Increase

Rep. Ronald Mariano has hailed state Insurance Commissioner Linda Rutherford's recent decision to reject the Blue Cross/Blue Shield 20.3 percent rate increase request for "Medex Gold" Medicare supplemental insurance.

Blue Cross/Blue Shield had asked for the increase to take effect for its Medigap plan Jan. 1.

Mariano, who three weeks ago announced his intention to co-sponsor legislation to freeze the 1995 rates at their current levels, said the commissioner's decision was a great victory for seniors, and probably the direct result of legislators' intention to pass a law blocking the increase.

"Too many of Quincy's senior citizens struggle daily to live within their fixed income without this additional burden," he said. Mariano was joined by 70 of his colleagues in calling on Rutherford to deny the rate increase request.

However, there is still the possibility of a rate increase. Blue Cross/Blue Shield can submit a new rate request at any time, with the understanding that the request be under 5 percent and that "Medex Standard" policy rates be simultaneously reduced by 6 percent.

"The best outcome would be a denial of any rate request; however, we have stopped an outrageous one," said Mariano.

After July 1995, Blue Cross/Blue Shield can come back with any proposal, including another 20 percent request. Mariano pledged to reactivate a freeze effort if Blue Cross/Blue Shield returns in July with an excessive request.

Quincy Hospital Expands Asian Liaison Services

The Quincy Hospital's Asian Services Department has recently expanded in response to an increasing need for services for Quincy's growing Asian community.

The hospital provides outreach, education, transportation and translation services.

Originally designed as a part-time position four years ago, the Asian Services Liaison Amanda Lee recently expanded her services from part-time to full-time in response to the steady increase in Quincy's Asian population which now numbers more than 11,000. Quincy Hospital treats two or three Asian patients a day.

Lee sees her role as "bridging the gap between two cultures and helping the Asian community adapt to a health care system different from that of their own countries."

For further information, call Quincy Hospital's Asian Services, 479-8195.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

SCOTT DEWARE

As we go through life, what we think and what we do has an effect on the lives of others. We may think we have little or no influence, but we do, and we usually underestimate this. Each day we live, we touch the lives of others. Each life we touch changes because of us. Many of the lives we touch through out our existence will neither benefit or be harmed because of us. But, again, we have more power than we think we do and most of the time we never know how we influence the lives of others for the better.

What we do does matter to our family and friends, to our communities and to our country... What our country does influences our region and our state... Our state in one way or another touches the lives of the rest of the people living in the United States... And the people of the United States have, and will in the years to come, have a major impact on all the other people in the world. Get the picture?

Our resolution for 1995 should be to make the world a better place to live. Let's all do our part. Yes, our world can be changed for the better, but only if we, each of us, decide it can.

Designer Contract Awarded For $9M Library Addition

CBT's design team was "very responsive to library concerns," which also impressed Crane officials.

Another important consideration was the fact that CBT plans to bring in Aaron Cohen, a nationally-known library design consultant, to work on the project, McLaughlin said.

Among the library projects CBT has previously worked on is an addition to the Parlin Public Library in Everett, a project McLaughlin described as "very similar" to what will be done with the Crane building.

"You can't tell where the original building was and where the new building begins," Mc-Laughlin said of the Everett library, which she and other Crane officials recently traveled to see.

Like the Crane library, the Parlin library is registered as a National Historic Landmark, she added.

Shepley designed the Waltham Public Library and "many academic libraries" and is currently working on renovations for the Boston Public Library, McLaughlin said.

The other four finalists for the Crane project were Anthony Tappe Associates of Boston, Graham Gund Architects of Cambridge, Lohed Design Partnership of Somerville and John M. Sheskey and Associates of Quincy.

"It was a difficult choice," said McLaughlin. "They all had the technical expertise."

Plans call for a 40,000-square-foot addition and 50 to 100 parking spaces for the Crane site at 40 Washington St. About one-third of the $9 million project is expected to be paid for by a state bond issue for library reconstruction, while the rest will be funded by city monies including a bond issue and other fund-raisers, McLaughlin said.

CBT will begin working on a "schematic drawing" and cost estimate of the project this week, McLaughlin noted. The company must have its plans ready before the library applies for the state funding in March.

McLaughlin said grant applicants will be notified of how much funding they will receive in July, and she expects to receive 30 to 35 percent of the money needed for the project. CBT will have up to 15 months after grant notification to complete its design work, after which the city will send out a request for proposals (R.F.P.) to find a construction firm to build the addition.

Construction is expected to take "a couple of years" before it is completed, McLaughlin said. She added that the project will be done "in phases" so that the library may remain open during construction.

The Co-Operative Bank Obtains SBA Approval

The Co-operative Bank with branches in Quincy, has been designated as an approval lender for The United States Small Business Administration (SBA).

"This is a tremendous opportunity for us to serve the needs of entrepreneurs who might not otherwise be able to obtain financing," said David Bradbury, chairman and Chief Executive Officer. "Positioning ourselves to be able to make SBA loans allows us to be an even more effective resource to the communities we serve. We pride ourselves on our outstanding Community Reinvestment Act rating and will continue to be an active participant in community development." SBA loans have helped thousands of small companies get started, expand and prosper. The U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) 7 (a) Loan Guarantee Program can finance the varied long-term needs of small businesses when the necessary funds are unavailable through normal lending channels.

The Co-operative Bank is a state chartered co-operative bank with assets of $780 million. It is headquartered in Acton with 15 full service retail banking offices.

Vincent DeSantis Completes Basic Training

Navy Seaman Recruit Vincent J. DeSantis, son of Vincent J. DeSantis of 106 Sachem St., Wollaston, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, DeSantis completed a variety of training which included classroom study, practical hands-on instruction, and an emphasis on physical fitness.

In particular, he learned naval customs, first aid, fire fighting, water safety and survival, and a variety of safety skills required for working around ships and aircraft.

Sheltering Coalition To Receive $10,000 Grant

Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition (QISC) was recently notified that it will receive a $10,000 grant from the Sears-Phil Collins Grant Program to Help End Homelessness.

The award was made to support QISC's housing search program which, in cooperation and partnership with the Greater Boston Housing Initiative (GBHI), provides housing search services to homeless adults seeking placement and assistance in housing.

"We are hoping to make this service a full-time position at Father Bill's Place," said Executive Director Joseph Finn.

The Sears-Phil Collins Partnership raised more than $1.3 million for homeless organizations across the United States. Through the program, more than $725,000 will be distributed nationally to 61 organizations. QISC's application was selected from more than 2,500 applicants to be a grant recipient.

Finn said the "major architect" of the program and proposal was Joyce Tavon of GBHI.

"She has designed an innovative an collaborative network for housing search for homeless adults in the Greater Boston area," he said. "Our proposal relied heavily on her design and ideas."

Tavon also expressed excitement about the award.

"Since the inception of GBHI this year, over 60 homeless individuals have been placed in permanent housing, a significant number of them from Quincy," she said. "I hope this grant will allow them to assist even more homeless people."

Another reason for the strength of the proposal was the support of Mayor James Sheets and the City of Quincy, Finn added.

"The mayor's recommendation of the proposal really showed a strong commitment on the part of the community to move homeless people beyond shelter," he said. "Today, that is an important part of any proposal to end homelessness. I am certain that the grant makers considered the strong local support and cooperation as a key factor in their decision."

The actual award will be made in mid-January.

WHAT TO EXPECT FROM MAMMOGRAPHY

For someone who has age and family history of breast cancer.

thought of a mammogram can be a little frightening. Will it hurt? Who should really have one, and how often? The answer to the first and most often asked-question is that mammograms are NOT painful. The test is done by momentarily compressing the breasts one at a time between plastic plates; this may cause minor, temporary discomfort, but not serious pain. Low-dose X-rays are then taken by the technician, and the results are read by a radiologist specially trained in mammography. The procedure is often completed in 10 or 15 minutes. Many factors go into determining who might best benefit from a mammogram, including

P.S. Mammograms are not foolproof. They should be combined with monthly self-exams and annual doctor's visits.

Routine mammograms are recommended for women over forty to help with the early detection of breast cancer. At COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE, Dr. Lisa Antonelli and myself are dedicated to the compassionate and caring practice of medicine. We are conveniently located at 700 Congress St., Suite 2C, in Quincy. Office hours by appointment. I am affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospital. I am also board certified in cardiology and internal medicine. Call 472-2550 for an appointment.
